A Sign of the Times.

The Minister of Railways and Canals, besides putting vigor into the management of the Intercolonial Railway, has shown a commendable degree of independence in dealing with the great railway corporations. Until he took hold of the system the Intercolonial was not in any sense a rival of the other trunk roads. One end of it was little better than a stub line for the C. P. R. Mr. Blair has proved that the country has a genuine asset in the Intercolonial, and that the control of Government ownership and control of railways may exist in practice as well as in theory. His recent speech on this subject at Vancouver has drawn some criticism. It is too progressive to please everyone, even in his own party, but it is in accord with the tendency of the times, and with a growing public sentiment in Canada. Mr. Blair said:

"There are young men, and perhaps middle-aged men, who are listening to me, who will see three or four transcontinental lines running through Canada. And they will be burdened with the numerous products which the earth will yield, and in order that the best results may follow from that, it is unquestionably necessary that the rates which obtain for the transport of these products should be as low as possible. The ideal condition for Canada from a railway point of view would have been that the Government should have traversed this continent with a Government railway. I am not so sure that the idea is fanciful or chimerical. I dream sometimes of a prolongation by water and rail of the Government system which we now know by the name of the Intercolonial Railway."

"I dream that with the extension of the rail and water line, nothing would prove so fruitful of progress as the realization to the people of this great west than to run the railway right through to the Pacific coast and operate it upon, I will not say merely economical rates, but upon rates sufficient to pay working expenses, without dividend, for the Government or anyone else. That has been my dream. I dream that still, and I believe that it would be of no disadvantage, even from a financial standpoint, to the people of this Dominion, either east or west. I believe we would not feel the burden. I believe we would not know we had a road resting upon our shoulders."

The Oppression of the Jews.

Oppression in Eastern Europe is driving hordes of destitute Jews to Great Britain and the United States. The American Secretary of State has appealed to the great powers to intervene on behalf of the Jews in Roumania, but his entreaty is likely to find sympathy only from the British Government. Major Evans Gordon, M. P., a member of the British royal commission on alien immigration, declares that the influx into England of Jewish refugees from the continent has become a menace, socially and industrially. Great Britain may be compelled to depart from her traditional policy of the open door, and impose some tests or restrictions to stay the tide of pauper immigration. She has more than a sentimental reason for strengthening the hand of the United States in the present situation. Article XLIV of the Berlin treaty lays down that "in Roumania the difference of religions, creeds, and confessions shall not be alleged against any person as a ground for exclusion or incapacity in matters relating to the enjoyment of civil and political rights, admission to public employments, functions and honors, or the exercise of various professions and industries in any locality whatsoever, which Article XLIII declares the recognition of Roumanian independence to be conditional on the acceptance of these terms. Roumanian independence has been acknowledged by all the powers, and yet the Jews, or "allens," as they are called - for there is no specific legislation against the Jews - remain virtually excluded from civil and political rights, from public employments - not to speak of honors - and from almost all professions and industries. It is true that, in deference to the representation of the powers, Article VII of the constitution, which forbade the naturalization of Jews, was modified, but the attainment of citizenship has been fettered by so many formalities and restrictions that, out of a Jewish population estimated at 400,000, only some hundreds have now the right to call themselves Roumanians. It is difficult to avoid the conclusion that the underlying intention of these enactments is to compel the Jews to emigrate. Many of the humbler walks of life are now closed to them; they cannot now serve as employees in public offices or on the railways; they are forbidden to trade as itinerant hawkers or as rural innkeepers, and are practically prevented from acquiring land, or even from cultivating it for others. While excluded from the rights of citizenship, they are compelled to undergo all its burdens; they are subjected, for instance, to military service, though ineligible for commissions in the army.

The unfortunate position of the Jews in Roumania is due far less to religious prejudice than to the jealous national spirit of the Roumanians. A small nation, encompassed by hostile races, the Roumanians are possessed to an abnormal degree by the instinct of self-preservation. The sentiment of hostility to aliens is strongly developed in all the young Balkan States, but Roumanians alone possess a large Jewish population. The miserable condition of the Russian Jews is an important factor in the question, for it is feared that a relaxation of the existing laws would induce a great immigration from Poland and Bessarabia. The admission of the Jews to the ownership of land is a question of vital import to the economic future of the country. The disasters which followed the failure of the harvest of 1899 brought into prominence the need for the regeneration of agriculture, as well as the unwisdom of allowing vast tracts of state land to lie waste, while thousands of potential cultivators are shut up in the towns. The agricultural problem can be solved only by the settlement of the Jews on the land. It is believed that the indolent and thriftless Roumanian peasant would succumb before the quick-witted, parsimonious and industrious Hebrew colonist, who would presently lend his neighbor money and eventually become master of his labor and his crops, though debarred by law from taking possession of his land. There is something "uncanny" in the energy and acquisitiveness of the Jew, which revolts and alarms the Roumanian mind. The best hope for the Jew lies in the near approach of the critical moment when the Roumanian floating debt must be converted by means of a great loan, the influence of Jewish capitalists may then do more for their suffering kindred than the whole force of humanitarian sentiment on both sides of the Atlantic.

