TWENTY DOLLARS SPENT TO GET IN A ONE CENT TAX

An Absurd Case Which Has Come to Light in England Under the Land Tax

London, July 20.—Some ridiculous situations have arisen over the administration of Lloyd George's land tax, the working of which has created a confusion only equalled by that promised by the new industrial insurance scheme. The details of one particularly ludicrous case involving the expenditure of £20 on the part of the government and "taxes" for the annual collection of one cent is probably on the outside edge of absurdity.

A man named Smith, who has a small landed property in Tenterden, Kent, consisting of tiny cottages and gardens which, in the multitudinous forms that landowners have to fill up for the taxation of their property, are classed as "undeveloped land." Part of this property is a small garden, one acre in extent, which he lets for £5 a year.

Owing to a change of tenant, Smithson has just had to fill up fresh forms about this little scrap of ground. Smithson himself is a singing master and lives in London, so all of the forms had to be sent to his agent to be filled up. The agent had to make a trip to Tenterden and a lawyer had to be consulted for the proper answering of some of the questions, involving several visits to his office, and, of course, fees. At the end of a fortnight answers to these weighty enquiries concerning the "undeveloped" ground were correctly given, and the forms, several in number—returned to Smithson, who forwarded them to the proper quarter. Something else came with the forms, too, a bill, in which the unhappy Smithson was charged about £15.

Not content with this, the government proceeded to write him several letters about his property, and before the whole thing was finished, they had spent about £5 in collecting the tax. And as a result of all this work and expenditure the government, after a lengthy interval, decided that the tax to be paid by Smithson annually on this wee garden is exactly one cent.

Hopp was examined at a hospital and was found to be dead. The police are now investigating the case.

THE POLICE COURT

Germain Street Disorderly House Case — Policeman Says One Man Jumped Out Window

Mrs. Marie Macay, aged 24, was arraigned in the police court this morning to answer to the charge of keeping a disorderly house at 206 Germain street, and Frederick Currie, Clarence Clark, and Mary Stoeper, who had been in the house, all pleaded not guilty.

Policeman Lucas and Witterton, who made a raid there along with two other policemen between twelve and one o'clock last night, gave evidence of what they found when they entered the house. Entrance was made through a window at the rear. According to the evidence given by the police Currie jumped out of a rear window when the policemen entered the house and hid in a wagon in an adjoining yard.

Policeman Lucas also told the court that Currie picked up a chair and attempted to strike him with it.

The case was adjourned until Monday morning at ten o'clock, when the evidence of Policemen Silas Perry and Kane will be taken. The prisoners were remanded to jail. The house is at the corner of Germain and Duke streets, Chief Clerk said in court that he would very likely proceed against the owner as there had been complaints about the house for some time by residents of Germain and Duke streets.

John Colohan, given in charge by his father, Michael Colohan, for being drunk and disorderly in his late home at Brussels street last night and also for destroying his property, pleaded guilty and was remanded to jail.

Irving R. Neilson, given in charge by Captain Andrew Neilson on charge of deserting from the bank, Neilson, was also remanded to jail. He will probably be returned to the ship the first of the week. One prisoner charged with drunkenness was remanded.

THE LIBELLING OF THE GRAND MANAN

Calais, July 20.—Capt. John Ingersoll, of the steamer Grand Manan, which was libelled at Eastport on Tuesday, July 16, went to Boston by train Wednesday evening, presumably for the purpose of making some arrangement for the release of his steamer pending a settlement by trial of the action against the Grand Manan Steamboat Co., owners of the craft. He was accompanied by Hon. George J. Clarke, a well known New Brunswick lawyer, and speaker of the house of representatives. St. Stephen people, who are interested in the matter, are indignant over the action of the Bay State Dredging Co. in libelling the Grand Manan without giving notice to the owners, as agreed. They claim that Capt. Ingersoll of the Grand Manan told the representatives of the dredging company that he would have taken his steamer at Eastport any time they said in order that action might be taken, and the dredging company's representatives promised the captain that they would give him due notice so that he could arrange for placing a bond in order that the service on the route might not be interrupted. The Grand Manan has been taken into the harbor of St. Stephen, and the dredging company's representatives are now in the harbor, and the dredging company's representatives are now in the harbor, and the dredging company's representatives are now in the harbor.

It is said that while Mr. Reid is abroad his stocks will be taken care of and the action of them indicates that they may be straightened.

The gradual advance in steel products and the fact that they are ordered by the thousands for the five months of the year, is a very good sign for the steel industry.

United Pacific has acted better and the buyers are said to be good.

The copper stocks can be bought on all setbacks. Short interest in the active is still large. Some of the pool are getting busy.

Bank statement today will show further gain in reserves.

Atchison is a cheap stock.
