

The ADVERTISER'S PICTORIAL PAGE

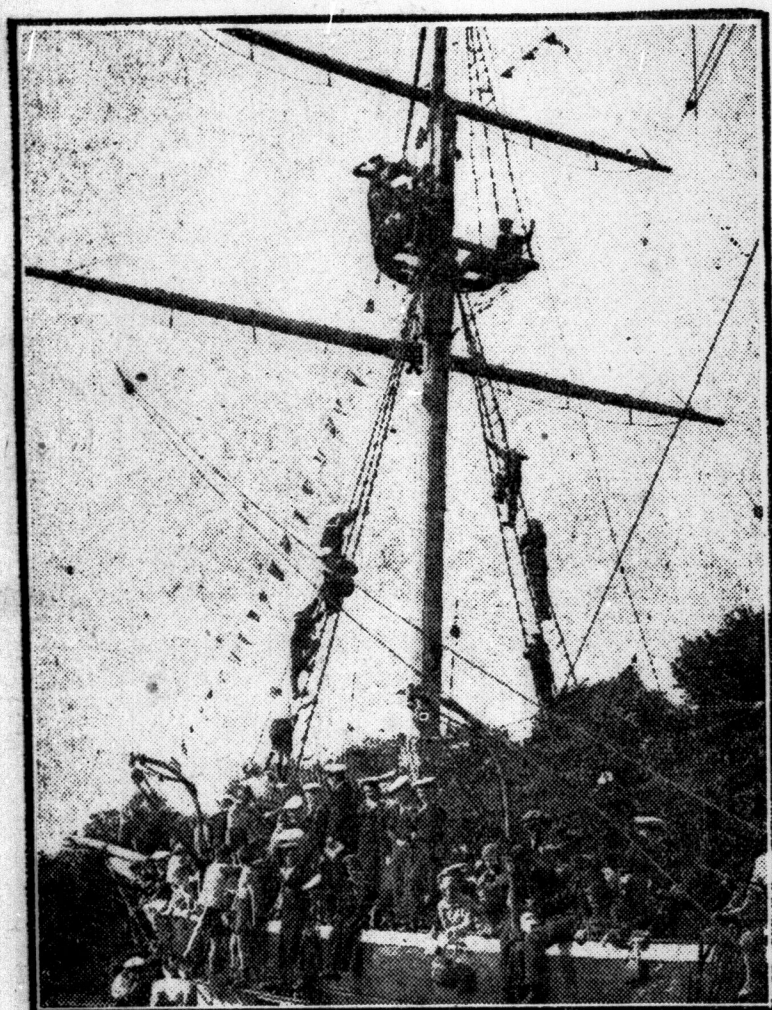

A pretty bit of headwork in front of Chelsea's goal saves what looked like a sure score.

Mayor Maguire wishes the Toronto girls' basketball team good luck on their departure for the west. On the left is Rosa Grosse, who recently broke the world's record for the 100-yard dash.

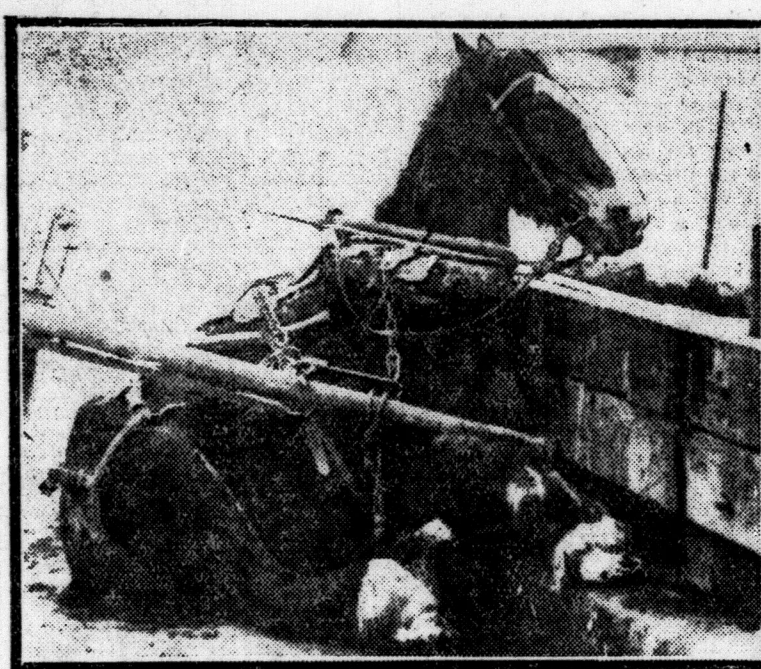

Field Marshal Lord Grenfell lays the foundation stone of the Malta Pavilion for the British Empire Exhibition.

A few years hence these lads will be preserving the glorious traditions of the British navy.

A Tipperary man puts one over on a Kilkenny player during the All-Ireland hurling championship.

Let this sad spectacle be a lesson to all young horses who insist on leading a gay life.

