BANQUET TO SIR JAMES GRANT.

In recognition of fifty years spent in the practice of medicine, during forty-nine of which he was located in Ottawa, Sir James Grant was recently entertained to a banquet at the Russell House by the medical fraternity of the capital and presented with an address and a silver loving-cup. Covers were laid at the dinner for eighty-five guests, and the medical profession of the Ottawa Valley was represented by its most distinguished members, who vied with each other in showing attention to the honoured guest of the evening, who, after half a century of labour in the most arduous of callings, still retains in a marvellous degree the vigour and elasticity of youth. Sheriff Sweetland, M.D., filled the chair with dignity, having on his right Sir James Grant, and on his left Sir Frederick Borden. The usual loyal toasts were proposed and honoured with characteristic heartiness, after which the chairman proposed the toast of "Our Guest," and alluded to his having introduced the first Canadian Pacific Railway bill. The address was read in an impressive manner by Dr. Cousens and the presentation made amid enthusiastic cheers. Sir James Grant, who appeared to
