

A. E. SEABROOK
CHOSEN HEAD OF
HEALTH BOARDTrades and Labor Council
Writes For Declaration
On Minimum Wage.

WILL INVITE DISCUSSION

Dr. Downham States Attitude
On Question of Inspecting Dental Offices.

A. E. Seabrook, ex-alderman, is chairman of the 1922 Board of Health, having been chosen at the inaugural meeting held on Tuesday afternoon. The new board decided that in future it would meet at nights on the second Tuesday of every month.

The opening session was not a busy one and the members eased into their new duties without much trouble.

Two communications from the Trades and Labor council came in for some attention. One addressed to the council and sent on to the Board of Health, was designed to bring about a declaration in regard to a minimum wage. The resolution was somewhat involved. It contended that many health authorities held that much disease and sickness was due to the inability of the worker to provide the necessities of life and asked the council to have the medical officer of health to investigate and report on the extent of preventable disease due to the lack of proper food and clothing. When this report was presented the resolution asked that the council petition the legislature to pass a minimum wage law that will give working people an adequate wage to avoid sickness, disease and distress.

Ald. Cunningham said that it would be necessary first to lay out a diet.

Advocate Dental Inspection.

Dr. Downham said that the health act did not cover all the points involved in the resolution. In regard to the question of diet, people were not satisfied with a diet. He pointed to the fact that the diet of the soldiers was such as would enable them to do hard work but they were not satisfied and patronized the canteens liberally.

Inspector Sanders pointed out that at the jail they fed people on twenty cents a day and prisoners always seemed to improve while in jail.

The Trades council will be further communicated with. Ald. Cunningham suggested that representatives of the council be invited to discuss the matter with the members of the board at its next meeting.

The second matter from the Trades council was presented by Ald. Cunningham. It advocated the inspection of dental offices from the health department.

Dr. Cunningham said that proper inspection had been suggested a couple of years ago by the Dental Association, but the government was not ready for such legislation. He pointed out, however, that it would be necessary to have qualified men appointed to do such work and the dentists had advocated a provincial appointment.

Dr. Downham had two letters from Dr. McCullough, provincial M.O.H., in regard to the Trades council resolution, in which he stated that investigation or inspection was not practicable unless a complaint was made. In the second letter he could not see a practical reason for the inspection and suggested that the M.O.H. should see the Trades council officers and learn the grounds for their resolution, then, if necessary, an inspection might be ordered.

Will Await Complaint.

Dr. Downham said that if a complaint was made to him in writing he would act on it, but otherwise would not take up the matter.

Mr. Baker will write to the Dental college in the meantime and learn just how the matter of provincial inspection stands.

Chairman Seabrook, Dr. Downham and City Clerk Baker will go into the provincial bylaw with an idea of getting suggestions to remodel the city health bylaw for the regulation of the sale of meat and the placing of meat on sale. It was also suggested that the sanitary inspector undertake an educational campaign among butchers with a view to getting them to encase all meat on the counters in glass so as to prevent people handling it.

The conclusion of the business of the meeting Chas. Mitchell moved a vote of confidence in the members of the board's staff which was approved by all.

Board Will Decide On
Question of Public
Using Schools

SO great has been the demand in the past few weeks for permission by various societies, mothers' clubs and similar bodies for the use of the public schools that it has been proposed by members of the board of education that at its next gathering a special committee be selected to consider this question fully and define some definite policy to be observed in the future.

Trustee Edwin Smith, chairman, reiterates his contention that the schools of the city should be placed at the disposal of the public on every possible occasion for any reasonable undertaking. In this stand he is strenuously upheld by Trustees Wright and Hunt, while Trustee Hayman, on the other hand, holds forth that it will be difficult for the board to decide just where to draw the line.

In order that some definite course to pursue be outlined, some of the trustees believe that the proposed committee be appointed to consider the situation for once and all.

SUES FOR $3,500
AS RESULT OF
AUTO ACCIDENTPhilip Price Enters Claim Against Hugh McCrimmon of London.

KNOCKED OFF BICYCLE

Plaintiff Sustained a Broken Leg and Alleges Permanent Injuries.

Two more cases have been set down for trial at the winter assizes at the court house on Jan. 30, before Mr. Justice Mowat.

A jury action for $3,500 has been instituted by Philip Price, a local mechanic, against Hugh McCrimmon and his wife, Mrs. Ruth McCrimmon, for damages sustained when Price was knocked off his bicycle on Waterloo street on Sept. 18, 1921.

Mr. Price, in his statement of claim, says that he was proceeding north on Waterloo street on the east side of the road when without warning a car driven by Mrs. McCrimmon collided with his bicycle, throwing him to the ground and destroying the "bike." He sustained a broken leg as the result of the accident, was permanently injured, and has not been able to work since.

