to Murder in the First Degree -The Guldensuppe Case Postponed-Durrant Resentenced.

Bayfield, Nov. 11.-The developments in the Bayfield tragedy are so far not very clear. Yesterday was taken up with the coroner's inquest, many witnesses being examined, but only one person. Thomas Clarke, was able to give a clear report of what took place. Clarke said he was at King's store about ten o'clock Monday evening. He heard loud talking in front of the hotel, and walked across. He noticed the mother and sister trying to get Harvey into the house, but they could not do so. Someone was holding Harvey, while Fred was standing on the platform, with a reverver in his hand, carrying his arm by his side. Fred remarked that he would shoot Harvey if they did not take him away. Harvey replied that he was not afraid of being shot. Harvey then got free from his captors, and, throwing off his overcoat, made a rush at Fred, who fired at Harvey, who $115,000 per annum. He is understood had got to within about four feet of Fred. Harvey may have struck Fred, but witness did not think so. Fred had plenty of time to go away while the others were holding Harvey if he had desired to do so. No one was holding Harvey when the shot was fired. Drs. Sheppard and Gray reported the location of the wound, which was close to the heart. THE VERDICT.

The jury brought in the following verdict: "That Harvey Elliott came to his death by a bullet fired from a revolver in the hands of his brother, Fred Elliott, on the night of Nov. 8."
