Poetry.

AN INFANT.

A BABY in the house Is like the summer-tide—Gives sunny days indeed,
But shortens nights beside;
And mothers lie awake, Through care as well as pleasure, And wonder when 'twill sleep-The naughty little treasure.

The ticking clock goes on and on,
And heavy hours are striking, And mothers eyes are heavy too, Boyond their present linking.
But then, the heart is very light,
And spirits too—prevailing;
And broken nights do little harm,
Except the babe is ailing: Then, then the hear; and spirits too, Become both and and weary,
For thoughts and coming fears arise,
To make the becom dreary.

A mother's heart-a mother's heart-Oh I 'tis a deep and tender thing, Beyond a man's imagining; Thoughts, hopes, and fears come and depart, Like birds upon a restless wing— Some meaning and some caroling; Fear cast its shadow—there are tears; Hope gilds the morrow—there are smiles, A moment's hope forecast for years, And many a bitter pang beguiles. Deep—oh, how deep the feelings lie, Known but to God alone-And sympathies that nover die, Nor ever lose their tone. Sometimes they gush like river-streams, Sometimes like tendrils twine; Sometimes like sunlight's fitful gleam— Sometimes like stars they shine.

THERE'S beauty in the earth, and there's beauty in the sky,

And loveliness in living things, that tell us whose they be:
A charm within the forest-shade, and on the mountain high,

A grandeur on the rocky cliff-a glory on tho sea-

The fragrance of a thousand flow'rs, their forms and tinting too,
And honey-homes within their leaves, where wild bees come to woo.

Oh, beauty, like a girdle, lies around this world of woe, And sin itself, that guilty thing, ne'er bids the beauty go.

'Tis God's own blessed signature—the trac'ry of his mind, His voice, his presence and his power—to teach us he is kind:

But sweeter, lovelier far, than all these varied charms.

Is a tender, loving mother, with her infant in her arms.

Copy of a letter from Mr. John Lloyd of Erwseen, near Harlech, Merionethaltire.

To Professor Holloway,

To Professor Holloway.

Sir,—I avail myself of the first opportunity of informing you, that he a very long period I was afflicted with a dangerous gliddiness and frequent swimmings in the head, attended by loss of appetite, disordered stomach, and generally impaired health. Every means had falled to give me any permanent relief, and at length it become so alarming that I was really afraid of going about without an attendant. In this melancholy condition I waited personally upon Mr. Hughes, Chemist, Harlech, for the purpose of consulting him as to what I had better do; he kindly recommended your Pills, I tried them without delay, and after taking them for a short time I am happy to hear testimony to their wonderful efficacy. I am now restored to perfect health, and enabled to resume my usual duties. You are at liberty to publish this letter in any way you may think proper.

I am, sir, your obodient Servant.

Further she desires me to say, that she has witnessed their extraordinary virtues in those complaints incidental to children, particularly in cases of Measles and Scarintans, having effected positive cures of these diseases with no other remedy. with no other remedy.

A DANGEROUS LIVER COMPLAINT AND SPASMS IN THE STOMACH EFFECTUALLY CURED.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Bostock, Druggist, of Ashton under Lyne, dated July 31, 1852.

To Professor Holloway.

To Professor Holloway.

Dear Sin.—I have much pleasure in handing to you a testimonial of the efficacy of your Medicines. A person in this neighbourhood with whom I am well acquainted was afflicted for a long time with violent spasmodle pains in the stomach and liver, arising from frequent colds, smolly of paint, and the facets of a stooping position which ho was obliged to assume in his business. The spasms were of an alarming character, and frequently left him in a weak and debilitated condition. At length he heard of the salutary effects, of your invaluable Pills, and was induced to give them a trial. The first dose gave him considerable relief, and by following them up in accordance with your directions, they have acted so wonderfully in cleansing the liver and stomach, and strengthening the digestive organs that he has been restored to the enjoyment of good health. I remain, dear Sir, yours faithfully, (Signed) WILLIAM BOSTOCK.
