A yourseer Betective Force. A few years ago there existed in Russia a sort of private police system which was so peculiar in organization and conduct that a description of it may be interesting. It was tealed the "Holy League." The death of Czar Alexander II. terrified the people no less than the courts. The Hely League was an associa-tion of loyal people to protect the young Ozar, who might well have exclaimed with Henry the Fourth: "May the Lord deliver me from my friends; I can take care of my enemies mysoli." The idea of the association was to protect the young Car from the fate of his father. The Holy League (Loiataja druzina) was a necret order or brotherhood. The members, among them many of the nobility, formed a sort of unpald volunteer police corps. The founders of the league had the idea that they must fight the nihilists with their orw wea-pons, and so everything was conducted with ominous secrecy. One echeme was to offer rewards to workmen and peasants for in-formation about revolutionists or their and their clothes were torn from their bake softers. This led only to futile en-to Switzerland and England to put out of the sourd of unpaid volunteer police corps. Ridgeley took the drummer's part. The ferrymen insulted him for this and attempted to draw their weapons, when Ridgeley shot them both dead. Upon examination Ridgeley was discharged. John Murphy, a brother of one of the men killed, and an uncle of the other, swore to kill Ridgeley on sight. Last night Ridgely on horseback was returning home from a neigh-bor's, and on entering a strip of woods was fired on from ambush. The horse fell dead, but its rider escaped unharmed and rolled over on the opposite side of the horse to that from which the firing proceeded. The two would-be murderers, who were the uncle and brother mentioned, thinking that Ridgeley was dead, approached. When within about ten feet Ridgeley suddenly raised up and shot both assailants dead in their tracks. This makes four men that Ridgeley has killed over a simple ferry boat transaction.]

Massuro Capocci directed the choir, who sang "Ence Sacerdos Magnus." A procession was formed, domisting of the Canadian attudents of the College of the Propagaida and Carmelite Fathers. Cardinal Taschereau was seated upon a throne at the left of the attas. After the reading of the Carmelite Fathers knelt and kissel his hands. The superior then read an address in French, to which Cardinal Tas-chereau replied, also using the French tongue. He said: "Among the innumerable benefits which I owe the Pope, I count the favor of having as my dittar the beautiful church so richly adorned by Prince Torlorai, of which the late Cardinal Jacobiai was itular priest. In Can-ads first enumerable churches, which to day oover the innumerable churches, which to day nother of innumerable churches, which to day over the innumerable churches, which to day in these another dedicated to Mary three centuries are alloys of the St. Law-rence, Mississippi, Winnipeg and Columbia Rivers. At a short distance from the first church rises another dedicated to Motre Dame des Victories, which is a place of pilgrimage where each hour of the day the faithful my be seen imploring grace or offering thanks." After continuum in a similiar strain, traoing coincidence between the ohurch in Canade and his titular ohureh, the Cardinal concluded by sying: "Today is the sixteenth anaitversary of my episcopal consecration.
