A Few Points.

Manufacturers, if you continue to employ the grog shops, where will you find a better skilled labor ten years hence?

Do you know that the gin mill destroys the skill of your workmen and thus decreases your profits?

Have you not learned that a Sunday's debauch impairs the Monday's product of the mill?

Do you not know that the continued use of strong drink, even in so-called moderation, does the same thing?

Do you not know that it not only impairs the quality of the product, but decreases the quantity?

Do you not know that if you had only total abstinents in your employ and were to pay the same wages now paid, your profits would be increased 25 per cent?

Well, it is true.

Then can you afford to sustain the license system or sanction the drinking customs of the day?—Catholic Temperance Advocate

The Rights of Those Who Dislike Tobacco.

Is there not a question of right involved in a condition which bears so hardly upon one side and gives the other so vast an advantage? Why should the smoker be given, or take, the mean privilege of driving from comfort to misery all those who dislike tobacco, even in the most public places? Can any one explain, on principles of justice or good breeding, the right of the smoker to render the air of cars, steamboats, public coaches, hotels, and boarding-houses, and all other places where he elects to be, disagreeable and often sickening? It has been truly said that "smoking is the only vice that all people are compelled to share the effects of in their own persons." If my neighbor drinks whisky, I am not obliged to take even a drop into my system. But if my neighbor smokes, I am obliged, so long as he remains my neighbor on the piazza or other place of resort, to inhale some of the poison he is consuming. There is much to say about the pecuniary waste and physical harm of tobacco-smoking as a personal habit, but the sole purpose of this article is to draw attention to the infringement upon the rights of those who dislike tobacco perpetrated by tobacco-users and sanctioned by those who cater to a tobacco-using public. This aspect of the question has passed beyond the boundaries of taste, or preference, or conventional good manners. It has entered the domain of ethics. The point now to be determined is, in brief, this: Have those who dislike tobacco any rights which tobacco-users are bound to respect?—Mrs. Spencer, in the Open Court.

Why We Oppose the Liquor Traffic.

First, on Principles of Political Economy. 1. Intemperance ruins health. This is never questioned by any sane man. 2. What destroys health, destroys wealth. Every able-bodied man is a producer. If his health is impaired, he becomes a non-producer to the extent of his injury. 3. Whatever destroys wealth, injures the State, the State, in self-defence, has a right to prohibit. Second, on Principles of Morality. 1. Intemperance injures character. If any proof be needed, point to the wrecked lives of the men around you. See how they have learned to lie, steal, and murder, by becoming drunkards. 2. Whatever injures character destroys the citizen, and makes his exercise of the rights of citizenship dangerous to the State. See the thousands of men who have sold their manhood for a drink of whisky. Such men are ready to vote for any measure, however corrupt, in order to appease a depraved appetite. 3. Whatever injures citizenship destroys the integrity of the State; and whatever impairs the integrity of the State, the State has a right to prohibit, as a means of self-preservation. Third, on Principles of Law. 1. Intemperance enslaves the drinker, corrupts the ballot-box, debases the judge, and bribes the jury. 2. What corrupts the courts of the State threatens the institutions of liberty and whatever imperils liberty is an enemy of mankind, and should be restrained by law. 3. That which defies law, and threatens the destruction of law, law should crush. Thus, from whatever point we view the subject, intemperance is a foe, and should be slain.—Chamberland Presbyterian.

Literature.

Alden's new illustrated weekly Magazine, is certainly one of the brightest, handsomest and most readable of the literary papers—of course it is the cheapest, for Alden publishes it $1.00 a year; specimen copy free. Especially interesting papers in the last issue are: "Law and Romance in Fiction," "Frederick Hastings John Ruskin's Forge," and "Edmund Gosse on Henrik Ibsen, the Scandiavian poet, which is accompanied by a fine portrait. It is a good paper for every home library. John H. Alden, Publisher, 28 Pearl Street, New York, 215 Clark Street, Chicago.

BITS OF TINSEL.

"Are you one of the new letter carriers?" inquired the housewife. "Yes, ma'am." "Well, I just want you to give me the right letters hereafter. The last one was for the next door neighbour. It was interesting, but she made an awful time because I read it."

Miss Pounder (who has been having a wrestling match with the keyboard of the piano) "Have you a sensitive musical ear, Mr. Tympanum?" "Mr. T. (more candid than polite) Yes, I am sorry to say I have."

A lady writes—"I was enabled to remove the corns, root and branch, by the use of Holloway's corn cure. Others who have tried it have the same experience."

Monstrous! You've been up before me a good many times, Uncle Rastus. It's the same as usual—thirty days or ten dollars."

