

- Opening a marketing office in the sales territory may be the first step towards a fully integrated company-operated selling programme. Canadian manufacturers will have the option of deciding this at a later date in the light of the full market knowledge they will then possess.
- Considering the size and importance of the West Coast market, we advise Canadian companies to restrict their marketing efforts to selected areas in the U.S.