

REASON NO 29 WHY YOU SHOULD USE Red Rose Tea

Because no premiums, prizes or coupons are ever given with Red Rose Tea, either to the merchant, clerk or consumer.

You don't get a premium with a pound of butter. Why? Because the butter is worth what you pay for it. Just so with Red Rose Tea; the tea itself is worth the full price.

A pound of tea is not worth the price when a premium is thrown in free. A premium costs something. You must pay for it.

If you are doubtful, use a pound of premium tea, then try a pound of Red Rose. You will soon discover why premiums cannot be given with Red Rose Tea, and if you like a rich, flavory, pure tea, you will use Red Rose in future.

WOMAN IN THE HOME.

Her First Duty is to enforce Order and Discipline.

"There can be no fixed rule governing woman's place in the home," said Mrs. J. Harry Selz. "Every woman must be the judge of how to dispose of her time to the best possible advantage. The woman of leisure is the woman who should strive to bring the highest degree of culture into the home to better her life and the lives of others. Culture is not to be attained through elaborate entertainment and a constant giving of time and energy to social pleasures. The woman who goes into society but little and gains her knowledge through patient and solitary study may be more cultivated than she who is constantly seen in public."

The first duty of a woman in the home is to have perfect order, for without order and discipline little is to be accomplished. Order is the foundation, and on this we should rear a beautiful structure. Our homes should have an atmosphere of refinement, be possessed of an air of sweet contentment. There is nothing too worthy for the home. When possible it should be embellished by good music, a carefully chosen library and worthy pictures. The truest hospitality lies in permitting our friends to share our pleasure without any desire at ostentation.—Chicago Post.

After all, a castle in the air does not need a plumber.

What we hope ever to do with ease we must learn to do with diligence.

MAKING UP THE FACE.

If You Must Use Rouge This Is the Way to Do It.

There is no drug store which contains a line of reds to match the white or tan or brown or olive of every skin. The woman who persists in using rouge should make her own preparation at home. This is not a difficult task. First, turn your mirror so that it is facing toward the light, or, better still, so that the light falls upon you from one side as you sit facing the mirror. Daylight is the only light in which a woman should make up. Have beside you a small box of carmine, a box of rouge de theatre, a box of prepared chalk and one of cream tinted face powder; also a little oil of sweet almonds and a few clean empty saucers. Try the rouge first. It may harmonize with your skin perfectly, but there are nine chances in ten that it will be very much off color. Scrape a little of it up and darken by mixing with a little carmine or lighten by mixing with a little of the white or cream powder as your judgment dictates. If you can get no good results, discard the rouge and work with the carmine and powder. When you have obtained a tint that blends with your skin mix in just a trifle of the oil of sweet almonds to give the whole adhesiveness. Remember your quantities and always keep your formula. Always put your rouge on very lightly with a hare's foot before powdering. Thus only is painting made artistic.—New York Press.

EARNING A LIVING.

Whatever Field a Girl Selects, She Should Excel In It.

To those girls who must look forward to supporting themselves the problem of work is a difficult one. Their efforts must be concentrated on some one thing.

I do not intend to write out a list of handicrafts or possible occupations for girls. I want rather to write of the spirit in which any one of them should be taken up by the girl who is forced to support herself.

Teaching is perhaps the most influential occupation into which a girl can readily go. For this reason it is often selected by those totally unqualified for any success in it. Unless a girl has thorough knowledge of her subject, fine self control and fondness for children she will probably make a failure of teaching. It should never be entered on except with the greatest sincerity, says the Ladies' Home Journal.

I can touch on only a few occupations and professions. Those more generally followed are teaching, literature, art, stenography, bookkeeping, clerking, millinery, dressmaking, etc. In preparing oneself for any or all of these the same general course may be recommended—above all, thoroughness. Teach yourself to do well the one thing you have chosen, devote your best energies to it and make up your mind to excel in it. If it be no more than working with pen and ink, make up your mind to work the best buttonholes that buttons were ever slipped through. Good workers are not often at a loss for work.

FOREHEAD FURROWS.

Worry More Than Age Brings These Disagreeable Wrinkles.

It is not always age that makes those disagreeable furrows across our foreheads and round our eyes. There are some grandmothers whose faces have hardly a wrinkle and some granddaughters whose brows are as smooth as theirs might be at sixty. Time is not responsible for these vexing little lines. A good many of them may be charged up against worry. If one gets in the way of fretting over everything that has gone wrong and everything one thinks likely to go wrong the record upon one's face will be as plain as print. Bad temper makes a mark which is hard to erase and is far uglier than the lines the happy years bring. Age cannot wrinkle the heart. Even when the face is crisscrossed with the tracery of a long lifetime the spirit may be as young as ever. But fretfulness and ill temper make wrinkles within as well as without. The little impatient line hardly noticeable on a smooth forehead means that a deep furrow has been plowed in the heart.

