LONDON AND ENVIRONS.
—Edward Lowe, of London, is spending a few days in Aylmer.
—The police magistrate discharged four drunks this morning.
—Mr. A. M. Hare, this city, is visiting his parents at Tilsonburg.
—A. M. Gunn, of this city, was registered in Winnipeg last Friday.
—This is the longest day of the year, the sun rising at 4:36 and setting at 8:03.
—Mr. Wesley Webb, detective for the Ontario Medical Association, has resigned his position.
—Miss Florence Green, this city, is the guest of her sister, Miss A. Green, at the Lezar House, Ridgeway.
—Messrs. S. S. and W. H. Wortman, of this city, were summoned to Chicago Saturday night by telegraph to the death bed of their brother David.
—Miss Lila Gilroy, M.L.A., of Stockton, Cal., was visiting her former college chum, Miss E. L. Orme, M.E.L., Richmond street, last week.
—Mr. W. Avey, proprietor of the Metropolitan Hotel of this city, who has been seriously ill, is much improved and will soon be able to come down stairs.
—An open meeting of the People's Five Year Room on King street will be held this evening in the Foresters' Hall, Aylmer building, to which the public are cordially invited.
—About $400 damage was done at the tannery of Mr. C. S. Hyman, M.P., Richmond street, by the rain storms on Sunday.
—The fall of water on the block pavement was so great that it overflowed the curbing and sidewalk, and made its way into the vats at the tannery, doing considerable harm.
—The trustees of the Protestant Orphans' Home desire to express their sincere appreciation of the kindness of Mr. Geo. C. Gibbs, who on June 15 gave the children and inmates of the institution a rare treat and picnic at the club house, taking the little ones out in busses, and giving them a regular feast on the grounds and a taste of pleasure they will not soon forget.
—About the year 1863 there flourished in an upper room on King street a debating club, some of the members of which hold prominent positions in the oratorical world. Rev. Walter Rigby, of London; Rev. W. G. Henderson, Zion Church, Winnipeg; Rev. James Allen, who is coming to the Continent, and Rev. Mr. Routledge, were all members of this club.—(Hamilton Times).

The Minstrel Boys!
Prepare for the minstrel boys from London! They are booked for the Chatham Grand Thursday next. No one who has ever attended a show by the London Young Libians will regret that he would regret if he would be that the curtain rang down an hour or so too early. Everybody will turn out Thursday night and pack the Opera House from pit to dome. London Young Libians are good, and they know it. Even their politics can't spoil them.—(Chatham Planet).

To-Night's Band Concert.

The C. W. A. Meet.
At least 30 of the Forest City Bicycle Club will attend the annual meeting of the Canada Wheelmen's Association at Kingston on July 1, 2, 3 and 4. They will be clad in the Highland costume, and will present a novel sight. Under the instruction of Alex. and James Milne they are perfecting themselves in a number of Scotch dances. They practice each evening in the second flat above McCallum's drug store. All those who intend visiting Kingston with the club are requested to attend the practices.
The L. and F. R. Accident.
Messrs. Andrew Scott (foreman), Peter McGill, John Anderson, William Raip, John Muir, John Burrett, Charles Cutler, J. Ralph James, Thompson, Sidney A. Smith, Clark Lee, George Deas, John Brady, John Nichol, Robert Fisher, Neil McGill, and Malcolm McPherson composed the jury summoned by Detective Graham, and empaneled by Coroner Flock to inquire into the death of W. Alexander Scott, who was found dead on the L. and F. S. R. at Glanworth on Saturday morning by James Allen and Clark Fisher. Mrs. Shore, aunt of deceased, is the only known relative in Canada. The evidence of George Nichol, by whom Scott was employed, was heard. He testified that deceased had left home, stating that he was going to attend the Westminster school picnic at Port Stanley on Friday. The witness had known Scott to drink, but not for some time past. The inquest was then adjourned until Thursday.

ONE BIG SPIDER DROPS FROM THE CEILING
Almost Upon Mr. C. E. Gilbert's Face.
SAN ANTONIO, June 21.—The past few months seem to have been favorable for the propagation of tarantulas. The weather has been unusually dry, and the poisonous things are now more numerous in this city and throughout southwest Texas than ever before known. Some very narrow escapes from the sting of the tarantula are reported in this city.
The other day, while C. E. Gilbert was taking a siesta on a bed in a rear room of his store building, his rest was suddenly disturbed by something dropping near his head on the pillow, and he saw a large tarantula coming directly toward his face only a few inches away. Mr. Gilbert reached the floor in a single bound, and was looking around for something with which to kill the invader, when his attention was attracted by another tarantula which had entered the room from the rear door, and was evidently seeking its companion. With the aid of a wooden paddle and a large paper sack Mr. Gilbert bagged both tarantulas. Placing them in a glass case, he then returned to search for more. He had hardly reached the back yard when he saw two more tarantulas moving along side by side toward the open door over the graveled walk. He bagged these, and presently three more were found, and all were captured. The whole family of seven were reunited by being placed in the glass case, where they have become tame, and now amuse persons by snapping flies and other insects placed in their cage.
The tarantula pest is complained of in nearly all parts of Mexico. Owing to the recent drought in the State of Durango lives of children are in constant danger. The statistics recently compiled by the Government of that State show that one-tenth of the deaths of children in the city of Durango were produced by the fatal sting of the tarantula.

LEGAL QUERIES.
FENCE RAILS.—A and B own lands on each side of a creek, which during a recent freshet carried off about 1,000 fence rails from B's and about 600 from A's lands. The rails passed across a road and lodged against a rail on the lands of C. Can C give these rails to A after appropriating to his own use what may be necessary to rebuild his own fence which was carried off by the jam in which the rails of A and B lodged? Ans.—The ownership of the rails still remains in A and B if they can identify them, and C has therefore no right to take them for his own use or to give away. A and B may lawfully enter upon the lands of C to recover their rails, but do so no unnecessary damage in doing so.
WIDDER.—I. A owns 150 acres and B 200 acres adjoining. A's lot is fenced on the north side and B's on the south side. Forty acres in the rear of B's lot is bush, and 80 acres of B's lot in the rear is bush, with no fence between. A's lot is leased, and his tenant turns cattle into the bush. Can C compel A to build his share of the fence, B having done his share of fence? Ans.—Not upon the facts as stated. 2. Would you consider that A's tenant occupied his part of the bush when he used it for pasture. Ans.—Not unless the 40 acres is fenced on the other side. 3. What is the meaning of occupied lands in law? Ans.—Being inclosed in the highway and used for any purpose, such as a nursery, pasture, dwelling, pleasure grounds, park, etc.

In 1800 Philadelphia had nearly 10,000 more population than New York. The figures were 70,228 and 60,489. Cosmetics cost the fair Americans $62,000,000 a year.
