

MOTHERS' PENSIONS NOT SUPERVISING

Children Must Not Be Led to Believe That They Are Objects of Charity.

Mother's pensions were originally intended to prevent poverty passing from one generation to another, stated J. H. Falk, head of the social service department of McGill University, when addressing the social branch of the University of Toronto at the meeting last night, and added that it was most important that the live provinces which had adopted mother's pensions should see that they were getting value for their money, and suggested that the governments should agree on an equal standard throughout the province.

Mr. Falk, in outlining the Manitoba scheme, stated that families and children were divided into classes according to age, and in making or determining the moneys allowed, every possible item of expenditure was taken into consideration. This included wear and tear of furniture and household utensils.

"Their idea," he continued, "was to place a mother and her children on exactly the same class level as those families whose fathers are in the civil service, and they had already had a disagreement with the headquarter of the trades council in Montreal, who complained that mothers and children receiving government allowance would be in a far better position educationally and physically than the children of a laborer employed at his trade. When it was explained, however, that there was to be no stigma of pauperism about mother's pensions, it was agreed that what was being done was the right thing."

The speaker maintained that, despite any criticism, they who had to administer the act must see that a good standard of living was adhered to. A sort of probation.

Mother's who are receiving the pension, he maintained, must recognize that during the time they have their children under their control they are really on a sort of probation—in a far better position of the province, in that they were being paid to bring up their children to become good citizens of the empire. The speaker further suggested that after the act had been in force five years, he might like to see a list of mothers who had been in the province for various parts of the Dominion who were receiving pensions, and then study the relative differences in their character and mode of life.

TO REORGANIZE 75TH BATTALION

Policy of Militia Council Regarding Funds Will First Be Asked.

Officers of the 75th Battalion held an important meeting at the armories last night, when the question of reorganizing the regiment, and discussing the means whereby the battalion might be carried on, was thoroughly gone into.

Col. Colin Harbottle, who presided, stated that in May last he had received a letter from headquarters which stated that at the present time there was no money in the hands of the militia council to make grants for reorganizing purposes, but it was hoped that in the near future there would be sufficient funds for C.O.'s to carry on. He further stated that the regiment was without funds, but he did not want the militia council to push them out of business, and added that despite the difficulties they had to contend with it was in their hands to carry on, and suggested that the battalion be organized as a skeleton unit first.

Several officers objected to doing anything until the council had made known what was to be done for units, and it was pointed out that it would cost at least $5,000 to get started. Col. Harbottle stated that he had already had a good band and the district command had allotted them an armory, but before they could get out and show their hands. "Personally," he added, "I am ready with the officers' state in my pocket and we are only waiting their decision."

He emphasized that several other units in the city were stopped thru lack of funds, and suggested that they should write the district command for further information regarding the policy of issuing funds, while the matter of a regimental dinner was allowed to stand over.

NEW ATTRACTIONS AT LOCAL THEATRES

Musical Comedy at Princess
—"My Lady Friends"
for the Royal.

Seats for "Mary" in Demand.
Theatre-goers who enjoy musical comedy are promised a treat at the Princess Theatre next week, when George M. Cohan's comedians will present "My Lady Friends." This is said to be the most remarkable success known in years, as it is attractive to all audiences everywhere it is presented. "Mary" is one of the few attractions that gained a reputation before being offered in New York. It was first presented last spring in Philadelphia, and it made such a tremendous hit that it was obliged to be presented in New York City after its Boston engagement. The success of "Mary" is due, no doubt, to the music, which is a masterpiece of song hits than any other musical comedy. George M. Cohan, as usual, has filled the piece with the result that "Mary" is considered the smartest musical comedy presented in many years. That it is a masterpiece of song hits than any other musical comedy is evidenced by the demand for seats.

"The Son Daughter."
Lenore Ulric, who was seen here last season in "The Son Daughter," is coming to the Princess Theatre. It is promised to be one of the dramatic events of the season, as it is said to be the greatest dramatic effort in stagecraft.

As a laugh-producers, "Twin Beds" is said to be the greatest success the stage has ever known. It is the radiant and glorious fun and hilarity that it brings to the stage, and it is a play that holds an audience all the way and justifies the verdict that "Twin Beds" is the most brilliant and successful comedy present generations of the stage patrons have ever seen.

Burlesque, not of the repugnant or repelling type, but a clean, wholesome entertainment, is being presented by versatile and accomplished comedians, will be offered to the patrons of the Star next week by the Grand Theatre. "TAMING OF SHREW" FINELY PRESENTED

Walter Hampden, at Royal,
Excels in Portrayal of Petruchio.

In presenting the "Taming of the Shrew" at the Royal Alexandra yesterday members of the Walter Hampden Company maintained the high standard of Shakespearean characterization shown in their other offerings. As in "Hamlet" and "The Merchant of Venice," Walter Hampden, by force of personality and the prominence of the part taken again stood out as the dominating figure. But Mary Hall, who was seen as Katherine the Shrew and Ernest Rowan as Lucentio, in love with Bianca, also were exceedingly well acted. The applause accorded for their magnetic acting in these well-known roles. Appreciation too is due Herndon Kearns for his pleasing portrayal of the shrew Bianca.

Enclosed in the scenes, Walter Hampden as Petruchio, the gentleman demagogue, and by means of masterful demagoguery, the explosive, unruly Katherine, is the centre of the storm. His shrewing ways always hold the spectators spellbound. The play is a masterpiece of the art of the stage. The play is a masterpiece of the art of the stage.
