Art Club.

Last evening Mrs. John M. Lawrence read a most interesting paper before the Art Club in their rooms. Peel street, on The Louvre. The evening was to have been devoted to French art but failing the lecture, on the subject Mrs. Lawrence kindly consented to read a paper written on this subject and a very full and comprehensive paper it was. Having seen the pictures the lecturer was able to describe them in detail and appropriate quotations were introduced. Mrs. Lawrence gave a history of the Louvre, saying that the origin of the name is not known and tradition gives several different ways that it may have originated. Its authentic history begins a half century before the Cathedral of Notre Dame was finished. Built by King Philippe Auguste and in the 14th century used by Charles the Wise as a palace, lived in by kings, added to and finally used as a stable in the revolution. It has seen many changes. It was restored by Napoleon the Great and today is the greatest picture gallery in the world containing 3,000 pictures. The beauties of the buildings were illustrated by views, one particularly lovely one being the gallery of Apollo, said to be the most resplendent interior in the world. The Winged Victory niche is seen as one ascends the grand staircase. Views were shown of pictures by Botticelli, Da Vinci, Raphael, Van Dyke, Velasquez, Murillo and painters of the French school as Watteau, Boucher, Greuze, David. The last picture shown was the Venus de Milo. The audience were most appreciative and Mrs. Lawrence was heartily thanked for her delightful "talk" on the Louvre.

One wise mother tried the plan of buying a soda water, glass and some straws and the milk drinking instantly assumed the form of a favorite beverage, and tasted "just loads better." Often a child will rebel against plain milk, but will eat custards, cornstarch, puddings, junket and will not object to an abundance of milk or cream on cereals.

Here are menus for the growing child, furnished by a food expert, which may be helpful in selecting and balancing the diet:
Breakfast—A plate of well cooked cereal with sugar and cream. Then a soft boiled egg, a couple of slices of bacon, or a bit of creamed codfish, with plenty of whole wheat bread and butter, a little jam or marmalade, milk or cocoa, made with only enough of the cocoa to color, and lastly fruit, which is best in the form of apples, oranges or grapes, according to the time of the year. The starchy food or cereal should be served first and the fruit last.

Dinner—Soup made with meat stock if the stock is allowed to stand and all the greens skimmed off when it is cold, otherwise cream soups are better; meat, preferably chicken, chop, or fresh fish (as these are not so stimulating as beef) cooked without grease, a baked potato, a fresh vegetable (green vegetables should be given in abundance), with a simple sweet dish as dessert. Sweets should always be given at the end of the meal.

Supper—Whole wheat bread and butter, stewed fruit or some simple preserve, milk or cream. For variety light puddings, such as custards or gelatine puddings, sponge cake or oatmeal cookies.

Tips from the Gardener.
People make a mistake when they throw away their azaleas after the flowers have faded. If kept until warm weather and then plunged in a half-shaded spot in the garden the plants will bloom well for several seasons. Trimming must be done, though, as soon as the flowers have dropped, for the plants begin at once to make their buds for the next season. Fall trimming just naturally means no flowers. Azaleas come mostly from Belgium, and they are likely to be scarce next season.

Worldly Wisdom.
A winter imperialist—Old King Coal.
If you are in a hurry avoid the train of thought.
Some men value outward show more than inward worth.
Envy is an acknowledgment of the good fortune of others.
The plain, unvarnished truth is better than questionable rhetoric.

Style Notes.
A few styles of button-in-the-back waists are shown.
Bows and floating ends appear on some of the new hats.
Sometimes both the coat and skirt of a suit are box plaited.

help work of the citizens' committee, and the St. John Temperance Alliance. It was resolved to form such an auxiliary.

Good Food for Children.

Occasionally we hear a mother say, "I simply cannot persuade my children to drink milk, and I have given up trying to force them." She is right, for she is forsaking the forcing method, but if mothers realized the value of milk in their children's diet they would never cease coaxing ways and means to get this most valuable liquid into their stomachs.

