

SETTELL WILL APPEAR BEFORE JURY TODAY

Hamilton, Dec. 1.—Clarence Settell, former private secretary to Sir Adam Beck, will appear before the grand jury at the court house here tomorrow afternoon to face charges of grand larceny from the cashing of a hydro check for $29,925 and attempting to cross the border.

Make Your Husband Smile

SERVE HIM WITH

Parnell's

100% WHOLE WHEAT

Brown Bread

Get it from your Grocer or from our salesman

PARNELL

THE BREADMAN

PHONE 929

Dr. J. W. Hutchison

OPTOMETRIST. EXPERT EYE EXAMINATION

Office in Johnston Bros. Jewelry Store, Next to Allen Theatre. 6-17

HAWKEN-LANG

COAL COMPANY

PHONE 522

Young Students

John A. Petrie, a London boy, now a member of the Manhattan Opera Company of New York, and recognized as one of the finest flutists of the present day is spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Petrie, 421 Simcoe street, after completing a successful tour of the principal cities of the United States with that company.

Mr. Petrie for the past two years has been studying under some of the leading masters in America, and has made a successful record. Before leaving for New York he was the leader of the Dundas Centre school orchestra.

He received his musical tuition from James Cresswell of this city for many years, and was educated at the Alexandra public school and the old collegiate institute.

To Stop a Cold in One Day Take Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets. (The First and Original Cold and Grip Tablet). A Safe and Proven Remedy. The box bears signature of Dr. W. Grove, 30c. Made in Canada.

Advt.

Carlyle TREBILCOCK

OPTICIAN

233 DUNDAS STREET. TELEPHONE 2351.

Our fitters are experts. $3.00. We have Trusses to fit all sizes.

ANDERSON & NELSON, 371 Dundas St.

Quality Vulcanizing Only.

ART WILKES

London Tire Repair Depot, 354 WELLINGTON STREET, Opposite McCleary's.

CANADIANS MAKE BIG WINS AT SHOW

Iowa May Lose Corn Prestige to Canada—Wales' Entry Successful.

R. McEWEN UP

Associated Press Despatch. Chicago, Dec. 2.—The Prince of Wales was among the prize winners yesterday at the International live stock show. His shorthorn bull, King of the Fairies, was awarded fourth prize in the 4-year-old shorthorn bull class. W. L. Carlyle, manager of the prince's ranch at High River, Alberta, called the news of the victory to his royal highness.

This was the first time the heir to the British throne has exhibited at the international exposition. His prize-winning bull has won championships at all the live stock shows in Canada this year, and was recently awarded a gold medal by the British Shorthorn Breeders' association at London. The bull was bred at the royal farms in England, and was brought to the prince's estate two years ago. On his visit to Canada last October, the prince decided to enter him at the Chicago show.

For the first time in the history of the grain and hay show Canadian exhibitors won prizes. W. H. Weaver of Turnerville, Ont., won second prize on a car exhibit of white wheat. Competition with growers from every corn-producing state in the union, and Dan Wright of Petrolia, Ont., eighth. F. S. Waugh of Charlton, Ont., fifth prize in the single car class, among 100 entries.

Wins 25 Out of 30. Canadian growers won 25 out of a possible 30 prizes on hard red wheat. J. C. Mitchell of Dahinda, Sask., who won the world's wheat growing championship several years ago, was awarded first prize. Seager Wheeler of Rosthern, Sask., "the wheat wizard" of Canada, carried away second prize. Canadian exhibitors won first prizes in flax and peas.

At the end of the first day's judging Canada has given an excellent account of herself. There have been wins in almost every division of the show, and in some departments the Maple Leaf entries literally swept the field before them. Mr. McEwen of London, Ont., in the carload sheep, took the championship with his load of lambs for the third successive time. Fourth honors in the carload went to the Belvoir stock farm of Delaware, Ont. Another large prize went to LaCombe, Alta., when judges picked "Morden Jupiter" from the Dominion experimental farms as the grand champion stallion of the Shire division.

Almost all of the grand championships for the best wethers in the various types of sheep went north to the dominion. The Lincoln ribbon went to H. M. Lee, of Highgate, Ont., with the reserve to R. S. Robson & Son of Denfield, Ont. Mr. Lee also won the prize for a den showing three lambs.

Johnson Brothers Win. Although W. J. Johnson of Champlain, Ill., took the prize in the Oxfordshire, Johnson Bros. of Anpin, Ont., came back and took the reserve championship.

Ontario took the second place in the Dorset class, and the championship in the Southdown. McEwen took the prize for a pen of four in the latter class. James Snell of Clinton, Ont., took both the championship and reserve in the Leicester.

The big surprise of the day in the hay and grain shows was the fact that Canada took five places in the corn classes, throwing a real scare into the Iowa farmers, who have always won the greatest hands down.