The defence submits that the plaintiff negligently came in front of the car just as it was passing him, and the collision was the result of carelessness on the part of Mr. Price, and Mrs. McCrimmon was driving with reasonable care.

The Molsons Bank, in a non-jury action, claims $20,015.44 from B. Williams of Ottawa as acceptor of several bills of exchange, totalling the above amount and payable to the bank.

Supported Purchases.

Mr. Williams in his statement of defence claims that the bank was carrying on business in Clinton in September, 1919, by an agent, Henry Pollock, manager of the Doherty Piano Company. He entered an agreement with Pollock whereby he should buy 65 pianos at $219 each and 35 player-pianos at $388 each. Pollock represented himself as a director of the bank and treasurer of the company, and intimated that the bank would finance the purchase.

Fifty-four pianos and 15 player-pianos only were delivered to the defendant, and to provide for payment the bills of exchange were drawn up, payable four months after date.

The defendant sold the pianos on the instalment plan, extending over a period of years, and has paid the money received, less overhead expenses, to the bank, as it was understood by the bank that they were to receive their money that way.

It was agreed at the time of purchase that the pianos were to be of high quality, but they were 15 to 20 per cent defective, a number of them being made from green wood.

Mr. Williams claims that he had to take a number of them back from the purchasers and sell them over again at reduced prices, and counter-claims $11,600 for his losses and asks for an account taken of the payments made to the bank by him.

QUEBEC BANS LIQUOR DISPENSING IN CLUBS

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—After February 1, no clubs in the province of Quebec will be able to dispense liquor of any kind. They will be empowered to sell or distribute only beer and wines. An order to this effect was issued broadcast by the Ontario Liquor Commission yesterday and caused consternation among proprietors of clubs and members across the river. Applications for over 40 new clubs had been submitted during the past few days to the Quebec Liquor Commission but entering Hull merchants in most cases these applications will be withdrawn, it is understood, as beer and wine privileges do not hold sufficient attraction among would-be club owners.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY HEARS
BRIGHT REPORTCloses Successful Year of Work Without Reducing Capital Fund.

F. E. LEONARD, PRESIDENT

D. H. McDermid Receives
Many Tributes On Retiring
From Head of the Organization.

As a result of the extensive use of publicity during the past year, the foster home committee has been successful in securing homes for 54 children, it was reported at the 28th annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society in the courthouse on Tuesday afternoon.

These happy results have influenced the society towards reaching a decision to use a greater amount of advertising during the next year. Many tributes were paid D. H. McDermid, the retiring president, on his faithful services during his term of office, and many expressions of regret felt that he had decided to renounce the chair.

Owing to the fact that heavy expenses had been incurred during the year for repairs, the financial report showed a deficit. This was, however, counteracted by the fact that there was a surplus left over from the previous year, and the finance committee were enabled to meet working expenses without drawing on the capital fund.

35 Children Taken.

It was learned from the inspector's report that, owing to the fact that the society used the powers conferred on it by the children's protection act, to remove children from unfit homes only as a last resource, in the cases of only 35 children was it found necessary to take action leading to commitment to the society's guardianship by court order. Twenty of these cases were committed to the Middlesex Society and fifteen to the London society.

Something of a departure was made early in the fall when a request was made through the local papers for temporary homes for children through the winter months, and a number of children were so placed and are receiving excellent care and more individual attention than is possible in the shelter.

The shelter home committee reported that much improvement had been effected in the shelter during the past year. The gully, which has been a menace to the health of the children, has at last been filled in, the shelter buildings painted, a fence erected around the property, and fire-escapes built. It was stated, also, that there would be a surplus of coal at the end of the season.

J. J. Kelso Speaks.

J. J. Kelso, provincial superintendent of neglected children, of Toronto, spoke of the beneficent results of the work carried on by the society, and referred to the three great acts of legislation which owed their existence to the agency of the Children's Aid Societies, namely, the new act for the protection of unmarried mothers, the workmen's compensation act, and mothers' pensions act. Mr. Kelso stated that although the first mentioned act had only been in operation a few months yet, the society had collected $8,000 from fathers, to be held in trust for the upbringing of illegitimate children.

In a letter to the secretary, Francis Watts, 373 Dufferin avenue, placed his services as a psychologist at the disposal of the society freely.

GETS SANATORIUM CONTRACTS.

MITCHELL, Jan. 17.—The contract for the steel part of the structural work of the new four-story sanatorium building for consumptives at Gravenhurst, Muskoka, to replace the one destroyed by a fire, has been awarded to Hill & Co. bridge works firm of this town. The Messrs. Hill will have men at work on their part of the work in another week or so.

