THEIR ANNUAL DINNER.

A meeting of the party who went up river on the tug Little on the memorable excursion of January 16th, 1892, was held last evening at Isaac N.
Erb's. It was decided that the annual sleigh drive and dinner should take place this year on Friday evening next, weather permitting, to New-comb, at Torriburgh. It was also decided to hold the drive on January 16th or as near it as possible every year.
About forty will go to Newcomb's.

A WRONG RIGHTED.

and stating the facts. The Eagle has printed Mr. Allison's statement, which is a comprehensive and complete answer to the original mis-statements.

REED'S POINT CASE.

Three Prisoners Sent Up For Trial—Magistrate's Plain Words.

The preliminary examination in the Reed's Point assault case was continued yesterday afternoon, where quite a lot of witnesses were examined. Petersen and others in his house told of that part of the trouble which had occurred there, and several members of the crew of the Yarmouth gave evidence in regard to hauling Globe out of the water. One of the witnesses said he saw Globe pushed over the end of the wharf.

Mr. Ritchie asked that his client Carlin be discharged, as there was no evidence against him.

Mr. Baxter and Mr. Mahoney stated that they had advised Morrison and Stone to plead guilty to common assault. King, who was not represented by counsel, also pleaded guilty to common assault.

The magistrate adjourned the case until ten o'clock this morning. Today the counsel for the prisoners decided that they would not offer any evidence for the defence. The magistrate, in committing the four young men for trial, said that he was not disposed to be lenient in cases such as the present one. He considered it a serious state of affairs if citizens could be attacked by a number of roughs at night.

Perhaps if the prisoners go before a jury they may get off with comparatively light sentences, but that is not the point. It is due to the community that the fullest enquiry possible should be made into the case.

Carlin was released on his own recognition to appear before the jury if required, and the other three, Stone, Morrison and King, were committed for trial.

In the circuit court this forenoon Mr. McKeown announced that the three men committed by the magistrate had declined to come before Judge Forbes under the speedy trials act and asked that the grand jury be called for Monday morning.

Chief Justice Tuck ordered the grand jury to be called together at 11 a. m. on Monday.

DEATH OF L. A. ALLISON.

L. A. Allison, K. C., of the firm of White, Allison & King, who went to England some weeks ago for the benefit of his health, has died at Torquay.
Eng. Hon. A. S. Whyte received a cable last night announcing the sad news. Mr. Allison was a native of Newport, N. S. His father, John Allison, was a brother of Dr. Allison, who for some years represented Hants county in parliament. Mr. Allison was a graduate of St. Allison, was admitted to the bar in 1882 and entered into partnership with Hon. A. S. Whyte at Sussex. He was an able lawyer, a constant student and much interested in historical subjects. He has made valuable contributions to the early history of Kings county. Mr. Allison married Miss Murray of "Penobscus" and leaves a family.

THE SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

the receipt of the following contributions to the North End memorial fountain fund:

Dr. William Christie, 1.00

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. intend holding an Easter tea and sale for the purpose of raising more money for the completion of the monument. There is now a balance on hand of only sixty dollars, and at least fourteen hundred dollars additional are required to finish the work undertaken by them.

DEATH OF MRS. CLARK.

Mrs. Alice Clark, wife of J. Alfred Clark, deputy collector of customs, died at her home, 258 Prince street extension, Carleton, this morning, after an illness of five weeks. Mrs. Clark was a daughter of the late James Hamm of the wooly side. She was besides her husband, three sons, Hunter, at present in Cape Breton; Ralph, a commercial traveller, and Aubrey, at home.

EQUITY.

In the case of the Cushing Sulphite Co. vs. Geo. S. Cushing, on return of the summons applied for by the attorney general to show cause why a commission should not issue to take evidence of witnesses in England, Judge Barker granted an order today for the commission to issue. A. H.
Harrington, K. C., appeared for plaintiff; Attorney General Pugsley and A.
P. Barnhill for defendant.

MOFFAT LUMBER DEAL.

George Moffat of Dalhousie, who had been in St. John for a day or two, left for home yesterday. His business here was in connection with the proposed sale of his property—mill, lumber lands, steamers, etc.—to a St. John syndicate. Messrs. Hildyard Bros., George McKean and others are interested. It is said the price is about $200, 000 and the deal about to be closed.

AGED 90 YEARS.

The death is reported of David R.
Currie, one of the oldest citizens of St.
John, which occurred this morning at the residence of A. H. Patterson, 171-2 Brindley street. Mr. Currie was ninety years of age and a house carpenter by trade. He leaves no relatives.
Death was due to old age.

A CORRECTION.

A morning paper stated that "Daniel Fullerton of Winslow street, Carleton, is anxious to race horses with any delivery man in town."

Mr. Fullerton asks the Star to say that this statement is entirely incorrect and unauthorized.

INFORMATION.

(Chicago Tribune.)
There is something in this paper, said Mrs. Chugwater, about a "real estate pool" and a "railway pool." What does that mean? What are they?