The dominion has been threatening the Hawkeye state for some time as a corn-producing center. This is the first time that judges make it able to make a sizeable dent in the prize list, however.

In flax, another new field of endeavor, the Maple Leaf entries took the first prize.

JOHN PETRIE MEMBER OF N.Y. OPERA COMPANY

Successful London Man, Now Visiting His Parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Petrie.

John A. Petrie, a London boy, now a member of the Manhattan Opera Company of New York, and recognized as one of the finest flutists of the present day is spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Petrie, 421 Simcoe street, after completing a successful tour of the principal cities of the United States with that company.

Mr. Petrie for the past two years has been studying under some of the leading masters in America, and has made a successful record. Before leaving for New York he was the leader of the Dundas Centre school orchestra.

He received his musical tuition from James Cresswell of this city for many years, and was educated at the Alexandra public school and the old collegiate institute.

To Stop a Cold in One Day Take Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets. (The First and Original Cold and Grip Tablet). A Safe and Proven Remedy. The box bears signature of Dr. W. Grove, 30c. Made in Canada.

Advt.

ODDFELLOW-REBEKAH MEETING IS POSTPONED

The meeting of all the Oddfellows and Rebekahs of the city which was to have been held last night was postponed until tomorrow evening.

This was the statement of Fred H. Dixon, one of the executives on the committee in charge.

The six lodges including the Chorazin, Forest City, Dominion, and Eureka Oddfellows, and the May Queen and Victoria Rebekahs, lodges will have representatives at this gathering.

The concert which will be staged in the near future is in aid of all the Protestant orphans of the city.

The entertainment will be in the auditorium of the Central collegiate institute.

ARRANGE FOR BAZAAR. Wallaceburg, Dec. 1.—A number of ladies of the Bible class of the Trinity Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. Norris McPherson Thursday afternoon to arrange the sewing for a bazaar to be held in the near future to raise funds for the cause.

CAPTAIN TWICE REFUSES TO QUIT STRICKEN SHIP

City Churches

CHURCH OF CHRIST W. M. S.

The members of the W. M. S. of the Church of Christ Disciples held a most interesting meeting yesterday afternoon, when they were given a splendid address by Mrs. Romig, the field secretary of the Disciples' church women's missionary society for Canada. Mrs. Romig gave a descriptive talk of her missionary work, which was greatly enjoyed by the ladies. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. W. R. S. McCracken, 221 Wortley road, and the members also enjoyed a social time with Mrs. Romig. The president, Mrs. Mitchell, presided for the business part of the meeting.

At 7 o'clock in the evening, Mrs. Romig spoke to the members of the Junior endeavorers, and at 8 o'clock she gave an address to the members of the congregation and friends.

WILLING WORKERS' M. B.

The young members of the Willing Workers' mission band of the Wellington street Methodist church held their regular meeting yesterday afternoon in the schoolroom of the church. The members cut out quilt blocks and sewed, and also cut out pictures for the scrap books they are making. Mrs. Marshall Brady read a piece entitled, "President Cleveland and the Dog Story," and Mrs. J. Holiday, president of the W. M. S., was present, and led in prayer. Helen Mitchell gave a reading out of the book, "Missionary Stories for Children," and during the mission band supper were made for the mission band.

Two new members were welcomed into the band, and the afternoon closed with light refreshments.

EMPRESS Y. P. L.

The regular meeting of the Y. P. L. of the Empress avenue church was held last evening. Being devotional night, Mrs. MacLean presided. Miss Ruby Finley, the Bible lesson, which was divided into two parts, one given to Miss Myrl Mitchell, who gave the devotional reading, and the other to Miss Edna Skinner, who also gave a reading on "The Problem of Evil." Mr. Jack Smetzer rendered a solo. The league regrettably accepted Allan Goodman's resignation as secretary, and Jack Goodman was elected to fill the office.

Robert McEwen of London, Ont., in the carload sheep, took the championship with his load of lambs for the third successive time.

Fourth honors in the carload went to the Belvoir stock farm of Delaware, Ont.

Another large prize went to LaCombe, Alta., when judges picked "Morden Jupiter" from the Dominion experimental farms as the grand champion stallion of the Shire division.

Almost all of the grand championships for the best wethers in the various types of sheep went north to the dominion.

The Lincoln ribbon went to H. M. Lee, of Highgate, Ont., with the reserve to R. S. Robson & Son of Denfield, Ont. Mr. Lee also won the prize for a den showing three lambs.

Johnson Brothers Win. Although W. J. Johnson of Champlain, Ill., took the prize in the Oxfordshire, Johnson Bros. of Anpin, Ont., came back and took the reserve championship.

Ontario took the second place in the Dorset class, and the championship in the Southdown. McEwen took the prize for a pen of four in the latter class.