Milk contains all of the ingredients needed, for nourishment—that is, it contains the materials which build up the little bodies, repair the waste which goes on, keep them warm, furnish them with power to play and do their school work when that time comes.

Very rarely we find a child who cannot digest cow's milk, but ordinarily the distaste is due to some fancy or notion which may be readily overcome.

One wise mother tried the plan of buying a soda water, glass and some straws and the milk drinking instantly assumed the form of a favorite beverage, and tasted "just loads better." Often a child will rebel against plain milk, but will eat custards, cornstarch, puddings, junket and will not object to an abundance of milk or cream on cereals.

A great deal of floral and ribbon samiture is seen on millinery.

Large flat collars of the sailor and Puritan variety are in vogue.

Very long, close-fitting sleeves are finished at the cuff with a white lingerie frill.

The British Army.

The members of Alexandra Temple of Honor No. 6 heard two good papers last night on the British army. One by S. C. Webb on the army since its inception until the present, and the other by Lieut. Roy F. Bell on the make-up of the army as it exists today. Lieut. Bell took up the different branches of the service and gave the numbers comprising each unit and the nature of the work they had to do. He dealt with the engineers with their two classes, field and bridge train. He next described the various artillery units and their work, the cavalry, the infantry and the Army Service Corps.

March 5, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Cleary, Dorchester, (Mass.) Mr. Brayden was at one time proprietor of the Loch Lomond Hotel at Upper Loch Lomond, and was for a time a resident of this city. About thirty-eight years ago he went to Boston, where he was employed with the Boston water-works department, having charge of the Dorchester section. He retired from that position some three years ago on account of ill health. Mr. Brayden is survived by three daughters—Mrs. John Hunter, Mrs. John Black, and Mrs. William Cleary, all of Dorchester (Mass.); Mrs. Annie Johnston, of Upper Loch Lomond, and Mrs. Ellen McLaughlin, of this city, are sisters. The funeral took place Tuesday, March 7, interment being made at Dorchester.

Death of Little One.

Victor Norman, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Babin, died at his parents' home in Canon street on Wednesday afternoon, March 9, at the age of two years and six months. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Interment took place in the new Catholic cemetery. The sympathy of many friends will be extended to the bereaved parents.

J. T. Currie.

The death of John Thomas Currie occurred yesterday morning at his residence, 65 Richmond street. Mr. Currie had been ill for some time, but the end came unexpectedly. He leaves, besides his wife, one daughter, Mrs. I. Crawford of this city; two brothers, George, of Parrsboro, N. S., and Albert, of Boston; and one sister, Mrs. Charles McCusker of East Boston.

William Rudebeck.

Many will learn with regret of the death of William Rudebeck, which occurred at his home in West St. John, the deceased, who conducted a carriage business in West St. John, was a native of Scotland and came to St. John over thirty years ago. He was a staunch member of the Presbyterian church in West St. John, and a member of the choir. He was also an active member of the Carleton Curling Club. He is survived by a wife, Mrs. Mary Rudebeck, and three sons. The sons are: Albert G. West St. John; William, Cambridge, Mass.; Chas. M., manager of the Haymarket Square branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia. Mrs. H. C. Olive is the only daughter and she resides in the city.

Obituary.

George F. Morris.
The death of George F. Morris, for some years engaged in the provision business, occurred yesterday at his residence, 17 Winslow street, West St. John, after about six months' illness. Mr. Morris came to this country from England about twenty years ago and had resided here since. He leaves besides his wife, four brothers and three sisters, only two of whom are resident in Canada. Fred, Morris, a brother, lives here, and a sister, Mrs. Edward Simmons, resides in Toronto. The late Mr. Morris was in his sixty-sixth year.

Mrs. Catherine Scott.

