15 BAKER ST., TORONTO, March 14th, 1878.

This is to certify that my son, aged 9 years, met with a serious accident by having one of his feet run over by a Grand Trunk express train, and it was supposed amputation would have to be performed. We had two doctors attending him for some days, without any perceptible improvement. I was then induced to try Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which reduced the pain after a few applications. To my surprise we could discover a decided improvement from the first few applications. As soon as we saw this improvement we discontinued the doctor's prescriptions, and the lacerated foot continued to mend, until, I am free to say, my boy was well in as many weeks as we expected it would take months, not taking into consideration the amount of pain he was relieved from. He is now as well as could be expected, after having his heel and ankle so badly crushed, and is free from stiffness of the joint, which the doctors said could scarcely be avoided.

QUICK AND SURE RELIEF

FOR SUDDEN ATTACKS OF

ASTHMA & CROUP

BY TAKING

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Internally in Sugar, Molasses or Milk, and applying it freely to the Throat and Chest. It never fails to arrest even the very worst symptoms, often cutting short the disease in a very few minutes of time; removing obstructions as if by magic; re-establishing free respiration; and giving the patient a new lease of life.

Chest and Lung Diseases.

Of all diseases to which frail humanity is liable, there are none more generally neglected in their commencement, or more fatal in their termination, than those arising from defective or suppressed perspiration, whether we regard them in the trivial light of a slight Cold, or whether we view them in the terrific form of Pulmonary Consumption—the latter, alas! but too frequently the sequel of the former. At the very first symptoms of a Cold, Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam should be administered. For sale by all dealers.

MRS. M. MILBURN, BENTLEY & PEARSON.

TOWNSHIP, March 2nd, 1878.

GENTLEMEN,—About the first of November last I contracted a very heavy cold, which settled on my lungs, and through it I was so hoarse for about two months that I could hardly speak. I used a number of different dollar bottles without any good effect. One day reading your almanac, I noticed that Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam was recommended. I resolved to try it, and after using three 25 cent bottles was entirely well.

Yours truly,

CHAS. COSENE, P.M.

A country paper speaks of a man who died "without the aid of a physician." Such instances of death are very rare.

A Frenchman, intending to compliment a young lady by calling her a gentle lamb, said, "She is one mutton as is small."

One pound of corn is equal as food to about 2½ pounds of potatoes, or 8½ pounds of cabbage, or to 1½ pounds of white turnips.

Why is a baby like a sheaf of wheat?—Because it is first cradled, then thrashed, and finally becomes the flower of the family.

"Benjamin!" shouted Mrs. Toodles to her husband, who was going out of the gate, "bring me up five cents worth of snuff when you come." "Snuff! Mrs. Toodles, snuff!" he ejaculated, as he paused with his hand on the latch. "No, no, Mrs. Toodles, the times are too hard to admit of such extravagance; you must tickle your nose with a straw when you want to sneeze."