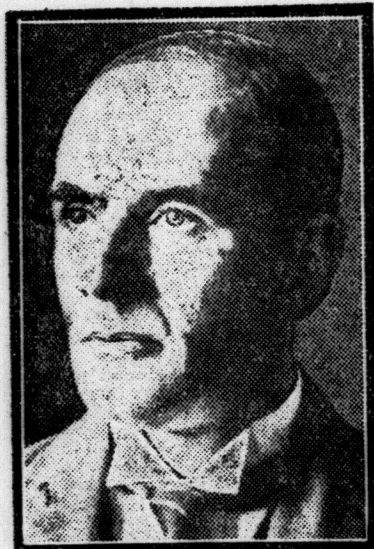

This scene of desolation was once a business street of Yokohama.

Ignace Paderewski and Mme. Paderewski in Geneva for a meeting of the League of Nations' assembly.

Short coats are still going strong. This smart model is of tan caracul, with broad fox fur collar and cuffs.

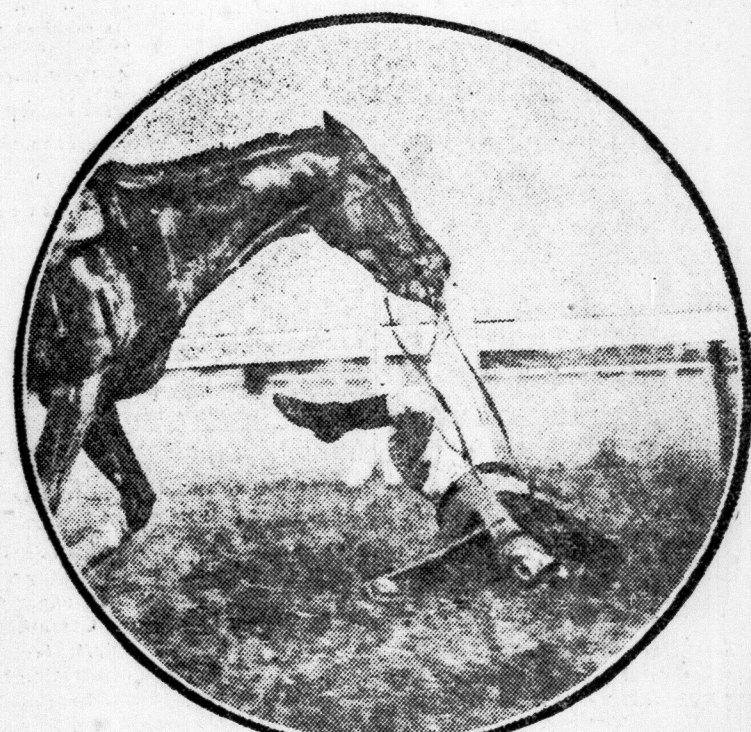

A. O. Rankine invented the photophone, through which speech is transmitted by light rays.

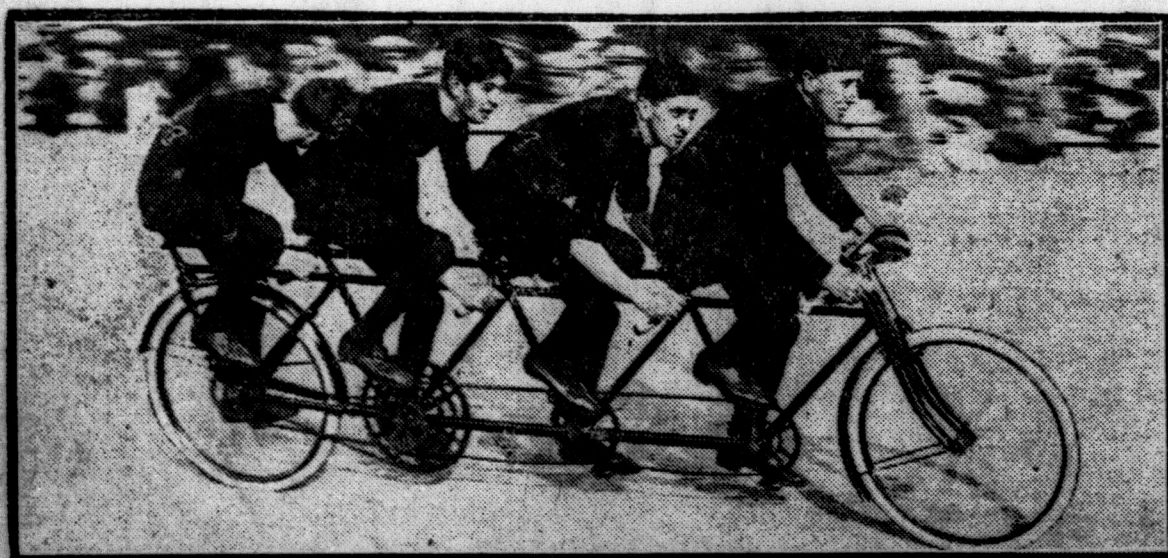

Hair tonic manufacturers have offered Mlle. Yolande Vaeri, a Parisienne beauty, fabulous sums for the use of this picture.

Dr. Hilferding is trying to straighten out financial matters in Germany.

A nasty spill resulted when "Hoo" stumbled during the Seabrook hurdle race at Folkestone.

Down the straight-of-way on a four-man-power cycle.

A fine looking kennel of couring grayhounds.