Annual conference will have special emphasis on Breast Cancer issues Toll roads topic of Dineen Lecture

Nurturing Ourselves, New Brunswick's 8th Annual Conference on Women's Health and Well-Being, will take place today and tomorrow at the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton.

"Although we are offering a tremendous variety of sessions, this year's conference has a special emphasis on breast cancer which affects so many women in our society," says conference organizer Marilyn Noble. "In conjunction with the New Brunswick Breast Cancer Network, we are bringing in Musa Mayer to give two sessions on writing illness narratives."

Once described as "a combat veteran of breast cancer," Ms. Mayer is a former psychotherapist and the internationally known author of Examining Myself: One Woman's Story of Breast Cancer Treatment and Recovery. Her sessions will help participants look at the writing process as a means of confronting their feelings, values and beliefs.

A Saturday morning plenary session titled Mother, Daughter, Sister, Friend and Self: Breast Cancer is Every Woman's Issue. It will explore the process of diagnosis, treatment and recovery as well as risk factors, coping strategies and emotional and lifestyle implications of the disease.

The conference opens with a free, public keynote lecture tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the J. Harper Kent Auditorium at the Wu Conference Centre. Barbara Cull-Wilby, a registered nurse, teacher, practitioner and consultant, will speak about Life as a Healing Journey.

Tomorrow, registered conference participants will choose from 24 workshops offered in four concurrent sessions at the Wu Conference Centre. Interested individuals are encouraged to register as soon as possible through UNB's department of extension and summer session.

Toll roads will be the subject of the 1997 Dineen Memorial Lecture at the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton on March 20.

Bruce Hutchinson, an international consultant and Civil Engineering professor at the University of Waterloo, has titled his lecture "Toll Roads: Economy and Efficiency or Political Abdication?" He will speak in Fredericton on Thursday, March 20, at 8 p.m. in the Dineen Auditorium, Head Hall. The lecture and reception which follow are free of charge and open to the public.

"Many countries have embraced policies of deregulation, privatization, public-private partnerships and direct user-pay in the transport sector," says Dr. Hutchinson. "The goals of these initiatives have been many but have frequently been stimulated by pressures to reduce public sector spending. His lecture will examine initiatives in the road transport sector in an historical context of road building and financing in Canada.

On the afternoon of March 20, Dr. Hutchinson will give a lecture on major Canadian engineering projects to UNB's engineering students and interested members of the public. It will take place at 2:30 p.m. in the Dineen Auditorium on the Fredericton campus. Dr. Hutchinson will use the Colosseum in Rome, Chartres Cathedral and 19th century long-span bridges to provide historical context for a discussion of Confederation Bridge and the National Gallery. The similarities in concepts and differences in materials will form the basis for his speculation about future projects.

Dr. Hutchinson holds Bachelor's, Master's and PhD degrees in Civil Engineering from the University of Sydney in Australia, Queen's University and the University of Waterloo,

Dr. Hutchinson holds Bachelor's, Master's and PhD degrees in Civil Engineering from the University of Sydney in Australia, Queen's University and the University of Waterloo, respectively respectively. A Civil Engineering professor at the University of Waterloo from 1962 to 1996, he now holds an appointment as adjunct professor. His current research and development activities focus on highway cost allocation, road pricing and air quality impacts, and the impact of trucks on the highway transportation system.

The Dineen Memorial Lectures began in 1980 and honor former Engineering Professor and UNB President James O. Dineen. The lectures, which focus on technology and its impact on society, are sponsored by the university, the faculty of engineering, the Associated Alumni of UNB and UNBSJ's Visiting Lecturers' Committee.
