FREDERICTON, N. B., Dec. 28.—
Post Office Inspector Colter is spending Sunday here, the guest of his brother, Recorder T. H. Colter.

The Fredericton Methodist church today commenced a three days' jubilee service in commemoration of the half century of the church's life. The church was dedicated in 1852. Of the many pastors who have been over the church at some time, those present today were Jabez A. Rogers, the present pastor; R. W. Weddall, G. O. Huestis, William Dobson, Dr. Chapman, J. J. Teasdale, and J. J. Colter. Four services were held today, commencing with a love feast in the morning. The jubilee sermon was preached by Mr. Weddall at 11 a. m. In the afternoon a mass meeting was held under the auspices of the Epworth League, and this evening Rev. Mr. Dobson preached. Large congregations were present at all services. Meetings will continue until watch night service on Wednesday. In connection with the semicentennial, effort is being made to raise a jubilee fund of $3.200 to wipe out the debt on the church. Fifteen men have each pledged one hundred dollars, and other subscriptions leave only about a thousand dollars to raise.

A SUSSEX MAN

It is not clear who is originally re sponsible for fencing up the Interco onial crossing recently establish leard a good deal about the annoy-heard a good deal about the annoyance caused by this closure, and learning that Mr. O'Connell of Sussex had something to do with the new street and crossing, applied to him for information

Mr. O'Connell when seen in town yesterday said that he had some years ago bought a section of land south of the I. C. R. near the station, intending to lay out streets and build houses there. The Intercolonial held a wide strip adjoining the track, and he suggested that a portion could be spared for half a public street, he giving the other half. Colonel Domythe brought the matter to the attention of the minister of railways, and later, when Mr. Blair vas in Sussex, Mr. O'Connell himself met him. Mr. Blair at once consecuted to have the street opened, half the cost to be borne by the railway department and half by Mr. O'Connell. The street was completed on these terms, the cost was adjusted O'Connell. The street was completed on these terms, the cost was adjusted and the whole matter was settled. As it was necessary to put in a crossing to connect the west end of the street with the rest of the town, the railway did that. The road and crossing became a convenience not only to the residents in the houses built by Mr. O'Connell, but it was for the children from a large section of the town much the shertest way to the school. It also reduced by a great deal the distance to be driven by farmers and others coming to the freight house from certain directions.

Why the crossing has been closed Mr. O'Connell does not know. He has been told that the department of

has been told that the department has been told that the department of railways sent a bill for $60 to the municipality, but he was not a member of the council and had no knowledge of the affair. Mr. O'Conneil had always understood that the whole matter of the street and crossing was settled. If there is anything chargeable to him he is perfectly willing to pay it, but he has received no statement or demand. He understood that a mallclous story had been circulated to the effect that he had made some a malicious story had been circulated to the effect that he had made some uncomplimentary reference to Mr. Blair in this connection. This was wholly false. He found no fault with Mr. Blair, but was well satisfied with the way in which the minister had dealt with the matter. He did not for a moment suppose that Mr. Blair ordered the crossing to be fenced up.

crew and the wrecker was preparing to leave the yard when the word came that the train had arrived at Sparta three hours late.

The cause of the delay, as shown in the report received by E. W. Moose, superintendent of the St. Louis divisuperintendent of the St. Louis division, was that an owl had become fastened in a switch point several miles out of Redbud. When the "Bud Extra," known as Freight Train 31, went on the siding to allow the flyer to pass the switch, the engine was derailed. A flagman prevented the passenger train crashing into the freight train and the freight engine was put on the track again after some diffi-
