Care of Pipes

Few things clog a waste pipe so readily as lint. Old scrub cloths and wash cloths are apt to shed lint and thread. These going down the pipes with refuse water are apt to cling and twist around the joints. They attach to themselves all small particles that but for them would pass through the sewer, thus in time clogging up the pipe. Well worn, lumpy scrubbing cloths should not be used in the house where there is plumbing. Dish cloths, also, as soon as they become lumpy, should be destroyed. Washrubs are apt to become either wholly or partially stopped up where there is much lint from the articles washed in them. Because the refuse water of the sink is large, tea leaves and coffee grounds are often disposed of by emptying them down it. There are a great many cases where no harm ever results from this practice, but it is better not to do it. In a household where the sink became stopped recently the plumbers, when they took the pipes to pieces, found the trouble due entirely to the gradual accumulation of coffee and tea grounds. Before the repairs were completed the plumber's bill amounted to a considerable sum.

Grease from dish water is also apt to accumulate in time and harden in the pipes. After pouring greasy water, or anything that has grease particles in it, down the sink, pour boiling water and salt-soda after it. Cold water carelessly thrown down helps to harden the grease that has gone before it.
