SUNDAY TRAGEDIES.

NAPLES, April 21.—Prince Ibrahim Pasha, an uncle of the Khedive of Egypt, while driving a motor car here today ran over a woman and a child, mortally injuring both of them.

BANGOR, Me., April 21.—Thomas J. Loftus, 29 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Loftus, was instantly electrocuted Sunday afternoon at Maplewood Park by taking hold of a live wire while climbing a fence.

NEW YORK, N. Y., April 21.—A decomposed body supposed to be that of Peter J. Kennedy, a well known theatrical manager who disappeared in December last, was found in the water tonight at the foot of Van Brunt street, South Brooklyn.

The body was so badly decomposed that identification was difficult. Mrs. Kennedy, however, made a positive identification at the morgue tonight. In one pocket was found business cards bearing the name "P. J. Kennedy" and a Masonic identification card bore the same name.

NEW YORK, April 20.—The body of Wm. Sandler, 19 years, of this city, a student in the school of applied sciences of Columbia University was recovered today from the swimming pool in the gymnasium on the university grounds after having been in the water since Friday afternoon. Sandler with other members of his class had been swimming. His classmates missed him after swimming some few minutes. The coroner's physician said death was due either to a weak heart or from fainting.

PITTSBURG, April 20.—Thirteen persons were seriously injured tonight, three of whom will die, when a large car on the East Liberty express line of the Pittsburgh Railway Company collided with a wagon, heavily loaded with wooden blocks on a steep incline on the Lawrenceville district. Fatally injured: John Donohue, special delivery messenger.

Larry Gould, motorman, wrecked car. Ottomar Eichenlaub.

These three were taken to St. Francis Hospital and are expected to die during the night.

Seriously injured: Joseph Sigert, driver of wrecked wagon.

COMMERCIAL

JAPANESE LOANS.
SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—Kor-eko Takahashi, the Japanese financier, who has just completed his mission of floating loans here, is estimated to have secured $125,000,000 in London and Paris to redeem war bonds of Japan, arrived here on his way home yesterday.

Talking of his work in London and Paris last night, Takahashi said: "The loans floated abroad are now mostly held by London bankers, the stringency of money in Paris being chiefly responsible for this fact. Japan will pay 5 per cent for this money, which will be used in redeeming six per cent issued during the war."

"No difficulty is now encountered by Japan in raising money. Her credit has been unquestioned since her achievements in the war, and foreign capital daily is pouring in in increased amounts."

"The United States bought about $80,000,000 of the war bonds, but has contributed little or no capital investment in Japan since. The reason for this is patent. The capitalist can get bigger returns for it here than elsewhere and do not need to go abroad. Japan will probably attract very little attention from capitalists as long as the present reign of prosperity continues in the United States. Just now she is getting foreign capital from England and France."

SALVADOR DOES NOT WANT TO WITHDRAW

Fears That Nicaraguan Troops Under the Guise of Refugees Will Flood Her Territory

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Philip Brown, American secretary of state at Guatemala, who is now at Managua, engaged in the effort to assist in the peace negotiations at that place today reported to the state department by cable that some difficulty has arisen over the objection of the Salvadoreans to the Nicaraguan proposition to withdraw their troops from the frontier.

The objection is based on fear on the part of the Salvadorean government that the refugees from the frontier are really revolutionists, would soon cross the border from Honduras and invade Salvador if the troops were withdrawn.

It appeared that an agreement to terminate hostilities actually was made yesterday but it was nullified by the refusal of President Figueroa, of Salvador, to withdraw his forces from the boundary.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY ON ROME'S BIRTHDAY

While Celebration Was Going on Ancient Excavations Leading to Palatine Acropolis Were Found

ROME, April 22.—While celebrating the 2500th Anniversary of the founding of which is supposed to have taken place April 21, in the years 753 B. C., a most important discovery was made yesterday on the Palatine Hill, trying to determine the entrance to the Palatine Acropolis, a regular ditch was found, evidently a pit or tomb. It is similar to those discovered in the Roman Forum. It is believed to be connected with the earliest habitation and to have been constructed by the founders of the Palatine stronghold. Minister of Instruction Rava visited the spot today and ordered a continuation of the excavations.

MAY GIVE THE CONGO FREE STATE TO FRANCE

PARIS, April 20.—A despatch received here from Brussels says the journey of King Leopold to Paris has been postponed until Monday.

The trip of the King of the Belgians has aroused much comment and speculation in political circles. The explanation thereof, which finds the most credit, but which is impossible of confirmation, is that King Leopold will offer to cede the Congo Independent state to France at his interview with President Fallieres.

DROPPED FROM THE WINDOW.