Uncle Rastus. I has been up defo' yo' a good many times, yo' honah. I so been a good customer, and ef yuso got any ole sale rates I spec' I oughter hab em."

All beds seem hard to the rheumatic. Then hearken ye peevish sufferers! Apply Dr. Thomas Electric oil to your aching joints and muscles. Rely on it that you will experience speedy relief. Such, at least, is the testimony of those who have used it. The remedy is likewise successfully resorted to for throat and lung diseases, sprains, bruises, etc.

Uncle Rastus (in telegraph office) As you got an envelope, sah? Operator: What do you want of an envelope, Uncle Rastus? Uncle Rastus Dis expatch sah, am on a wery private nature, an I wants it sent sealed.

Gilbert Laird, St. Margaret's Hope, Orkney, Scotland, writes—"I am requested by several friends to order another parcel of Dr. Thomas' Electric oil. The last lot I got from you having been tested in several cases of rheumatism, has given relief when doctors' medicines have failed to have any effect. The excellent qualities of this medicine should be made known, that the millions of sufferers throughout the world may benefit by its providential discovery."

Mrs. Fineman.—"He's no better, doctor. You told me to give him as much powder as would lay on sixpence. I hadn't a sixpence, but I gave him as much as would go on five pennies and two halfpennies, and it's done him no good at all, at all."

Faces as yellow as that of the "heathen Chinese," in consequence of bile in the blood, grow fair and wholesome looking when Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and great blood-purifier is used to relax constipated bowels and to expel the bilious poison from the circulation. Rheumatic and blood impurities are also driven out by it, digestion restored, and the system benefited in every way by its use.

Dudley (who is not as big a fool as he looks) "Did you, ah, give my card to Mith Bondlepper?" "Serrant." "Yes, sir." "Dudley." "What did she say?" "Serrant." "She told me tell you, sir, that she was not in." "Dudley." "Ah, indeed! Please tell your mistress that I said I wish glad I didn't call."

Most of these breach of promise suits result from a Miss understanding.—Duluth Paragrapher.

What Toronto's well known Good Samaritan says—"I have been troubled with a peptic and liver-complaint for over 20 years and I have tried many remedies, but never found an article that has done me as much good as Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure."—Clara E. Porter.

A little girl joyfully assured her mother the other day that she had found out where they made horses. She had seen a man finishing one. He was nailing on his last foot.

Larry "I hear that Richmond Straight has gone to Florida for his health." Harry: "He ought to have gone to the cigarette store—that's where he lost it."—Tid-bits.

There! A young wife who had married a physician, and was much given to boasting of her husband's wonderful professional skill, said to a circle of friends one day, "Why, he cured a patient of convalescence in less than twenty four hour."

Worms derange the whole system. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator deranges worms, and gives rest to the sufferer. It only costs twenty-five cents to try it and be convinced.

An exchange speaks of a southern girl who eloped with her lover on a mule dressed in boy's clothes. "It was a decidedly funny notion. A mule ordinarily expressed in an odd animal to select for such a romantic episode, but a mule dressed in boy's clothes must have looked too ridiculous for anything! If the object was to conceal the character of the beast, the eloping couple evinced a woeful lack of judgment."

The train had run into a snowdrift and the engine was butting its head in rage against a six-foot bank. "For once the iron horse appears to be beaten," remarked a fat woman in a second-class carriage. "You shouldn't call it an iron horse," mildly reproved a solemn-faced man. "Why not?" asked the fat woman in some surprise. "Because it's block tin," softly murmured the solemn-faced man, as he gazed out of the window and across the wintry waste, with a far away look in his eye.

In Turkey, when a man tells a falsehood the authorities paint the front of his house black. If that custom reigned in the United States, during a Presidential campaign every newspaper office in the country would look like a stationary thunder-cloud.

Don't you know? Well, that is simply because you have not read LITTLEBY A MONTHLY MAGAZINE. It is stored full of information on all subjects and no one can read it through each month and not feel that they are right up to the times on almost every subject. The one number just arrived, is too full to mention even a quarter of its contents, but "Cancing for women, beautifully illustrated; "Harem Life in Turkey," "A June Wedding," "Practical Etiquette," the legal rights of "The Girl Hebr," "Practical Hints for Travelers," "Painting on Textiles," "Sins against the Stomach," "Baby's Diseases," "How to Set the Table on Twenty Cents a Day for each Person," and "Furnishing the house from Cellar to Chaper," are a few of the topics treated. The illustrations are very fine, and include the portraits of thirty noted women. The fashion department looks fine, but the ladies are better judges of that. It is a wonderful twenty cents worth.