THE AUDIT COMMITTEE of the board of education met on Wednesday afternoon and passed accounts. This was the first meeting of that body this year.

Dazzled By Electric Lights
Youth Tears Down Fixtures

One of the youthful supporters of the Woodstock junior hockey team, which played here Tuesday night, was so pleased at the victory turned in that he proceeded to become intoxicated. In fact, he got so very drunk and playfully forced his way into a home on Marshall street and tore down some electric light fixtures, because the lights were dazzling his eyes.

However, the police arrived and took all the dazzle out of the young man, and he was thoroughly ashamed of himself when he stood up in police court Wednesday morning.

He was more than willing to make good on the fixtures and in addition paid a $10 fine.

After court was over and the owner of the house, a foreigner, learned that he was going to be paid for the damage, he raised the price. Deputy Police Magistrate Birt held him to his first figure of $10, much to his disgust.

REGARD LONDON
AS IDEAL SPOT
FOR INDUSTRIESOccupies Excellent Position as Distributing Center for Western Ontario.

EDUCATIONAL CENTER

Serves Area With Population of Over a Million People.

Among Canadian cities which have in the past shown a particularly aggressive industrial growth and development, London, Ontario, stands out prominently.

A fair city, in a picturesque locality, with charming surroundings and an equable climate, surrounded by a rich, agricultural district which annually has a substantial revenue, it is, like its prototype and namesake, situated on a river Thames.

For manufacture and commerce in the export trade, it is ideally situated, and its advantages in this connection have attracted many foreign business firms in the past and are still drawing considerable attention from prospective industrial settlers.

Four railroads serve the city, which is in instant touch with all parts of the dominion and the centers of the United States, whilst, joined with Port Stanley by a short electric line, it has communication by steamer with Cleveland and Conneaut. It is the eighth industrial center of Canada and the fourth bank center of the continent.

Bank clearings in 1920 were $12,157,960, or nearly $20,000,000 in excess of the previous year.

Apart from its business importance, it is the heart of educational endeavor for a large area and the seat of Western University, with its facilities of arts, medicine and divinity. It has numerous schools of a high order and churches of fine architecture.

Its spacious streets and handsome public buildings are sources of civic pride; its residential districts are well laid out, commodious and free from any congestion.

The city's healthy growth may be gleaned from the fact that the population increased from 37,976 in 1901 to 53,100 in 1920, and the value of taxable property in the same time from $25,151,000 to $46,015,550.

According to the 1918 industrial census, London has 330 manufacturing establishments. At these 10,254 people found work, and received salaries and wages totaling $5,702,894. The capital invested in the city was $34,157,317; the cost of materials used, $20,505,635; and the total value of production in that year, $39,104,055.

In the year 1920 alone, three industries of the first importance were added to the city's activities, besides several smaller ones and branch plants, whilst the expansion of the city's industrial works is still going on.

Among the city's more important branches of industry are the manufacture of iron and steel goods, wood, leather, brass goods, wearing apparel, hosiery, gloves, amine, engines, agricultural implements, tinware, biscuits, candies, boilers, paper, boxes, chemicals, breweries, etc. The city holds out advantages of many kinds for the location of new industries particularly in branches of the iron and steel trade, boots and shoes, textiles, garments, etc.

London is, in fact, an excellent point of location for a wide variety of industrial enterprises. As a distributing point to the home market it occupies an unusually favorable position.

The Western Ontario peninsula, of which London is the metropolis, has a population of upwards of a million people, or about one-ninth of the total population of Canada. These people are easily reached through the network of railways entering the city. In regard to the great markets of the west, it has shipping facilities easily accessible by rail and lake. The city-owned electric line to Port Stanley provides a water route to car ferries and lake passenger and freight lines. Through motor stage lines it has communication with a number of neighboring municipalities.

The availability of power from Niagara makes both for a cheap and adequate supply, and in the case of new industries there is a partial exemption from taxation and special plans to reduce the initial cost of the establishment of desirable branch factories.

INFLUENZA OUTBREAK
IN ENGLAND CONTINUES

London, England, Jan. 18.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The outbreak of influenza is still widespread, and submarine crews are unable to put to sea for their annual exercises with the Atlantic fleet because of its ravages among them.

At Dover the attendance of children at the moving picture theatres is prohibited, and the public schools are closed.

At Northampton one-tenth of the teaching staff is down with the disease. Twenty-five deaths occurred at Birmingham during last week, while for the month 139 deaths are reported from Middlesbrough. At present the weather is cold and it is thought it will cause an abatement in the epidemic.

WOULD ERECT
NEW BUILDING
FOR FARMERSAlderman Watkinson Makes
Proposals for Improving
City Market Conditions.

