Very Uncertain - Finally Sent to the Collieries at Springs

-After Rolling Stock.

Contradictory Orders - A Day of Rest-The Great Change Wrought in the Ranks of the Officers.

THE SPRINGS COLLIERIES, Transvaal, June 15 .- (In Camp with the Royal Canadian Regiment.)-A green young plantation on a bit of rising ground to the west, three or four very black coal dumps to the east, a scattering village between the two, and a remarkably fine railway station, terminating a spur line to Johannesburg; there you have The Springs, an important source of the coal supply of Johannesburg, and the present station of the Royal Canadjan Regiment.

It is Belmont days back again, with a difference. The difference is that this is a larger, prettier, more important station, and a smaller, more seasoned, infinitely more contented regiment. At Belmont all was unrest and anxiety, a feverish longing to see something of the campaign, hot rebellion at the fate which left us in the dismal triangle of which the points

The tug Unity and Maggie J. Lennox towed her clear with but little dam-age. The revenue cutter Gresham also stood by to assist. the order comes to entrain for Cape Town. By long odds this is the best of our camps. The ground is good fuel lies in black heaps at our elbows, water is good if you go to the right well, and comfortable quarters can be got by those who may leave the A commando of Boers, bivouac. BEAUTIFUL UNCERTAINTY. FEITH-CUSACK — At the home of the bride's father, on August 15th, by Rev. H. R. Bak M. Edwin W. Keith to Miss Pru-aence L., youngest daughter of James Cusack, all of Havelock. Beautiful uncertainty reigned over our advent here. At 2 p. m. on Tuesday, June 12, Col. Otter marched off lightful example of contradictory orders. After nightfall word suddenly went around to move out with all secrecy and despatch. The idea at first entertained, it seems, was that the object of the expedition had been at-tained when the rolling stock was captured. Moreover, some movements behind us seemed to render a retirement advisable. With all speed the train was loaded; the infantry was to go by train, the transport to go by road under escort of Loch's Horse. A wild story came into camp by a Kaffir who had just escaped from the Boer taager, eight miles away, that the Boer force was 2,000 men, with 20 guns and 14 Maxims. Then, just as this alarming tale was going the rounds, just as the train was loaded and the men were about to tumble aboard, just at this moment came the word to unload; orders were changed. we were to hold the town and the rest of the regiment was to be brought up. Disgusted at the changes of official dom, all complied, and we slept peacefully enough that night, despite the Kaffir's tale of eightfold forces of Boers so near us. Thursday was a day of rest. The camp was changed to an excellent place, close to the station and in front of a very pretty row of cottages built for railway employes. One of these was converted into a mess room for the officers, and hospital, staff officers, quartermaster's stores and all found comfortable quarters. Late in the afternoon E and H companies came up by train. Then, about 9.39 p. m., a second train brought two guns of the 74th battery, R. F. A., with D Co. as escorts. Thus Colonel Otter now commands a little force of all arms, the Royal Canadians, some 440 seasoned soldiers, some 60 mounted infantry and a couple of guns. We hope to stay here, but would not be surprised in the slightest to be moved at an hour's notice.

THE CHANGE IN OFFICERS. As the campaign draws to an end a list of the officers at this moment with the battalion may be of interest. It vividly illustrates the changes wrought by a campaign. Only three companies are commanded by the captains who brought them out. Only twelve lieutenants are left of the original 26; only 17 company officers out of the 36 who have been sent out. Staff - Lieut. Col. Otter, in command, Lieut. Col. Buchan, Major Pelletier, Lieutenant Ogilvy, Adjuttant; Lieutenant Lafferty, quartermaster; Surgeon Major Wilson, Surgeon-captain Fisit; Capt. Weeks, sig-nalling officer; Rev. Mr. Almond, Rev. Mr. Fullerton.

A Co.-Capt. Burstall, Lieutenant Laurie.

B Co.-Lieutenant Carpenter, Lieutenant Winter. C Co-Lieutenant Marshall, Lieutenant Temple. D Co.-Capt. Rogers, Lieutenant Lawless, Lieutenant, Stewart. E Co.-Capt. Fraser, Lieutenant Swift.

F Co-Lieut. Leduc, Lieutenant Pelletier.

NASHUA, N. H., Aug. 18.—The last coy of the horse racing meeting here was attend-ed by fine weather and chatacterized by fast heats. In each of the four events, without exception, the races were taken in straight heats. The track record for trot-ting of 2.13%, which was established July 13, 1899, by Terrill S., was lowered in the irree-for-all today by the same horse to 2.12%. 12%. Guiadi won the 2.17 class (trotting), best time, 2.20%. Gloria won the 2.20 class (pac-ing); best time, 2.17%; Amokin won the 2.26 class (pacing) in 2.21%, and Terrill S., the free-for-all in 2.15% and 2.12%. Opening of Grand Circuit Meeting at Read-

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—There was every in-centive for good racing at the opening of the grand circuit meeting at Readville track this afternoon, for the weather was suburb, the going was very last and a big field in all four races made the heats very lively. The large crowd, therefore, thoroughly en-joyed the sport, although two of the favor-ites lost, but the winning of the big stake, the Blue Hill, by Annie Burns, and the fast pace by Gyp Walnut, evened up matters and the day ended satisfactorily. Meither Burns nor Walnut Fad an easy thing in their respective events, for it took five heats to decide the Elue Hill, and four the pace. With these two our of the way the talent looked about for more good things, but were considerably disapointed. The 2.17 pace went to Gentry's Treasure, in straight heats, although Fred S. Wedge-wood was looked upon is having the race well in hand, while in the three-year-old trot, T. W. Lawson's Dreamer, the hot-test favorite, was distanced in the very first locat. Bellisle.

heat. The interest of the day naturally centred in the big stake race, the Blue Hill, in its fifth renewal and horses faced the starter. fifth renewal and horses faced the starter. All eyes, however, were on Annie Burns, the little gray mare from Rushville, Ind., and she fulfilled expectations immediately by winning the first two heats, although pressed hard in the first by Middlemay. With two heats to her credit, there was a long grean, when in the third, just after the start, the mare went into the air and the distance flag. In the meantime, Dillo-nite, who had been pushing up through the field, took the lead and although pressed hard by Gracie Onward, capt red the heat. The horses were held back a bit in the last half so that Burns just managed to escape the flag.
