Occar Dykeman of Adelaide road is the victim of a malady with which plysicians have been unable to cope. To be brief, he is an old man at 18, growing feeble every day, as he has been for some years past.

At 18 years of age, when most boys are at the height of their growth, Dykeman i. over six inches shorter than he was at nine. He exhibits all the characteristics of a man in his second childhood, who is gradually shrinking away. But probably no old man ever fell away from his former weight and size so readily as this boy has done within the past few years.

Clouds obscured to a large extent the view of the disappearance and turning the water on, and the management of the burned area. There was an unaccountable delay on the part of the Fire Brigade in getting to the scene and turning the water on, and the management of the brigade was so severely criticised that an investigation is likely to be held.

At the conclusion of the hearing the prisoner was committed for trial, no defense whatever being offered. Bail was again applied for by J. C. Sherren on behalf of the prisoner, and his honor stated he would grant ball, but as the bail offered was not considered satisfactory by him the prisoner was not granted bail. Application will now be made to Judge Barry.

Mr. Sherren intimated that he would not appear for McDougall at the trial in the circuit court, which opens on Tuesday next, but stated that the defense would probably be in abler and worthier hands than his.

WONDERS OF NATURE AT H.H.H. The heavy rain last night kept hundreds from seeing the most magnificent scenic picture ever shown at the H. H. Those who miss it today will miss a treat that is alone worth the price of admission. Words cannot describe the grandeur and magnificence of the rugged and pictures up not describe the grandeur and magnificence of the rugged and picturesque mountains and the peaceful and beautiful Snake River valley and basin. The first view is that of Twin Falls, two falls almost identical in formation and size. Their height is 184 feet, 24 feet higher than Niagara. Shoshone Falls are uext shown. They are 212 feet high, 52 feet higher than are 212 feet high, 52 feet higher than Niagara. Perrine Casara's with a leap comes Thousands Sprigs which derive their name from the great number of separate springs, which springing out of the mountain side fall several hundreds of feet to the valley elow. Following comes the Great below. Following comes the Great Snowbank Spring, the largest spring in the world, with a diameter of 25 feet. Certainly no grander picture has ever been shown. Today Prof. Titus will sing the Hungarian Love Song, and Everybody Loves Me But the One I Love, a pretty illustrated waltz song. The Great Crowley will sing Senora, Shine On Harvest Moon, and Come to the Land of Bolemia.
