Another Kind.

"I had to laugh at that fellow with the new automobile the other day—the one, you know, who boasted he had such influence."
"Why did you laugh at him?"
"Because he was sitting by the road with his machine stalled, waiting for a man to come along with a pull."—Baltimore American.

E. M. GROVE.

Mr. Grove has been in the furniture business for twenty-three years, the last eight years as manager of the Adams Furniture Company and the J. F. Brown furniture stores. His familiarity with the furniture trade in Toronto ensures certain success in the organization and management of the Grove Bedding Company.

The Siege of Berlin.

It is semi-officially announced in Berlin that the theme of the army manoeuvres over which the kaiser will preside this year will be "The Siege of Berlin." The postulate is to be that a foreign fleet has disembarked an expedition which is advancing to invest the capital.
The attacking force is to be commanded by Prince Frederick Leopold of Prussia, and it will consist of the second and ninth army corps. Gen. von Kessel will conduct the defence with the Guard Corps and the reserve of the Guards, reinforced with a division of cavalry.
September is the month chosen for the manoeuvres.
The Germans have just discovered with mingled pride and annoyance that Paris is "one of the largest German cities," containing more than 100,000 subjects of the German Emperor. The French also are waking up to the fact, not without alarm.

No Free Hand Drawing.

Son: Father, I've decided to become an artist. Have you any objection?
Father: No; provided you don't draw on me.
