Swine.

This department was, as usual, at the Industrial, well filled with prime specimens of each of the numerous breeds.

BEEKSHIRES.—This famous breed were stronger, numerically, than we have seen them for the last three years, there being some seventy entries, while there was as decided advance in all round quality. Messrs. J. G. Snell & Bro. led off with twenty-four entries, headed by their grand aged boar, Baron Lee 4th. Another right good one is Lord Ross. In yearling boars they showed Regalia, a particularly good one, while in the sections for both boars and sows under six months stock by Baron Lee 4th gave abundance of promise for the future usefulness of this grand boar. They had forwarded two capital sows in Royal Lady and Lady Oxford, mother and daughter, while their yearling sows were much admired. Messrs. Snell's pig displayed grand length, smoothness of finish, and aptitude for quick feeding. H. J. Davis, Woodstock, was also a large exhibitor in this class, having eighteen entries. His aged boar was in fine form, and his length and neat finish, while a good yearling by Royal Herbert is of the right stamp, as also is a boar under six months. The sows were also a good lot, and completed a capital display of this popular English breed. Among other exhibitors were A. J. Watson, Castlederg, Thomas Teasdale, Concord; Simmons & Quirie, Ivan, and P. W. Bovnton, Dollar.

IMPROVED YORKSHIRES.—These topped the list in numbers, there having been ninety of these handsome white pigs entered by ten exhibitors. J. E. Brethour had fifteen entries, including his great boar, Dominion, which was placed in the lead in the aged section, Oak Lodge Diamond being third. In younger boars, J. E. Brethour secured a third each for pigs under and over six months. Oak Lodge Primrose is one of the best specimens of a Yorkshire sow yet exhibited. In each of the other sections J. E. Brethour showed fine specimens, scoring first in three sections for sows, and also winning the premium for boar and four of his get under six months. Jos. Featherston, M.P., exhibited a strong herd, winning two red tickets in the sections for boars, one red for sows, together with the family prize for sow and four of her offspring, all the younger pigs being of his own breeding and beautifully brought out. The Isleigh Grange herd had suffered from the previous week's campaign and the long run by rail to Toronto, but a number of their specimens were very much admired. Levi Bowles, Springvale, forwarded some beautifully fitted specimens. His pigs under six months were particularly good, having length, finish, and quality difficult to beat. H. J. Davis, Woodstock, was also among the fortunate exhibitors, and had some capital specimens present.

Awards.—Boar, aged—1st and 3rd, J. E. Brethour, Burford; 2nd, J. Featherston, M.P., Streetsville. Boar, over one and under two years—1st and 3rd, J. Featherston; 2nd, H. J. Davis, Woodstock. Boar, over six and under twelve months—1st, J. POLAND-CHINAS.—This breed had some forty representatives, in which were some as handsome specimens as we have yet seen. W. & H. Jones, Mt. Elgin, were the largest exhibitors, leading off with their imported boar over two years, which they purchased of that noted breeder, Willis E. Gresham, Kansas. A smoothly-finished pig he is, while the young things sired by him are very good indeed. Three of the four first premiums for boars were sent to their herd. Three of the four first premiums for sows were also given them, while the prizes for boar and two sows and both family prizes went to swell the grand list put to their credit. The estate of the late Frank Row had forwarded some nicely-fitted specimens. A capital boar under the year scored a red, while a sow of the same age carried the same honor. Other good ones also carried off honors, completing a very well-brought-out exhibit. W. M. & J. C. Smith, Fairfield Plains, one of the oldest exhibitors in this sort, won a number of premiums on some choicely selected stock.

Awards.—Boar, aged—1st and 2nd, W. & H. Jones, Mount Elgin. Boar, over one year and under two—1st and 3rd, W. & H. Jones; 2nd, W. M. & J. C. Smith, Fairfield Plains. CHESTER WHITES.—Of this white American variety there were fifty-six entries, comprising a lot of pigs brought out in good form by W. Butler & Son, Dereham Centre; H. George & Sons, Crampton; R. H. Harding, Thorndale; and D. DeCoursey, Bornholm. The first-mentioned herd had forward some eighteen entries in fine show condition, which carried three reds in the sections for boars, several second and third prizes for sows, and the family prize for sow and four of her produce under six months. H. George & Sons had a beautifully fitted lot, and won first for aged boar, first for sow under two years, first for boar and two sows, and boar and four of his get under six months. R. H. Harding had entered some very neat boars in the two younger sections, and a grand aged boar which took first, while D. DeCoursey had a strong second in aged boars, a capital pig over six months, and two grand specimens in the sections for sows over and under six months, which both won first premiums.

Awards.—Boar, aged—1st, H. George & Son, Crampton; 2nd, D. DeCoursey, Bornholm; 3rd, W. Butler & Son, Dereham Centre. Boar, over one and under two years—1st, W. Butler & Son; 2nd, H. George & Son. TAMWORTHS.—This bacon breed was not as strong numerically as last year, several prominent breeders being absent, but the sixty entries included some grand specimens, while the whole exhibit was in fine form. Walter Elliott, Hamilton, led off with Glen Sandy, a boar that tips the beam at something over 900 lbs., while his wonderful deep ribs, great length, and smoothness, pronounce him an ideal pig of the breed.