James Snell of Clinton, Ont., took both the championship and reserve in the Leicester.

The big surprise of the day in the hay and grain shows was the fact that Canada took five places in the corn classes, throwing a real scare into the Iowa farmers, who have always won the greatest hands down.

The dominion has been threatening the Hawkeye state for some time as a corn-producing center. This is the first time that judges make it able to make a sizeable dent in the prize list, however.

In flax, another new field of endeavor, the Maple Leaf entries took the first prize.

JOHN PETRIE MEMBER OF N.Y. OPERA COMPANY

Successful London Man, Now Visiting His Parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Petrie.

John A. Petrie, a London boy, now a member of the Manhattan Opera Company of New York, and recognized as one of the finest flutists of the present day is spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Petrie, 421 Simcoe street, after completing a successful tour of the principal cities of the United States with that company.

Mr. Petrie for the past two years has been studying under some of the leading masters in America, and has made a successful record. Before leaving for New York he was the leader of the Dundas Centre school orchestra.

He received his musical tuition from James Cresswell of this city for many years, and was educated at the Alexandra public school and the old collegiate institute.

To Stop a Cold in One Day Take Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets. (The First and Original Cold and Grip Tablet). A Safe and Proven Remedy. The box bears signature of Dr. W. Grove, 30c. Made in Canada.

Advt.

ODDFELLOW-REBEKAH MEETING IS POSTPONED

The meeting of all the Oddfellows and Rebekahs of the city which was to have been held last night was postponed until tomorrow evening.

This was the statement of Fred H. Dixon, one of the executives on the committee in charge.

The six lodges including the Chorazin, Forest City, Dominion, and Eureka Oddfellows, and the May Queen and Victoria Rebekahs, lodges will have representatives at this gathering.

The concert which will be staged in the near future is in aid of all the Protestant orphans of the city.

The entertainment will be in the auditorium of the Central collegiate institute.

ARRANGE FOR BAZAAR. Wallaceburg, Dec. 1.—A number of ladies of the Bible class of the Trinity Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. Norris McPherson Thursday afternoon to arrange the sewing for a bazaar to be held in the near future to raise funds for the cause.

WILLING WORKERS' M. B.

The young members of the Willing Workers' mission band of the Wellington street Methodist church held their regular meeting yesterday afternoon in the schoolroom of the church. The members cut out quilt blocks and sewed, and also cut out pictures for the scrap books they are making.

Mrs. Marshall Brady read a piece entitled, "President Cleveland and the Dog Story," and Mrs. J. Holiday, president of the W. M. S., was present, and led in prayer.

Helen Mitchell gave a reading out of the book, "Missionary Stories for Children," and during the mission band supper were made for the mission band.

Two new members were welcomed into the band, and the afternoon closed with light refreshments.

Windjammer, Bluebird, Taken in Tow After Being Luff-fetted For Five Days.

RUDDER LOST

Captain and Crew of Fifteen Negroes Go Without Food For Two Days.

Associated Press Despatch. New York, Dec. 1.—Seventeen men—one white and sixteen negroes—drifted about the gale-swept Atlantic in the helpless windjammer Bluebird for five days before the schooner got a tow. For two days they were without food. The Bluebird, her sails whipped from her masts by the northeast, her rudder torn away and her pumps choked, was believed to be in tow of the United States coast-guard cutter Gresham today. The cutter and her tow are due in Boston Thursday or Friday.

Twice the steamship Fort Victoria, which arrived here yesterday, brought relief to the Bluebird, a four-master. On Thursday morning, steaming to Bermuda, she anchored the Bluebird's distress signals to find that Captain E. Bonomi and his negro crew had been foodless for two days. The captain refused to leave his ship with his crew, and the Fort Victoria proceeded on her way after giving him food.

Yesterday morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

Yester morning on his return trip to New York, Captain Mackenzie of the Victoria again sighted the Bluebird, still helpless before the winds and the 40-foot waves. Again he spoke to Captain Bonomi, who again refused his offer to take him and his crew aboard. The steamship sent a radio call for aid and the disabled ship a tow.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE NO. 42

Here's a peach, looks simple, but there are all kinds of traps to avoid. Each number in the puzzle indicates the position of the first letter of a word. Each word reads from left to right (horizontal) or downward (vertical), according to position. Lettered in correctly, words that cross will interlock. Each number in the white squares also refers to a definition in the accompanying table. Each definition suggests a word possessing the exact number of letters to fit the white space allotted to it. Each white space is to receive one letter only. Words start only in numbered squares.

THE ADVERTISER'S DAILY CROSS-WORD PUZZLE.

HORIZONTAL.

- 1 Original man of letters
- 6 The first Jew
- 11 A genus of plants
- 13 A member of the Creeks
- 15 Metal