RENEWS HUCKSTER WAR

Advocates Closing of Square to All Dealers Not Bona Fide Producers.

Ald. F. R. Watkinson, chairman of the 1921 finance committee, and in charge of the market, has made important recommendations to the new council in regard to the market. Quite a sum of money would be involved in the carrying out of his plans and this may have a somewhat dampening effect.

His most important recommendation is for a new market building, to the west of the present market structure. He would confine the basement of the present structure to the sale of fish and vegetables only. He would use the new building for the farmers to sell their eggs, butter and fruit.

A recommendation, which will likely meet with considerable objection is one that the farmers be allowed to use the east side of Talbot street, Dundas to King, and the north side of King street, Richmond to Talbot street. This would mean that the farmers would back their rigs up to the curb and sell from them. This was allowed at one time but on account of the serious congestion along the streets this was stopped. The recommendation of Ald. Watkinson is made because of the great congestion on the market, which the aldermen considers too small for the city. He would like to see the city acquire more property for the market.

Attacks Hucksters Again.

Ald. Watkinson, in his recommendations, renews the old war on the hucksters. He wants the market exclusively wholesale trading. At the present time, he states, produce is being delivered on the market and sold to the hucksters, who resell it to the people of the city at a considerable increase in price. He would eliminate from the market or the market buildings entirely those who are not bona fide producers. Many persons are today having goods shipped into them from the country, and the city furnishes them with a place to dispose of their wares free of charge. He also advocates the increasing of the stalls' rentals from seven to ten dollars.

Mr. Watkinson also wants the city to take up the matter of testing eggs and weighing butter offered for sale on the market.

At the second meeting of the council when the point of procedure calling for motions was reached, Mr. Ashplant blandly remarked that in giving his notice he made a slight mistake, and should have made it read "the salary of the police magistrate, who is the solicitor of the City Gas Company."

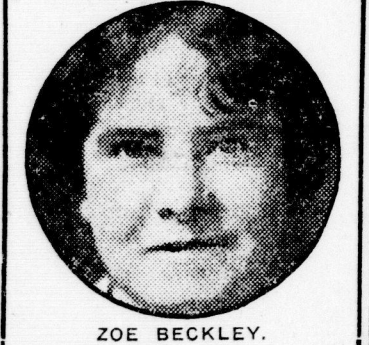

However, the mayor ruled him out of order and this for a time suppressed the alderman, as he was unable to get a seconder to his motion when he reintroduced the matter under the heading of "new business." Undoubtedly the matter will be heard from again, although to launch a discussion it will be necessary that two-thirds of the council vote in favor of reconsideration, and Mr. Ashplant frankly stated that he did not expect to see his motion carry.

Trustee's Innocent Remark
Precipitates
Real Controversy

TRUSTEE EDWIN SMITH, chairman of the board of education, now finds that he enjoys the somewhat unique position recently attained by General Manager Buchanan of the public utilities commission. A recent innocent remark by the latter concerning skating on Sundays, erroneously reported, led to special meetings of the Ministerial Alliance and similar action by other of the local clergy.

It develops that Chairman Smith's recent suggestion that an informal dance at the opening of the new collegiate would be quite in order if properly supervised, likewise raised a storm of disapproval from a similar quarter.

At Tuesday's meeting of No. 2 committee of the board, Trustee Smith explained that he had suggested the dance to one of the other members. Little did he think at that time, however, that the entire board would subsequently be embroiled in a controversy that would tend to divide them hopelessly.

market and advocates the establishment of a system of doing this.

The city's fish stall should be improved, he suggests. He wants it made up-to-date as regards equipment and stocked with a delivery system instituted. He suggested that the man in charge of the stall be given a free hand in order that he might more keenly enter into competition with the other fish stalls.

Would Erect New Store.

A third store at the end of the market house is his last recommendation. He believes that this should be erected and rented as a bazaar or anything suitable. The roof on the east wing of the market house is in a bad condition. It is allowed to remain as it is, an entire new roof will be necessary. He believes that it can be fixed now at a reasonable cost and would last two years. Despite the urgency of this, the whole report has been laid over for future consideration by the finance committee.

FINANCIAL OUTLOOK IN SOUTH AFRICA BETTER

London, Eng., Jan. 18.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Apart from the strike the financial outlook in South Africa is less gloomy than was anticipated. Reuter's Capetown correspondent says, while the newspapers forecast that the budget will show a deficit of £4,000,000 sterling, an official statement puts the figure at £1,750,000. The excess profits tax yielded a quarter of a million pounds more than the estimates. Gold mining leases also provided a similar windfall.

Cernack has twice led fights in the city council that resulted in two votes favoring light wines and beer by that body.
