

years with success. In these lectures the distinctive features of the Protestant faith will be clearly set forth and contrasted with the correspondent Romish error. Suitable literature will be distributed at the close of the addresses. It is hoped in this way to furnish Protestants with needed information, by which they will be established in the faith. No doubt many Roman Catholics will be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity to hear the other side of the question. Let us ask God to guide all events for the furtherance of the Gospel

Howe'er you babble great deeds cannot die,
They with the sun and moon renew their light
Forever blessing those who look on them.

—Tennyson.