John Mitchell has certainly made a great strike. There is no nest of traitors in the present cabinet.

Russia's present intrigue in Afghanistan and Great Britain's wary attitude recall Kipling's warning: "Beware of Adam Zed, the bear that looks like a man."

The decision of the miners to return to work at once is the best Christmas present the public could have. Let's hope the coal will arrive before Santa Claus though.

The Venezuelans are fighting one another like Kilkenny cats. If the result is the same as in the famous Kilkenny encounter it will be a bad thing for the Venezuelans, but it may be a good thing for Venezuela.

The Ontario election petitions which are still to be tried are as follows: South Oxford, against E. L. Sutherland, Conservative, Dec. 1 (adjourned date).

Lincoln, against Dr. Jessop, Conservative, Oct. 23.

North Perth, against J. C. Monteith, Conservative, Oct. 28.

North Norfolk, against Dr. Snider, Conservative, Nov. 4.

North Westwirth, against R. A. Thompson, Liberal, Nov. 4.

North Grey, against A. G. McKay, Liberal, Nov. 11.

Glengarry, against W. D. McLeod, Conservative, Nov. 11.

The majorities in North Norfolk, North Westwirth, North Perth and North Grey are very small.

Mr. John A. Ewan, of the Toronto Globe, who has been writing an admirable series of letters from the anthracite coal regions, makes a strong plea for compulsory arbitration in the future. "The coal strike," he says, "has demonstrated that the evil effects of these conflicts are not confined to masters and men. Had the coal strike continued, had no third party stepped in between the stubbornly contending forces, there would have been an area of acute suffering as wide as half the continent, which under the present laws of the United States or of Pennsylvania the public would have been helpless to escape. Nor did the coal strike differ from strikes in their degree of loss and privation on the community. The cause of arbitration has undoubtedly been strengthened during the course of this struggle."

The growth of a comparatively new industry in Germany is well illustrated in a recent report by the United States Consul-General in Berlin upon the manufacture and use of briquettes. These briquettes, made from brown coal, peat, and the dust and waste of coal mines, are largely used for domestic fuel in Berlin and other large cities and districts. They are also employed by the railways for their locomotives. They have the distinct advantage of being clean and convenient to handle, of lighting easily and quickly, of burning with a clear, intense flame, and of making practically no smoke, in addition to all of which they have shown themselves to be, for most purposes, the cheapest form of fuel. Last year 1,643,416 tons were made.

Perpetuity. [Clinton Scollard.] Last night a mighty poet passed away; Who now will sing our songs? cried at noon. Faint hearts, fear not! Somewhere, though far away, At that same hour another bard was born.

Here, Here. [Hamilton Herald.] Let us have a sensible and scientific shade-tree policy.

The Arbitration Principle. [Ottawa Free Press.] The principle of arbitration has now received a renewed impetus. Having brought about the settlement of the coal strike perhaps President Roosevelt will kindly take Canada into his confidence and allow that Alaskan matter to go to a friendly tribunal.

Refusal to do so implies fear that the United States case is not a strong one.

Life. [Richard Coe, Jun.] An infant on its mother's breast - A bouncing boy at play - A youth by maiden's side - An old man, silver-gray - Is all of life we know! A joy - a fear - A smile - a tear - And all is over below!

When in Doubt, Etc. [New York Times.] Bishop Brewster, of Connecticut, tells this story illustrative of his wife's cleverness. One day they visited a mission school, and in kindly catechizing the children he asked: "Who is your neighbor?"

A dead silence followed the question. Finally one little girl raised her hand and made the most unexpected and amazing reply, "God."

On the way home the bishop said to his wife: "Now, what do you suppose that child had in mind to give such an answer?"

"I suppose," replied Mrs. Brewster, "that she was following that rule of a great many older people, when in doubt play trumps."

Two Truths. [Helen Hunt Jackson.] "Darling," he said, "I never meant to hurt you." And his eyes were wet. "I would not hurt you for the world; I would blame if I found fault."

"Forgive my selfish tears," she cried. "I know that it was not because you meant to hurt me, sweet - I knew it was that you forgot!"

But all the same, deep in her heart, thought and ruminated yet: When love is at its best one loves So much that he cannot forget.

Mr. Whitney Didn't Know. [Brookville Recorder.] One thousand two hundred and twenty-nine patients have been admitted to Brookville's asylum since its erection. Still Mr. Whitney said on the floor of the House the asylum was not needed, and he and every one of his followers voted against it.

