WEEKLY REVIEW.
LONDON. Wednesday, Dec. 24.

Very few changes are to be noted in values

the exceptions on Saturday, turkeys sold at Se

I am of the opinion that, while the question is not free from doubt, the general Municipal Act, as to the change of the wards applies, and that the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, upon the proper proceedings being taken, may divide the city into three wards. The question of reducing the wards will be one for the Council of 1881 to deal with, and it need not be bound by the expression of the opinion of the ratepayers taken upon the bylaw which you have referred to.

Christmas at the Asylum.

As usual a large amount of Christmas decoration is being done at this institution; in fact, almost completed. The spacious amusement hall is festooned with hundreds of yards of evergreen, woven together into wreaths for the purpose, swinging from beam to beam and draped from the gables at either end of the walls. This, with the addition of a number of flags, give the room a very lively and festive appearance. The dining-rooms and some of the other halls are also decorated with more or less of this extensively used evergreen—Arbor Vitu (tree of life) There is also in preparation the decorating of two huge Christmas trees, which are fairly loaded down to the aimost breaking of their bows with the many good and useful articles that are cowded upon them as presents for the patients. Indeed, a very large number of the patients have been looking forward to this season of the vear for a considerable time with a great deal of interest. This involves a vast amount of labor on the part of many of the asylum staff. In accord with the kindiy-conceived plan by which mental as well as physical recreation is provided the numerous colony at the asylum, Rev. H. C. Speller, pastor of Adelaide Street Baptist Church, last evening gave an interesting lecture on "Taik" in the large hall of the above institution. The reverend gentleman's subject was "Scraps of Life in Loudon," the lecturer describing in a pleasing manner some of the most interesting sights and phases of life in the great metropolis, dealing with the subject sometimes in a humorous and occasionally in a pathetic vein. The interest of the large audience was sustained throughout, the lecturer beein remarked with the heartiest and names. ous and occasionally in a pathetic veni. The interest of the large audience was sustained throughout, the lecturer being rewarded with the heartiest applause. Dr. Bucke occupied the chair, and the excellent asylum band gave some good musical selections.

Medical Talk to the "Y's."

Medical Talk to the "Y's."

The closing lecture of the "Y" medical rourse, given in their rooms last evening was one of the best that has been delivered, which is saying much, where all have been excellent, and consisted in a charming talk by Dr. Cl. T. Campbell on "How to Grow "Old." Briefly reviewing the period of longevity among the different human races from the earliest period until the present, stating some of the causes that contributed to it, illustrated by the sweating processes of the ancient Egyptian. the present, stating some of the causes that contributed to it, illustrated by the sweating processes of the ancient Egyptian, the gymnastics of the Greek and frequent bath of the Roman, the lecturer proceeded to show how each and all of these were insufficient for the perfect development of the well-preserved, allound man, and put emphasis on the fact that only as the mental and moral nature kept pase with the physical-perfect cleanliness, with temperate diet, comfortable clothing, sufficient but not under exercise for the physical, with equal care that the mental and moral nature receive equal thought and attention—could makind reach a comfortable and tranquil threescore and ten or beyond. The lecturer then closed with some beautifully-expressed thoughts on the true aims of life, which should be not so much length of days, as days enriched with a beautiful meaning and noble purpose, which after all only made life worth living. At the close of the medical course the "Y's." would like in this way to heartily thank and send the season's greetings to those city physicians who so cheerfully and at much personal sacrifice responded to nank and send the season's greetings to nose city physicians who so cheerfully and t much personal sacrifice responded to heir call by such admirable and practical attalks in their rooms, which have served the double purpose of being useful to the society and largely contributing in bringing their work before the public. Christmas Boxes in South London.

Santa Claus was present in his fantastic costume last evening at the annual Christmas tree of the Emery street mission, Sou'a London. Mr. Wm. Yates presided and introduced a programme, instrumental and vocal, rendered in a manner which reflected creditably on the youthful contributors and on Mrs. Potts, who conducted the affair. An interesting feature was the presentation, on behalf of the committee, to Miss A. Dadd of a handsome moroeco-bound Bible and a volume of sacred songs and hymns. The address was read by Mrs. Jas. W. T. Park and the gift presented by Miss Horne. A most enjoyable time was spent by the large crowd present. Mr. Geo. Hickson impersonated Santa Claus. Christmas Boxes in South London
