

Why Tea Quality Varies

YOU know how the quality of strawberries from the same patch will sometimes vary from one day to another.

One day sweet, compact, well ripened, well colored, richly flavored—next day it rains, is cloudy,—following picking is soggy, sour, green, coarsely-flavored, poor.

Tea, also, on account of its volatility of flavor, after picking and during the curing process is very susceptible to weather changes. A few hours of sunshine or bad weather after picking may make the difference between good and poor tea.

So that while one picking may be first class, the next from the same garden may be very poor.

I select only the pickings which come up to the Red Rose standards of richness and strength in Indian, and delicacy and fragrance in Ceylon teas, and thus that "rich, fruity flavor" of Red Rose Tea is produced and maintained.

A VERY CAREFUL WOMAN.

Lady Eldon Could Not Abide Anything Like Extravagance.

Lord Chancellor Eldon was energetically aided in his parsimonious habits by his wife, of whom it was said that she and her daughter had but one bonnet between them. The Rev. R. H. Barham, author of "The Ingoldsby Legends," records in his diary an amusing story of Lady Eldon's parsimoniousness:

"June 1, 1822.—The chancellor is very fond of shooting. One morning last year his lordship, intending to enjoy a few hours' sport after a rainy night, ordered Bob, the pony, to be saddled. Lady Eldon told him he could not have it, but company being in the room, gave no reason. In a few minutes, however, the servant opened the door and announced that Bob was ready.

"Why, bless me," cried her ladyship, "you can't ride him, Lord Eldon. He has got no shoes on."

"Oh, yes, my lady," said the servant, "he was shod last week."

"Shameful!" exclaimed her ladyship. "How dared you, sir, or anybody have that pony shod without orders? John," continued she, addressing her husband, "you know you only rode him out shooting four times last year, so I had his shoes taken off and have kept them in my bureau ever since. They are as good as new, and these people have shod him again. We shall be ruined at this rate."

CATCHING A LOON.

The Way a Hunter Got One and Why He Let It Go.

Once, and only once, I caught a young northern diver, says Graham West in Recreation. It was in July in the Laurentians in a little lake far back in the forest covered hills, always nest on small islands in lakes, never where foxes can get at the eggs or young. The birds at first are coal black. The one I took was the size of a pigeon and it took me twenty minutes to get it. When pursued the little fellows make for the open deep water, never swim among the weeds, and fly entirely upon their wonderful diving powers. You can only catch them when they are very young and on a perfectly calm day when you can see them the instant they come up.

I followed the bird so quickly that I was always near when it rose and by shouting and brandishing the paddle frightened it into diving before it had regained its wind. At length it could not dive more than a foot or two below the surface and then I caught it in my hand. It was savage and sea-sick in the canoe. The mother kept near it from first to last, swam round the canoe, calling most plaintively while the note being "Whe-on-on," quite distinct from the usual mocking laugh, "Ha-ha-ha-ha! Ha-ha-ha-ha!" I paddled the little loon about a mile and then put it aboard very gently, and the mother led it off in triumph.

Most Men Have It.

"That man who turned the corner a moment ago will probably go into No. 149," said the lazy man on the front steps.

The woman stood up to look. "It was 147," she said.

"That is near enough," said the lazy man. "I knew he would stop some place in this part of the block."

"But how could you tell?" asked the woman.

"I could tell by the door key grab," was the reply. "Most men have it. Not one man in a hundred waits till he gets to his own door to take out his latch-key. The minute he turns into his own block he unconsciously digs into his pockets."

Bee Comb.

Bee comb or beeswax, the material of which the honey cells in the beehive are composed, is a wax produced by a system of chemistry carried on in the "wax pockets" which are located in the abdomen of all working bees. It is a peculiar substance and is said to be analogous to the fats of higher animals. Originally it was supposed that this wax was taken up in an almost pure state from the flowers by the bees, but recent experiments carried on by the leading botanists and chemists of the world conclusively prove that the bee is capable of elaborating his peculiar wax, although confined to a diet purely saccharine in its nature.

How He Got the Moon.

John Henry Maedler, the astronomer, whose favorite study was the moon, having learned that Frau Witte, the wife of the state councillor, owned a wonderful model of his pet luminary, spent years trying to gain possession of it. As her husband was living, he could not marry the owner of the model, so he married her daughter, and at the death of his mother-in-law the coveted moon became his.

A Lesson Wasted.

A mother was showing her dear little Joe a picture of the martyrs thrown to the lions and was talking very solemnly to him, trying to make him feel what a terrible thing it was.

"Ma," said he all at once, "oh, ma, just look at that poor little lion right behind there. He won't get any."

A Harsh Order.

On the beach near an English town a sign bearing this legend was nailed to a post:

"Notice.—Any person passing beyond this point will be drowned. By order of the magistrate."

Perverted.

Young Husband—I wish I were single again. Wife—What for? You monster! Young Husband—To have the joy of marrying you again. Wife—You darling!

BABY GIRL'S AWFUL HUMOUR

Would Scab Over, Break Open, and Be Raw—Intense Suffering for Two Years—Doctors and Medicines Failed to Help Her.

