solemn requiem mass was being in-toned, with all the solemnity that the Catholic church can impose, for the re-pose of the soul of Leo XIII., the splritual monarch who claimed Rome as his capital and another and no less solemn requiem mass was being cele-brated in the magnifecent Pantheon, for the repose of the soul of the late King Humbert, the temporal monarch, the capital of whose kingdom was Rome. King Victor Emmanuel, and the Dowager Queen Margaret came here to atend the anual mass which is cele-brated on the anniversary of the as-sasination of King Humbert, which occurred three years ago, the king drove to the Pantheon, the well-known liveries of his coachmen and footmen arousing much interest among the peo-ple in the streets, and arrived there in-time to meet Queen Margaret, who was dressed in deepest black. After a tender embrace, mother and son en-tred the Pantheon, heard the mass and placed wreaths on the tombs of King Humbert, and King Victor Emmanuel. The entry and exit of their majesties was witnessed by a large crowd.
