WITH THE FARMERS

THE COMING POULTRY SHOW.

With the Poultry and Pet Stock Show in Edmonton on January 25th, 26th, 27th and 28th, the Poultry Branch of the Provincial Department of Agriculture makes the following suggestions for those who intend to patronize the show:

"The successful exhibitor," says the poultry expert, "should not take his birds from the barnyard or the show room, but selects his birds some time before and gives much care and thought to preparing them so that they will appear to the best advantage."

"First select the birds that conform as nearly as possible to the requirements of the Standard of Perfection. These birds should be placed apart in dry, clean quarters and given special feed and attention to keep them in the best of health and it is well to give attention to this particular. A little well-bred linseed oil in the mash will greatly increase the gloss of the plumage."

"If the birds are inclined to be nervous, place them in a cool, quiet room as often as possible. If they are fed in a coop they will come to the front expecting to be fed. Use a broom to sweep them up and place them in the show room. Wash them with a mild soap, then rinse in cool water. If the birds are white a little bluing in the rinse water makes a great improvement in the color of the legs and feet of the bird should be washed carefully. After washing the birds should be completely dried in a warm room, without being exposed too directly to the heat. They can be rubbed gently with a soft towel, great care being taken in adjusting the feathers, as broken or ragged feathers count against the score. The birds should be thoroughly dry before being placed again in the pen, in which should be plenty of clean straw."

"The exhibitor who enters the exhibition, will be in Edmonton with the week of the Poultry Show and will give several lectures in the interests of the poultry industry. He will be acting as judge of the poultry show. Indications are that all previous poultry exhibitions in Edmonton have far surpassed this year in the number and quality of the entries."

CANADIAN DAIRY OUTLOOK.

Speaking at the Western Ontario Dairy Convention, at Brantford, Ont. J. A. Ruddick, dairy and cold storage commissioner for Ontario, gave a world-wide review of the dairy industry. Two of the notable developments of the last ten years were the increase in the increase in butter consumption in Great Britain, and in the change in Germany from a butter importer to a butter exporter. A few years ago Germany exported butter to a large extent, and now imports an amount of one hundred million pounds a year, mostly from Denmark, Holland and Russia. In Britain the imports of butter are estimated for June 30 last were $1,753,520 lbs in the year 1927.

Among the countries which produce a surplus of butter, Denmark ranks first with an annual export of about 2,000,000. Russia's Siberian surplus is second in this respect, an enormous expansion having taken place since 1924, when the export of butter from Siberia amounted to only 14,400 lbs. The increase which has taken place in the production of that part of the world is due to the enormous flow of immigrants from that part of Russia. Up to 1926 the average annual immigration into Siberia amounted to about 60,000 people annually, while in 1927 it reached half a million, and in 1928 it is estimated to be about 420,000. The building of the Siberian railway to the Pacific coast has increased the connection of the line with rivers flowing north and south, and has rendered it possible for this increased population, which is largely devoted to dairying, to market its output with comparative ease. Hence the fact that Siberia, in 1926, was the largest exporter of 1,000,000 lbs. of butter or only 65,000,000 lbs., less than Denmark exported in the year 1927.

Australia comes third as an exporter of butter, but Australia's output varies greatly with the rainfall. For instance, in 1922, the export from that country was only a little over seven and three-quarter million pounds, while in 1924, after a good rainfall, it reached sixty-four and three-quarter millions. At one time it was thought Argentina would become a great exporter of butter, but this expectation has not been realized, the people of that country preferring the production of beef and mutton, to which lines of industry their great ranching areas are peculiarly adapted. The United States exports a surplus of butter, but the output of the present year is expected to reach 35,000,000 lbs. or three times as much as in 1926. Furthermore, New Zealand has in some respects the advantage over Canada in the matter of cheese making. The factories in that country are larger than ours, some of them making as much as 143 cheese in a day, thus giving uniformity in quality. Besides this, New Zealand cheese are practically cool-cured, as the weather is never as hot there as with us, and the cheese of that colony are of necessity
