GOOD APPLE MARKET

That Canadian apple growers have it in their power to secure and retain a very lucrative market in England is the opinion of Joel Goodwin, senior partner in the firm of J. & H. Goodwin, fruit importers of Manchester, England, who is at present in Toronto, this being his first visit to Canada since 1894. Canadian apples, says Mr. Goodwin, give through satisfaction if they are properly selected and packed. When the English crop fails and the demand for foreign apples is heavy there is a tendency on the part of Canadian growers to be careless as to the quality and packing, and the consequence is that consignments arrive in bad shape, and poor prices are obtained. Regular fruit growers seem to understand the need of the trade.

AN IMPROPER PRACTICE

The Canadian Magazine Criticises Methods of Running By-Elections

There is political custom in this country which cannot be too strongly condemned. When a by-election comes on, or even in a provincial contest, the leaders of the Government at Ottawa take an undue interest in the campaign. This practice dates back to remote periods in our history and has been followed most tenaciously by each party when in power. Notwithstanding its antiquity it is unjustifiable.

Sir John McDonald believed most thoroughly in it, and was always tremendously careful while he was Premier, that by-elections should result favorably to his party. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has followed in his footsteps and has even gone so far as to arrange the new provincial cabinets. No doubt these two statesmen, perhaps the ablest of Canada's parliamentarians, were quite conscientious in their adherence to this practice, and felt that they were but performing a political duty—a duty which they owed to their supporters and to the parties whose acknowledged leaders they were. Nevertheless one may venture to point out that such conduct is incompatible with the dignity of a Minister of the Crown.

Not only undignified but it frustrates the purpose of by-elections. These should be a test of the changing feelings of the country, a reading of the political barometer. The result is usually given that interpretation. Yet, the party in power is quite willing to build a few extra docks, a post office or two, an armory, or incur some other trifling expenditure in order to influence the result. "We must win" is the cry. Party workers from other districts are imported; all kinds of influence are brought to bear; cajolery, threats, inducements are used in a most indecent manner. For what?

That the public verdict should be truly representative of the feelings of the people? No, indeed. Rather, that the real opinion of the people should be stifled.

I do not go so far as to claim that a Cabinet Minister should not enter the constituency and deliver one or two addresses on the questions of the day. I do not object even to a political garden-party or picnic. It is the "machine" which brings disgrace upon political life—the machine which invades the bar rooms, the kitchens, the places where men resort and tamper with their judgement. When the Cabinet Minister becomes a wheel in that machine, or when he becomes part of its motive power, he travesties his high office. And since as far back as my memory extends Canada has had few Cabinet Ministers who have refused to stoop so low. They have trampled decency in the dust, even when their majority was over fifty, and quiet large enough for all practical purposes.

There is an insensate desire to win, to win always, to prove that your opponents are fools, even though they are among the best citizens in the land. It is ludicrous. It is elementary in its conception, it is entirely destructive of those high principles of political conduct which have made British public life the most admirable and valuable political product of a political age.

Canada has arrived at the stage when she should put away childish things. Both Government and Opposition at Ottawa should take a larger view of political actions than has been the custom in the past. The pettiness of parish politics should vanish before the rising sun of a great nation's self-respect and international reputation.

RADIANT WOMANHOOD.

The glory and satisfaction of beautiful womanhood can be known only to those possessing the unlimited advantages of health. No weak woman can be happy or enjoy half the pleasures of life. Pallid cheeks, sunken eyes, exhausted nerves, all tell of a terrible struggle to keep up. What the weak woman wants is Ferrozone it renews, restores and vitalizes instantly—it's a "woman's remedy"—that's why. Ferrozone makes women strong, plump and healthful because it contains lots of nourishment, the kind that forms muscle, sinew, bone and nerve. Vitalizing blood courses through the body, making delightful color, happy spirit, and womanly strength. Fifty cents buys a box of Ferrozone in any drug store.

SOUSA—ADAMS.

New York papers announce the marriage of Miss Susan Eileen Adams, daughter of Mr. Thos. D. Adams, of Bathurst and New York to Mr. John Philip Sousa, jr., son of the famous band leader. The wedding took place on Monday at the home of the bride on West Seventieth street amid a profusion of white chrysanthemums and autumn leaves. The bride was gown in white, with a veil of tulle. The overdress was a handsome creation of white point lace. There were no attendants, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Matthew Taylor, of the Roman Catholic Church of the Blessed Sacrament. The wedding was the culmination of a romance which began at Shelter Island, when Mr. Sousa was with his family at their summer place there and Miss Adams was a guest at the Manhasset Hotel. They met at a dance and it was love at first sight. Mr. Sousa was graduated from Princeton in 1904, being a popular member of the Tiger's baseball team. After a reception Mr. and Mrs. Sousa left for a honeymoon trip to Virginia Hot Springs and the South. The New York Herald said the bride possesses a charming personality and is popular among the younger set.

Did you ever make a personal sacrifice?

Asked the visiting parson. Yes, indeed replied Mrs. De Style. "I once declined to be interviewed by a society reporter."

EMIGRANTS FOR NEWFOUNDLAND.

London, Nov. 1.—Complaints have reached the colonial office in connection with recruiting by private agents of artisans and joiners for Newfoundland. Intending emigrants are advised not to entertain offers of the kind in future without previously communicating with the Newfoundland Government, or the chief clerk at the emigrants' information office.

You look like a man who would forgive an enemy, remarked the long-haired person.

I probably would, rejoined the local politician, if I had time; but it keeps me busy forgiving my fool friends.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS SICK?

Let your morning urine stand for 24 hours in a glass or vessel, and then if it is milky or cloudy, or contains a reddish brick-dust sediment, or if particles or germs float about in it, your kidneys are diseased. If the kidneys are well they filter just so much blood, but if they are sick or weak from any cause, they leave the poison in the blood, and this poison affects the entire system.

It is natural to pass urine three times a day, but many who regard themselves as healthy are obliged to pass water six to ten times daily and are obliged to get up frequently during the night. They have sick kidneys and bladder and don't know it. Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills cure Rheumatism and all Kidney and Bladder diseases, and make new, rich blood.

We will send you a generous sample post paid free, together with our large book on the above mentioned diseases. Address, W. P. Smith Co., 185 St. James Street, Montreal, Canada.