MUSIC AND DRAMA. AT ST. PAUL'S TONIGHT. One of the most important musical events of the season is the engagement of the Coronation Choir at St. Paul's Cathedral tonight. Those who wish to hear the beautiful music rendered on the occasion of the King's coronation will do well not to miss this opportunity.

SEAT SALE TOMORROW. A fine production of the highly successful romantic drama, "The Pride of Venice," is promised for Friday afternoon at the Grand. The play is produced here under the auspices of Percy Sage, and the production is made by arrangement with Daniel Frohman. The scenery is all new and in exact copy of that used in the original production, and all the effects of light, costuming, draperies and other accessories will be exactly as given in New York by the original company.

Sir Wilfrid's Health. Ottawa, Oct. 21.-The improvement in the health of Sir Wilfrid Laurier continues, and the benefit of Sunday's rest was very apparent. His cheeks had a healthier hue, and he was in high spirits.

Murdered by a Janitor. New York, Oct. 21.-Patrick Delaney, an oysterman, was shot and killed by Francis Reilly, janitor of a five-story apartment house at 704 Washington street, while leaning against the railing of the building, smoking a cigar, where he had come for some fresh air after carrying his sick wife to a door away. Reilly, after being taken to jail, declared he had been bothered by intolerable noise and that he did not think if he had to kill someone.

Death of Dr. Selwyn. Ottawa, Oct. 20.-A telegram received in the city yesterday announced the death at Vancouver, B. C., of Dr. Alfred Richard Cecil Selwyn, for twenty years director of the Canadian Geological Survey. He was superannuated several years ago, and has since lived in the West. Death was due to the effects of a cerebral stroke. The staff of the geological survey met this morning and passed a resolution of sympathy with the family of the late Dr. Selwyn. The resolution was telegraphed to Miss Selwyn at Vancouver.

Capture of a Whisky Boat. Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 21.-A sheriff's posse, reinforced by a Gatling gun squad, yesterday afternoon captured the whisky boat of G. H. Hull, and U. G. Hull, his son, and his daughter, Mrs. Vaughan, of Arkansas, aboard the shanty boat Hazel, said to be a whisky boat, from which shots were fired on the sheriff's posse, and his posse of Chicout County, Arkansas, resulting in the wounding of the sheriff and three of his men.

THERE A WILL WISDOM. The sick man pines for relief, but he dislikes sending for a doctor, who will soon tell him that he has consumed his strength, and that he must be content with the resolution to load his stomach with drugs, which will do him no good, but will make him feel worse. But if he have the will to deal with himself with a little common sense, he can get relief from Parnelle's Vegetable Pills, which is a specific for indigestion, and a cure for the digestive system.

CYCLIST KILLED BY STREET CAR. While Endeavoring to Escape a Falling Tree.

CHURCH-GOERS HAD CLOSE CALL. Lifeless Body of a Young Man Picked Up on G. T. R. Track Near Port Hope.

Toronto, Oct. 21.-Charles Oliver, aged 23 years, who lived at 274 Carlton street, was killed yesterday morning by a street car. He was wheeling east, and when in front of 186 Carlton street was warned to look out, as a large tree was being felled there. Oliver turned his wheel only to get in front of a car going east. He was knocked down, ran over and immediately killed. His brother was on a car coming east, and identified the remains.

FOUND DEAD. Port Hope, Ont., Oct. 21.-The body of a young man of 18 or 20 years, subsequently identified as a son of a Wainman of Cornwall, was found along the G. T. R. track, about three miles west of here, early Sunday morning. The coroner was notified, and he brought the body to town on a handcar. It is supposed that some time during Saturday night the young man was either seated a ride and fell off, or was in the act of boarding a moving train, when he was struck. The coroner has decided an inquest unnecessary.

21.-The body of an unknown man, about 35 years of age, was found in the bushes near Fenby school, Port Hope, yesterday afternoon. The man is of fair complexion, and with mustache. The body was found in a ditch, and was lying on its back. It was found by a milkman. Deceased was first seen last Thursday in the same place. He was lying on his back, and his head was resting on a stone. An inquest will be held.

CHURCH FLOOR DROPPED. Omaha, Neb., Oct. 21.-A serious catastrophe was narrowly averted at the First Christian Church on Sunday, when the 500 people who gathered to hear Allen Wilson, of Irvington, Ind., barely escaped being thrown into the basement of the church by the giving way of timbers in the floor. The vast audience passed out quietly, however, without the slightest hurt, and all escaped unhurt. The audience did not know of the peril until all were out of the building, when it was learned that the floor had settled five inches, and that the church, which was an old building, was rendered useless, and it will probably have to be rebuilt.