Ellsworth P. Scott, of 212 Millbrook avenue, this city, received a telegram Wednesday announcing the death of his mother, Mrs. Catherine Scott, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Alvin Sheridan, Cambridge, (Mass.), with whom she had spent the winter. Besides Mr. Scott and Mrs. Sheridan, Mrs. Scott leaves seven children. They are Charles, Hettie and Lester, of Portland (Me.); Melbourne, of New Haven (Conn.); Robinson, at Emerhill, Queens county; Mrs. Berkeley Morris, of New Haven; and Mrs. Fred Purvis, of Fredericton, J. M. Queen and Wendall Queen, of St. John, are nephews. Mrs. Scott's husband died many years ago.

The body of Mrs. Scott will be brought to St. John and taken to Summerhill, Queens county, for burial. She had a great number of friends, who will hear of her death with keen regret.

James Brayden.

Many friends in St. John will learn with regret of the death of James Brayden, which occurred Sunday, March 5, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Cleary, Dorchester, (Mass.) ## CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED, IF CONSTIPATED

When cross, feverish and sick give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely. A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system is full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with constipation.

News Of The St. John Theatres Told In The Right Way

Who's Who and What's What in the Picture Game and on the Stage—Film Favorites and What They Say and Do.

Damon and Pythias.

Damon and Pythias at the Opera House yesterday portrays the story of the world's greatest friendship. These two names with David and Jonathan have become synonyms for friendship and this picture could easily have for its title "Greater love hath no man than this." Each man might stand for Kipling's "Thousandth Man." It is a magnificent picture, and the principal characters are well taken, even to Damon's little son. The stage and screen are as good as those in "Judith of Bethulia," and that is saying a good deal. There are anxious moments when the audience fears that Damon will not return in time, or rather will be prevented from returning, for it is their mutual love and devotion that is so inspiring. It is a good picture for everyone to see.

So much cannot be said for the comedy called "From Beanery to Billions," for it is rather unnecessary and though very funny in places, much too funny in others. To my mind, but "Damon and Pythias" is worth seeing.

At The Lyric.

The Lyric yesterday had a very good show. The Mutual programme takes one through the twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul with their four miles, magnificent residences like palaces or hotels. The St. Paul state capitol and cathedral, the views of the St. Croix and Mississippi Rivers and beautiful winter effects of ice and snow make beautiful pictures. There were also five pictures of war sports, and P. S. Palmer's animated cartoon, "The MacGinnesses Turn Fishing."

The principal picture at the Lyric is called "The Truth of Fiction," the story of a novelist who goes to California and there sees the life of which she has been writing. It is a cattle ranch she visits, and the trick riding exhibited by the cowboy is alone worth seeing. The story is developed in an original way as the writer is supposed to have published her novel, and the two, in whose story she was deeply interested read the book of their own lives. Winifred Greenwood is the novelist; Ed Coxen and George Field are also in the cast.

Besides this at the Lyric there is a Beauty Film called "Mischief and a Mirror," with a Hallowe'en ghost story "most creepy" in it, and also some laughs.

Real laughs were heard when Ryan and Hazard appeared. The messenger boy has a smile that doesn't come off and his imitation dance was very funny. The parody that followed the song is also clever. They sing, dance and talk—are really different.

Madam Olive Timmons is singing today "Vida" a Spanish waltz song by Max Brice, and "Come Out Mister Sun Shine," by Paul Bliss.

Curl.

Is it Mary Pickford's beautiful looks which set the fashion, or is it just a stage fashion, or are we to come back to the days of ringlets and clustering curls? Have you noticed how nearly all the moving picture heroines have their hair piled up until the wedding day, and even then a curl or two is apt to escape below the veil? They are old enough, these stage beauties to go to balls and parties, wear conventional evening dresses, every other woman in sight has her locks properly coiffured but

Leo took a decided liking to Dreo.

Virginia Pearson's book, "The Book of Knowledge of the Movies," will soon be completed and will be distributed free among young people with photoplay aspirations.

"I'm willing to take chances, and I'm willing to do anything for the sake of realism," said Agnes Vernon (we quote the University City facilitator of publicity) and as she said it she smashed another gob
