AFTER 28 YEARS, ARE RE-UNITED

Daniel C. Collins of Mill Street, on Visit to Boston, Finds Sister—A Happy Meeting

While on a visit to Boston this week to undergo medical treatment, Daniel C. Collins who conducts a tobacco store in Main Street, North End, met with a happy surprise, and the delight was mutual, when he came face to face with his sister, Mary whom he had not seen for twenty-eight years. He did not know where she lived but happened by chance to meet a brother who was acquainted with the family and by this means it was not long before he was in her home in South Boston, and chatting merrily of by-gone days.

His sister left here years ago and is now married and comfortably situated in the state. Her husband is D. M. O'Leary, an overseer with the New York & New Haven Railway. Needless to say the surprise she received was a pleasant one and she gave a hearty welcome to the brother she had not seen in so many long years.

KING STREET PROPERTY DEAL CLOSED

Oak Hall Buys Land Adjoining Store, and Takes 99 Year Lease of Property Next

One of the most important real estate deals of recent years was announced today by Scovil Bros. & Co., Ltd., proprietors of Oak Hall clothing house, in the leasing and buying of the adjoining property on King Street, for the purpose of extending their rapidly growing business.

For some time the firm has felt the need of extra room and accommodation and about a year ago wholesale warehouses and a factory had to be established in the Sutherland building in Union Street to relieve the expanding retail departments in the King Street building. Now it is proposed to centralize the whole business under one roof.

The present stand occupied by Oak Hall, at the corner of King and Germain streets, is held under a lease from the Vernon estate, which has five years longer to run. Now the firm have purchased the strip of land adjoining occupied by W. H. Irving, as a jewelry store, and have leased for a period of ninety-nine years, the lot next adjoining owned by Major John S. Hall and occupied by L. H. Hall's book and stationery business and Louis Green, tobacconist.

The present Oak Hall building has a frontage of forty feet and the newly acquired property has the same frontage, so that the firm will have a combined length of 80 feet in King Street and extend to Market Street, a distance of 100 feet.

The building on the newly leased property is only two stories high and is under lease to Louis Green for two years from May 1. Mr. Green sub-letting a portion to F. H. Hall, Scovil Bros. & Co., intend tearing down the building at the expiration of the lease in 1913, and erecting there a five-story brick building with basement, as an addition to their present quarters. The two buildings will be connected and elevators installed to make the plant modern and up-to-date in every respect.

The main reason for buying the property is that the firm is at a disadvantage at the present time in having their factory and wholesale business divided from the retail, the latter having increased to such an extent that they were forced to secure quarters in the Sutherland building, where two floors are utilized for carrying on this branch of the business. The firm also have a large factory in Montreal and they expect to be able at some future date to centralize their entire business in St. John under one roof.

A three story store was shown through the factory in Union Street this morning and the extent of the business carried on there was a revelation. A large staff of employees are engaged in manufacturing clothing, there being twenty machines operated by electric power for turning out the goods and an immense warehouse for carrying in stock a complete line of men's furnishings for the wholesale trade.

THINK CITY SHOULD PAY

There is a feeling among some of the police of the city that the city should reward them with flashlights, such as are used in the large cities by the men who guard the interests of the people. Their very evident usefulness was shown last week in the burglary in the store of P. J. O'Neil, and although the majority of the police have them, they feel that the city should pay for them as they are a necessary requisite of police equipment.

READY FOR USE EARLY NEXT WEEK

New Chemical Laboratory in High School Will be Valuable Aid in Work

The new chemical laboratory in the basement of the High School building which is expected to be finished early next week, and will almost immediately be used by the pupils of Grade eleven, who at present are considerably hampered for lack of space in the old laboratory, which was condemned some time ago by the building inspector and the fire chief. The new room will be finished before the place will be ready for occupancy.

The accommodation will be much greater in the new laboratory than is the case in the one now in use, and classes can be taught in two divisions, which could not be done before. The new room has been fitted with modern improvements in plumbing, heating and carpentering, and is practically fireproof.

Four long working tables for the pupils have been placed, with basins, gas taps, trays, and other up-to-date equipment, and a lecturer's demonstrating table is also in the room. In it are performed experiments which the scholars do not attempt. There is also an cupboard for noxious gases, and there are glass acid-proof chambers and pipes laid in cement for drainage. There are always open for inspection, a feature which will be beneficial.

W. J. S. Myles, who has been teaching chemistry in the High School for some years, but whose place in this course of instruction has since Christmas been taken by Thomas E. Pavers, said this week that he expected excellent results from the new laboratory, as it presented opportunities for teaching, experimenting and demonstrating, which were not enjoyed in the other room, and because encouragement was held out to those engaged in the chemical work.

The wood working, which is almost all of oak, was done by the Christie Woodworking Co. the gas fitting by H. Dunbar, and the carpentering by James Myles.