ST. GEORGE, April 21.—The house owned by Arthur Henderson at Mac- caren, was destroyed by fire today. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McGrath, of Mac- caren, were boarding at the house and at three o'clock in the morning they awakened to find the house on fire. There was no way of escape except by the window and Mr. McGrath dropped his wife from his bed-room window, which was on the third story of the house. McGrath then jumped from the same window. His wife's feet were broken in her fall. There was no insurance on the building.

The residence of Malcolm Mealey at Penfield Centre, was totally destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. There was no insurance.

George Allen who works for Jules Grondines, the plater, was leaning from a window in the latter's store on Saturday night when he fell into the alley, when he slipped a stick in a pile of snow. He pointed it out to a man named McCarthy, who was nearby. The latter picked it up and handed it to Allen. The police were notified and Detective Killen searched the satchel which fell out to be the one stolen on Good Friday night from Mrs. J. H. Wood. Mrs. Wood went to the central police station yesterday and Mr. McCarthy, who was nearby, was learned there was no money in the purse when it was found.

RECENT DEATHS.

JOHN LONG.
(Bangor Commercial.)
The employees of the Eastern Steamship Co. on all its divisions as well as steamboat men all along the Maine coast were saddened Friday by the death of the veteran of them all, Quartermaster John Long of the steamer City of Bangor. An abler or more faithful man never grasped a steamer's wheel and he died as he had lived, on the steamer which he had steered through many a storm and having the love and admiration, accorded one who has proved himself a man and has been a faithful employee and comrade at all times.

Quartermaster Long was born in St. John, N. B. 70 years ago. He came to Bangor when a young man, worked about the river and grew up in the ways of the steamboat men. For close on 50 years he has held the wheel on steamers plying between Bangor and Boston and Portland. Nearly 60 years a quartermaster, with a record for service and ability which has seldom been equalled in the history of steamboating. He began away back with the standard Independent line, with the steamers Minneman Sanford and Daniel Webster. During the civil war the government took both these steamers for transport service.

He went to the Boston and Bangor Steamboat Co. and ran on the steamers Katahdin, Cambridge, Lewiston, Penobscot. He has been running on the City of Bangor nearly all the time since she was launched and ran on the City of Rockland last summer when the City of Bangor was hauled out for repairs sustained in the collision off Monhegan.

Quartermaster Long came of good old Irish stock and he had all the Irishman's good nature and a disposition that saw the bright side of everything rather than the dark. A man of powerful physique and great vitality, he never lost a week of duty on account of illness in all his career. He was the typical steamboat man if ever there was one.

Quartermaster Long stood his watch at the wheel as usual Thursday night. He was apparently in his usual health, though he had been suffering from a severe cold for several days. He was in the best of spirits and joked with his companions in the pilot house when he finished his watch at the wheel at 3 o'clock Friday morning. At about 6 o'clock while the steamer was lying at the wharf at Rockland, Mr. Long went to the door of the pilot house and spoke to Mr. Rawley. Mr. Rawley noticed that something was wrong with the quartermaster and at once went to him and accompanied him back to his cabin. Mr. Long complained of pains in his chest and of feeling cold. While another of the pilots went to the wharf and telephoned for a doctor, the men of the boat did all they could to make their companion comfortable. He expressed a desire to go to another part of the boat and was taken there, walking with the assistance of a man on each side.

At the head of the forward companion- ship he stopped and said: "It's no use, boys. I'm not afraid to go. I'm all done." With these words he collapsed and died in a few moments. The doctor arrived soon after and said death was due to heart failure.

The remains were brought to Bangor on the steamer arriving here at 1 o'clock, and were taken to Mr. Long's home on Barker street. The sadness of the quartermaster's death seemed to pervade the whole boat. The deckhands as they hustled the freight out of the hold had none of the usual joking, and even the trucks seemed to move with a muffled rumble. The steamer's flag and the flag at the wharf hung at half-mast.

Quartermaster Long is survived by a widow, a son, Edward of Waterville, Mass., and a daughter, Mrs. John Kennedy, of Bangor.

In the death of Quartermaster Long the Eastern Steamship Co. loses one of its most valued employees and the oldest of them all in point of service. Every man in the fleet, from stokers to captain, loses a friend whose friendship was the kind that is seldom found. Mr. Long was like a father to the other employees and as such he will be missed and remembered.

W. E. STEVENS.

W. E. Stevens, a former St. John man, died at his home in Ottawa on Saturday, aged 83 years. He was a native of Albert county and until eight years ago was in the statistical department of the customs house here. Four sons and four daughters survive. They are William, of Boston; Samuel, of Winnipeg; Andrew M., in the employ of the street railway company here, and Harry, who resides at home; Mrs. Reverdy Stevens, of this city; Mrs. Perkins, of Carleton county; Mrs. John McKnight, of Boston; and Miss Mary Stevens at home. Several brothers also survive.

Mr. Stevens had been in ill health for three years, suffering with locomotor ataxia.