CURED BY CUTICURA WHEN ALL ELSE FAILED

Writing under date of August 15, 1904, Mrs. L. C. Walker, of 5 Tremont Street, Woodford, Me., says: "My sister had a terrible humour on her shoulder when she was eighteen months old, causing intense suffering for two years. We had several doctors, and tried everything, but in spite of all we did it kept spreading. One day it would scab over and then crack open and a watery matter ooze from it and the scabs would all fall off. It would be raw for a time, then scab over again. Some one recommended Cuticura, and we immediately procured a box of Cuticura Ointment, and a cake of Cuticura Soap. She was much better after the first bath with warm water and soap, and an application of the Ointment. Before it was half gone we saw a marked change for the better, and she was entirely cured, without a scar being left, by the use of one box of Ointment and one cake of Soap. Her skin is now entirely clear, and she has not had a sign of trouble since."

HUMOR

THE WRONG TRIP.

The Excited Man Should Have Waited Before Taking His Leap.

The ferry dock was crowded with weary home goers when through the crowd rushed a man hot, excited, laden to the chin with bundles of every shape and size. He sprinted down the pier, his eyes fixed on a ferryboat only two or three feet out from the pier. He passed by an instant on the string-pieces, and then, dived on by the pier, he made a flying leap across the intervening stretch of water and landed safely on the deck. A fat man happened to be standing on the exact spot on which he struck, and they both went down with a resounding crash. When the arriving man had somewhat recovered his breath he apologized to the fat man. "I hope I didn't hurt you," he said. "I am sorry. But, anyway, I caught the boat!" "But, you blanked fool," said the fat man, "the boat was coming in!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

They Knew the Answer.

"You never can tell how children are going to apply things," said a public school teacher.

"The other day I asked the class what a fort was. One boy answered, 'A place to put men in.'"

"Then what's a fortress?" said I.

"A place to put women in!" exclaimed the class in unison.—New York Press.

Held Up.

"By the way, what has become of Brown's book, 'One Hundred Short Cuts to Wealth,' that he was working so hard upon last year?"

"Oh, Brown finished the book all right, but was unable to raise money enough to have it published."—Judge

Usual Performance.

"Then so far as you are aware," said the lawyer who was doing a cross-examining stunt, "your wife was performing her usual household duties when the accident occurred?"

"Yes," answered the witness; "she was talking."—Detroit Tribune.

Soliloquy.

"I wish you is gone into business," said Miss Miami Brown.

"Yes, indeed," answered Mr. Erasmus Pinkley. "It's raisin' chickens an' sellin' 'em."

"What's de matter? Is you los' yob appetite?"—Washington Star.

Latest.

"Charles Van Newport's new automobile will seat forty people."

"Great Scott! Did you say forty?"

"Sure! Fifteen doctors, fifteen surgeons, six machinists, two fine settlers, the chauffeur and Charlie."—Columbus (O.) Dispatch.

Breaking Her Word.

She—Would you believe it? When the bride came to the word "obey" in the wedding service she stuttered terribly.

He—Well, she might just as well break her word one time as another.—Yonkers Statesman.

All Alone.

"Ah," said Bragg with a view to making Miss Brightley jealous, "I was alone for quite awhile last evening with one whom I admire very much."

"Ah," replied Miss Brightley, "alone, were you?"—Catholic Standard and Times.

Remember the Editor.

Love letters should always be written only on one side of the paper. This will make it much more convenient for the newspapers when the letters are read in court in breach of promise suits.—Somerville Journal.

The Other Girl.

"It's a wonder she doesn't take up athletics. Doesn't she believe in a strenuous life?"

"Yes, but I think she finds husband hunting a sufficiently strenuous occupation."—New York Press.

Puzzled.

"Is this sure enough a camel's hair brush, mamma?"

"Yes, dear."

"Gee! I don't see how a camel can ever brush its hair with that thing!"—Houston Post.

Solvent at Last.

"She—I should think you'd be ashamed to be placed under guardianship!"

He—Nonsense! It's the best evidence in the world that I've still some property left.—Ellegende Blatter.

and it will make one pound of flesh on less food than any other farm animal because its digestive juices are stronger.

It is the ideal meat making machine. Hence every effort should be made to keep it "up" and growing from birth. No let up because it is too much effort to get it back.

It is less effort to draw a wagon on a given distance if constantly in motion than if stopped and started every once in a while.

It keeps them in tip-top health enabling them better to resist disease, thereby making a firmer flesh. It gets them to market weight much sooner, saving feed bill. Nothing better for hogs. Equally good for Horses, Cattle and Sheep.

Nothing injurious in it and cannot feed it without harmful effects.

The "Royal Household" Brand on Flour is your protection.

The "Royal Household" brand on a barrel or bag of flour means that Ogilvie guarantee that flour to be the best—that if it is not satisfactory you may return it and get your money back.

Ogilvie stand behind every pound of flour that bears their "Royal Household" Brand.

That is your protection.

Most people do not realize the necessity of absolute purity in flour—great care is taken to use only pure milk, pure water, etc., but flour, that one thing that forms the greatest part of their food, is taken on chance—but they are learning better.

As Royal Household Flour is the only flour in this country thoroughly purified and sterilized by electricity it is not worth while to give it at least a trial.

It bears the stamp of the most responsible makers. You can have no better guarantee than the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co.

No bolts—no cement in "Hecla" Furnaces.

HECLA FURNACES are not put together with bolts and cement. If you know anything about furnaces, you know what that means. Heat expands bolts more or less than the metal surrounding them—and they work loose. Cement drops out. Then gas, smoke and dust creep through the cracks and poison the air.

HECLA JOINTS ARE FUSED at white heat and welded together. That makes a solid sheet of metal so there can be no escape of gas, smoke or dust.

If you are putting in a new
