THE COMMERCIAL BANK.

A general meeting of the shareholders of this Bank was held at Kingston on Tuesday, when the statement of liabilities and assets, as at Dec. 31st, was read. The total liabilities are $1,881,178 and the assets are $5,881,178. The chairman read a report stating that the Directors had received an offer from the Merchants' Bank to amalgamate with the Commercial Bank on the basis of one share for three, or in other words, taking the stock of the bank at 83 1/3 per cent of its par value, and that after mature consideration the Directors had decided on recommending the shareholders to accept it. He remarked that it might be asked how they could recommend such an offer after the recent valuation of the stock at 60 cents on the dollar, but it must be remembered that assets in liquidation were not the same thing as assets in a bank carrying on its usual business. A telegram from Mr. King, on behalf of the Bank of Montreal, was received and read. It is as follows: "In case any terms for sale or amalgamation are proposed less favourable than the following at the Commercial Bank meeting to-day, this Bank is willing to enter into negotiations at about 30 cents on the dollar, leaving the Milwaukee bonds for the Commercial Bank shareholders, provided the published statement of assets and liabilities are found on examination to be correctly stated and valued." Mr. King's offer was looked upon as a bunkum one, and the report recommending the adoption of the offer of the Merchants' Bank was then carried almost unanimously. The Merchants' is a strong bank, presided over by Mr. Hugh Allan, and the new stock will probably command a large premium at an early day. The arrangement is the best that could be effected under the circumstances.

The Press—Important Libel Suit.

The libel suit against the London Times, which ended last month and resulted in verdict for the defendant, is another step and an important one in the struggle of the press for freedom to publish news. Most people will be surprised to learn that it is still a question whether a newspaper may print reports of the debates in Parliament without being liable in damages in whatever was uttered by the speakers. In either House the words are privileged, but whether the privilege extended to the printing of them next morning, nobody could say with certainty. Mr. Rigby Watson is the public benefactor who has brought this question to an issue. Thirty years ago, Mr. Watson contested the borough of Ipswich with Mr. Kelly, and was beaten. Mr. Kelly, then a rising barrister, became subsequently Sir Fitzroy Kelly, Attorney-General, and is now Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer, the third judicial office in the United Kingdom. Shortly his appointment his old antagonist Mr. Watson, presented to the House of Lords, through Earl Russell, a petition alleging that the Lord Baron had been guilty, 30 years before, of pledging his honor as a gentleman to a statement which was false, and praying for his removal. It is only just to Mr. Watson to say that he had made the charge at the time, Mr. Kelly had promptly challenged him for it, and Mr. Watson took refuge from a duel in the protection of the police. The bringing forward of the accusation after this lapse of time provoked a debate in the Lords, in which Mr. Watson's charge was proved to be wholly groundless, and in which he was pretty roughly dealt with by the Lord Chancellor, Lord Derby, and Lord Russell himself. Next morning The Times, as a matter of course, contained a report of the debate. Mr. Watson's exasperation at the failure of his long-cherished attack on his old enemy was so extreme as to lead him to attempt criminal proceedings against The Times for publishing the debate, and an article commenting on it. His application at Guildhall for a warrant was summarily refused, and he then commenced the civil action which was tried this week.

The case seems preposterous enough on this statement of it, yet it is plain, from the charge which the Lord Chief Justice of the Queen's Bench delivered to the jury, that the right of The Times to publish its report stood in need of judicial affirmation. His Lordship discusses the subject at length, and it is impossible to doubt (indeed there was no evidence to prove the contrary) that the report was a fair one, and says: "That being so, I am prepared to direct you in point of law that it was a privileged publication, and one which cannot be the subject of an action. I believe that this question now presents itself for the first time for adjudication in that plain and simple form which it now takes." He adds that there may be dicta to be found in the books which have a different tendency, but the larger and more enlightened view as to the law of libel which have gradually made their way, the proposition I have stated to you may now be taken to be law; and although I do not know that any case has gone the length of establishing the view of the law which I have laid down, I find none which contradicts it."

THE NEW YORK FENIANS.—The New York Fenian leaders have issued an address to the public repudiating, on behalf of Fenianism, the blowing up of the Clerkenwell prison, the sending of detonating letters through the Post Office and the many other villainies of a similar kind which have lately been committed in England and Ireland. We wonder if these rascals think any one will believe them. We shall next hear them declare they did not make a raid into Canada in the summer of 1866 and shoot down a number of our young men in the most wanton and cruel manner.

is quite probable that Mr. James Cowan, late member for South Waterloo, will be nominated to the vacant seat in the Senate caused by the death of the late Hon. Mr. Blair. The appointment would, we believe, meet with general favour.

WESTERN STRAITSBOAT ACCIDENTS.—Official reports show that during the past year 128 accidents of all kinds occurred on the western and south-western rivers; 82 of which resulted in the total destruction of the boats, involving a loss of $645,000, on which there was an insurance to the amount of $513,000. The other casualties resulted in only a partial destruction of the boats. Seventy-seven lives are known to have been lost by these accidents, and it is believed that about 20 more might be added to the list.

DOMINION STOCK.—It is understood that tenders will be immediately invited for the new six per cent. Canada Dominion Stock, and that applications will be received at designated offices at Montreal, Toronto, Quebec, Ottawa, Halifax, and St. John, N. B. This loan will remain open, it is said, for about three weeks.
