

aldian, 118.
 litan, 119.
 light in boasting, 7;
 composition on his
 morality, 69; had no
 writings, 188; his
 , 320.
 erature, 279.
 fects, 263.
 ure, 266.
 pt for, 408.
 est of, 261.
 carelessness, 175.
 obeyed, 195; its in-
 ditions for success
 of its sincerity, 315;
 oect for culture, 317.
 h, 30; defence of,
 4, 350.
 , 324; uses of, 323;
 hat which is really
 of, in literature, 90.
 ledge, definition of,
 al breakdown, 4.
 how she obtained
 37.
 1, 358.
 roy, 34; at Alex-
 rrr.
 of, 75, 76; held to
 it, 103.
 a, 443.
 en, 411.
 bits in the country,
 ngs, 31.
 ians, 402.
 pline, 59.
 vigorous commo-

tion of, 35a.
 mobility, 315

, 354.
 of painting, 50.
 416; quotations
 and, 345.

tion, 375.
 nd, 153.
 42.
 ; brevity of, 143;
 omy of, 369; lost,

369; division of, 391; small spaces
 of, how to be utilized, 392; fragments of, useless in some pursuits, 393; in masses, 18.
 Time-savers, the best, 135.
 Titian at Venice, 443.
 Tobacco, 18.
 Töpffer quoted, 153.
 Towns, effect of ugly, upon the mind,
 431.
 Trade, effects of it upon the mind, 428.
 Trades, distinctions between, 425.
 Tradition, abandonment of, 200; decline of its influence, 201; favourable to professional skill, 207.
 Travel, Mr. Galton's advice about,
 334.
 Travels, 354.
 Turgot, his habits in eating and work,
 15.
 Tycho Brahe, 277; his fear of losing caste, 280; his establishment of Uranienborg, 436.

U.

Ultramontane party, 63.
 Unsoundness in knowledge, 137.

V.

Valvédre, 254.
 Vernet, Horace, his principle of work,
 339.
 Vinci, Leonardo da, 131.
 Virtue of trying to be disinterested,
 67.
 Vulgarity in France, 295

W.

Walters, polyglot, 124.
 Warwickshire, scenery of, repulsive to
 Dr. Arnold, 414.
 Wasted time, 136.
 Weakness, work done in, 33.
 Wealth, the temptations of it to which Englishmen yield, 170; its favourable effect on culture, 190; the science of, 421.
 Westmoreland, scenery of, effects on
 Dr. Arnold, 435.
 Westmorland, Lady, a letter of hers
 about Julian Fane, 211.
 Wives, 16.
 Wives, their great influence, 239.
 Worpke, Franz, mathematician and Orientalist, 74, 77.
 Women, education of, 230; good pupils, bad solitary learners, 236;
 how they help us, 26; their intellectual nature, 243; absence of scientific curiosity in, 245; do not invent, 247; their subservience to custom, 258; greatest misfortune of their intellectual life, 264; their reference to persons, 272.
 Woolen manufacturers, 426.
 Work spoiled in the doing, 180.
 Workers, decuded, 339.
 Wordsworth, effect of literary composition upon, 2; his pedestrianism, 29; his dread of writing, 47; his
 good fortune in money matters,
 182; his ignorance of modern works,
 381.

THE END.