SPOKE DIRECT TO HILL IN HOSPITAL

Schenectady Divine's Radio Sermon, Heard Here, Has Reference to N. B.

A singular incident occurred on last Sunday when the radio sermon and other broadcasting were coming in marvellously clear to the fans. A large party of St. John County people, listening in both by ear-phones and amplifying horn when Rev. A. W. Rogers of Schenectady, N. Y., began his sermon with these remarks: "It is truly wonderful to realize that my sermon tonight will be heard not only by those sitting in this well-filled church but by thousands of others throughout this country and far into the eastern provinces of Canada—New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island—as well as the Canadian west. I prayerfully hope that my humble message will reach the hearts of those lying perhaps on beds of sickness or in hospitals, shut-ins who are not privileged to commune with us in person."

Then followed the preacher's sermon, a markedly evangelistic discourse at the conclusion of which came rousing congregational singing and a well-executed regessional on the large pipe organ, "The Friends' March," from the sacred opera "Athalia." Even the hum of voices and shuffling of feet as the congregation dispersed were audible on some radio sets.

Rev. Mr. Rogers is a Canadian and it is said a patient of St. John County Hospital wrote him some time ago expressing appreciation of the broadcasting from his bed. On Sunday last to hospitals and the Maritime Provinces.

POLICE WILL MAKE FURTHER INQUIRY

Statement of Unauthorized Soliciting in Name of Evening Times.

"You may only be a victim of circumstances," Magistrate Henderson said this morning to Richard Moore, a young Englishman, who appeared before him in the police court on a charge of being a common vagrant with no visible means of support. The remark was made when the defendant said that he had done no wrong and explained that he had come to this country from England to work as a harvester and that the $90 he earned soon went for living expenses.

When the charge was read to the defendant he pleaded not guilty and said he had been taken from his residence by two officers. Detective Kilpatrick then took the stand and told of going to "Harris' alley," of Prince Edward street, and taking the defendant in charge. The witness said complaints had been received that colored women were going to this house, which was occupied by three men; also that the abo-boddy men had been receiving provisions from the Salvation Army. In addition one of the three had been reported for soliciting money without authority, using the name of the Evening Times. He asked that the defendant be remanded until tomorrow.

Detective Saunders corroborated the testimony of Detective Kilpatrick. He said that the defendant had acknowledged to him that he had worked for only a few days since coming to St. John.

Magistrate Henderson said that he considered it proper to remand the man until tomorrow in order that further investigation could be made. He said that citizens were much opposed to undesirable and that they did not want St. John made a dumping ground for them. He then said that the defendant might only be a victim of circumstances.

The defendant asked if he would get something to eat when he went into jail and he was assured that he would.

The Evening Times gave no one authority to solicit money in its name as indicated in this case. A statement that this was being done was made to this office yesterday from a Broad street house and the detectives took up the matter.

As Hiram Sees It

"I see they had another earthquake in Japan," said Mr. Hiram Hornbeam to The Times reporter. "So I have read," said the reporter. "I was just thinking," said Hiram, "about what might happen over there. Spoken them islands dropped clean under water some night, or was blown up by one of them there volcanoes. There you'd hev a hull race o' people wiped out. That might happen—mightn't it?" "There are, apparently, forces in the earth that could easily bring it about," said the reporter. "An' in the long run they ain't much difference between destroyin' a few thousands an' a few millions," said Hiram. "All who tread the earth," quoted the reporter, "are but a handful to the tribes that slumber in its bosom." "Well," said Hiram, "men kill one another by the million, an' they ought to kick if they git a little help now an' then. Still, it 'ud be better if the 'killy' didn't all happen in one place. We could spare some critters ourselves if an earthquake wanted 'em—hey, what?"