DON'TS FOR MOTHERS.

Don't forget that the wish that is gratified by some self sacrifice gains in value.

Don't forget that the orderly child is a blessing to himself as well as to others.

Don't fail to make companions of your children's school friends. Re-live with your children the happiest of all days, your school days.

Don't forget that a crowded shop is a poor place for children. If you must take them there, teach "touch not, taste not, handle not."

Don't expect "Yes, thank you, mamma," or "No, I would rather not, please, mamma," if you omit to use these small words yourself.

Don't permit the wild demonstrations of temper, the screaming and kicking which one sometimes—in fact, too often—witnesses. They demoralize both parent and child. They never need be if the very first demonstration is checked.

Shield Your Nerves.

A beautiful woman gave the following advice to a girl admirer: "Shield your nerves and don't let them become too sensitive. Make yourself take life calmly. If you lose a train don't pace the platform wildly, but inquire when the next comes in and sit down calmly to wait for it. That's just what most women don't do; they sit down, perhaps, but they tap the floor with their feet and clinch and unclinch their hands, apparently in a fever of excitement over the arrival of every train that comes in, even though they have been assured that theirs is not due for another half hour. That half hour of waiting, means to them a frightful wear and tear of nerves, and they are practically weeks older for it. Try to cultivate calmness; but, if you cannot do that all at once, you can keep your face still."—London Family Herald.

Hungarian Salad.

What to Eat recommends this Hungarian salad: Cut two Spanish onions in slices, putting them in a large bowl and pouring boiling water over them, letting the onions remain in the water for just one minute. Drain and plunge into ice water, letting them remain for several hours. Prepare four long green cucumbers, by paring and slicing and letting them remain in ice water for the same length of time. Drain the onions and the cucumbers and place them in a bowl, pouring over them a French dressing. This quantity seems rather large. A Spanish onion sliced fills a great deal of space. One onion to four cucumbers ought to be about right.

Painted Walls.

Painted walls are best for a kitchen, and they should be finished with a coat of enamel paint. Then they can be washed without injury. The best way to do this is by using a large carriage sponge fitted to a long handled mop holder.

Keene Tattoos.

In the Congo colonies of Belgium both men and women are tattooed, according to their status in society. A woman of high caste will have a design not unlike a zouave jacket worked upon her back, and it would seem that the native is as content with this mode of covering as if it were a substitute for clothing. By injecting the juice of certain herbs the scars left by the tattooing process retain a swollen appearance, giving the effect of bas-relief work. The thorns of the acacia are generally used as a needle, while a certain black clay is used as a coloring medium.

The Sober Officer.

On board the British troopship St. Lawrence, 1885, on a voyage round the cape to India, an officer left a convivial party in the saloon at midnight and, according to the sergeant of the guard, proceeded alone to visit the sentries, when the following dialogue was overheard: Officer—Sentry—Sentry—Yes, sir. Officer—You're asleep, sentry. Sentry—Oh, no, I'm not, sir. Officer—But I say you are asleep, sentry. Sentry—Very well, then, sir, I am. Officer—Then why on earth didn't you say you were asleep, sentry?

It is better to be able to appreciate the things we cannot have than to have things we are unable to appreciate.

Electric Waves.

Electric waves measured by Hertz and named after him—were found by the great scientist to be 150 feet from the top of one wave to the top of the next. The waves used by Marconi in telegraphing across the Atlantic are much longer. They are said to be 600 feet or more. They travel at the same speed as light, 184,000 miles a second. But the light wave measures only a few millionths of an inch.

Setting Her Right.

Aunt Rachel—I see you've patched it up with Archie, and he's coming here again, oftener than ever. He's asked you to marry him fifty times, hasn't he? Miss Mandy—Oh, dear, no, aunty, but I suppose he has asked me fifty times to marry him.

The Fateful Message.

Hubby—Didn't I telegraph you not to bring your mother with you? Wife—I could not help it, Frank. She insisted on coming after she'd read your telegram.

Derby's Market Stone.

In Derby, England, there is a curious relic of the great plague of 1665. It stands in the arboretum gardens and is commonly called "the market stone." To avoid infection the country folk from the surrounding villages would leave their orders for anything they might want with the watchman, who used to go into the town, make the necessary purchases and deposit them on the steps of "the market stone."

A Good Reason.

The good woman was distributing a few tracts behind the bars. "And what are you in for, my unfortunate friend?" she asked of No. 1318.

"Cause I can't git out," sullenly answered the prisoner.

And the good woman passed on.

An Extended Sonnet.

"Doesn't he? He wrote a sonnet with twenty-three lines the other day, that isn't originality, what do you say?"

BLOOD DISEASES CURED

He was surprised at how the sores healed. "I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been afflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itching of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish." W.