They are merely organizations of business men, replied Mr. Chugwater.
Then why do they call them pools?
That's on account of the water in their stocks, I suppose. Women can't understand these things. Don't bother me.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The Case of Goodspeed Came up To-day.

Crown Opens Case Against Him as Accessory in Doherty Murder.

The Goodspeed trial began at eleven o'clock this morning in a crowded courtroom. The selection of the jury, the opening of the crown's case and the hearing of six witnesses occupied the court till adjournment at one o'clock. More will be heard this afternoon, and the case will probably be concluded tomorrow. Through the session this morning Goodspeed, by the permission of the judge left the dock and sat at the lawyer's table beside his counsel, Mr. Morrill. He watched and listened to everything with his usual air of interest. Mrs.
Goodspeed occupied her old position on the bench by the witness, her motherly face drawn with anxiety as she listened eagerly to all the evidence received.

Court opened at eleven o'clock when Mr. McKeown moved for the trial of Fred Goodspeed on the charge of being an accessory after the fact to the murder of William Doherty. The court as-senting, the prisoner was brought in and the work of selecting a jury begun. This occupied considerable time, owing chiefly to the absence of those summoned to serve. Out of the two panels twelve did not answer to their names and the chief justice directed that proceedings be taken to have the delinquents fined. Then the counsel took advantage of their challenging privilege to a considerable extent, six being challenged by the defence and four by the crown.

Of the first panel summoned Arthur G. Blakeley and Alex. Neill challenged by the defence were stood aside.

Robert O'Shaughnessy, William J.
Parks and J. Allan Turner were challenged by the crown and dismissed.

John P. Maloney, John Condon, Wm.
Penaligan, Wm. Heathfield, Fred S.
Bonnel, R. R. Patchell and William Court were accepted and sworn. This exhausted the first panel and by request of Mr. McKeown another was summoned.

From this Frank Fales, Charles E.
Everett, Charles A. Henderson George E. Day and Thomas J. Dillon were selected and sworn. James M. Dalzell, John Salmon, Thos. Kichham and J.
S. Gibbon were challenged by the defence and R. G. Amland by the crown.

The jury who will try Fred Goodspeed therefore stands as follows:
John P. Maloney, John Condon, Wm.
Penaligan, Wm. Heathfield, Fred S.
Bonnel, R. R. Patchell, William Court, Frank Fales, Charles E. Everett, Charles A. Henderson, George E. Day and Thomas J. Dillon.

In opening the case for the crown Mr. McKeown explained fully the law dealing with such offences as the one charged, showing that an accessory after the fact according to the law was one who gave aid, comfort and assistance to a criminal in order to enable him to escape, knowing him to be guilty of an offence. For this the crown must prove that a murder was committed; that Goodspeed knew it and that having such knowledge he assisted in enabling Higgins to escape.

The crown, said Mr. McKeown, would show clearly that Doherty was murdered though they did not propose to offer the evidence given by Goodspeed at the previous trial. They would also show as the next step that Goodspeed was a party to the crime. In this connection the crown would show that he helped Higgins to escape. The crown asked the jury to dismiss entirely from their minds all they had heard and read of the case and judge the case on the evidence presented.

As a part of the evidence on this point the crown would offer the confession made by Goodspeed to the chief of police. Regarding Goodspeed's conduct after the murder, it would be shown that he associated with Higgins and concealed the crime by evasive and false answers. When taken before the coroner he persisted in the statements that he knew nothing of the crime nor Doherty's whereabouts.
Afterward when the web woven by these falsehoods began to be broken into he fled toward the States together with Higgins. On the train they told a false story to the immigration officer in order to effect their escape so that the crime might never come to light.

As his first witness in proving the case so sketched Mr. McKeown called Joseph Doherty.

For the fourth time last oath since the murder of his son last August, Mr. Doherty told the story of his last sight of the boy alive on the noon of Friday he was killed, of his identification of the body in the dead house the following Monday night and of his anxiety during the days intervening between Willie's disappearance and the discovery of the body. Here he swore that it was Goodspeed that had told him during that time that Willie had told him he was going to Springfield.
Goodspeed was with Higgins at the time.

The cap, necktie, pin and handkerchief found on the body were handed to Mr. Doherty for identification. He unwrapped the parcel instantly and as the trinkets rolled out, his composure continued steadily throughout in the Higgins trial, was broken.
He sat down heavily in the chair of the witness box and shook with sobs.
This lasted a minute or two. Then he straightened up, said the things were Willie's and went on answering the lawyer's questions coolly.

Cross-examined by Mr. Mullin Mr.
Doherty could not tell the name of any of the other boys present when he was talking to Higgins and Goodspeed. He denied positively that it was Higgins who first told Willie was going to Springfield. If he said so at any previous trial he was mistaken.

Mr. Morrill read his evidence taken at the Higgins trial in which he put the above statement in Higgins' mouth but the witness persisted that that was wrong and that Goodspeed made the statement first, though Higgins might
