

COL. McLEAN FOR QUEENS-SUNBURY

Hon. Mr. Pugsley at Convention Says McKenzie & Mann Now Want $30,000 a Mile for Valley Railway

TALKS ALSO ABOUT HIS PURITY SPEECH

Minister Refers to Mr. Hazen's Criticism of New Brunswick's Financial Position--Premier and Others Make Addresses--Dr. J. E. Hetherington's Name Before Convention, But He Withdraws.

At a Liberal convention at Gagetown Thursday, Col. H. H. McLean of St. John was unanimously chosen as the candidate for Sunbury-Queens at the next federal election. The convention was largely attended, every parish in the two counties being represented. Speeches were delivered by Hon. William Pugsley, minister of public works; Hon. C. W. Robinson, the premier; Hon. L. P. Farris, Col. McLean and others.

Special steamer were chartered to carry supporters of the party from Fredericton, Grand Bay, the Washademoak and other places. Col. McLean, W. F. Farris, and several friends went up from St. John in H. J. Fleming's gasoline launch Ben Hur, and arrived about 11 a. m. The steamer launch Hudson took up the following party from the city: Hon. Wm. Pugsley, Premier Robinson, Senator King, Ora P. King, M. P. P. A. B. Copp, M. P. P. D. J. Farris, M. P. P. C. W. Robinson, A. W. Adams, M. Neilson, Coun. Gilliland, Coun. Gilbert, W. C. R. Allan, E. S. Carter, John McLaughlin, Dr. G. A. Hetherington, Dr. J. M. Smith, H. M. Hopper, and other St. John residents were also present.

The Fredericton band was engaged and played a number of selections during the afternoon.

Dr. Hetherington Withdraws.

The convention was held in the court house, which was crowded, and opened a little before two o'clock. Cecil McLean, vice president of the Liberal Association, took the chair in the absence of Hon. Charles Burpee, the president.

As soon as the meeting was called to order Dr. Peake, of Truro, nominated Col. McLean, E. L. Perry of Johnson parish, nominated Dr. J. E. Hetherington, of Cady's. Dr. Hetherington, however, at once rose and asked that his name be withdrawn. He referred to the convention having been hurriedly called, and made complimentary reference to Col. McLean, who, he said, was his personal friend. He had no objection to his nomination and would prefer that his own name should not be put forward.

The chairman then put Col. McLean's name to the meeting, and it was adopted unanimously.

In response to a call for a speech, Col. McLean mounted the platform. The honor, he said, of representing the Liberal party in Sunbury and Queens was one of the highest that could be conferred on any Liberal in the province. It was the oldest county and in fact the mother of all the counties in the province. Before accepting the nomination, however, he must be assured of the united support of all Liberals in the two counties. They had heard the remarks of Dr. Hetherington, and he had decided not to accept unless he received the unanimous support of the convention.

At the request of Col. McLean the chairman then put a motion asking all in favor of his selection to stand. Every one present rose to his feet and great cheering followed. Col. McLean said he was very proud of that expression of their confidence and that there was not a dissenting voice.

After giving reasons why he had decided to enter dominion politics, Col. McLean spoke of the resources of Canada and of the success which had attended the statesmanship of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He did not pretend to say that they would have an easy victory but if they were well organized and made use of the facts now accumulated in favor of their party they would succeed. He made complimentary references to Hon. Wm. Pugsley, Premier Robinson and Hon. C. W. Robinson. He had not time, he continued, to deal fully with the policy of the Tory party. They had a scandal policy and were always trying to find some subordinate who had made a mistake.

"Gentlemen," concluded Col. McLean, "there are many things which I would like to touch on. Mr. Pugsley is here now and you are anxious to hear from him. I will close by reminding you of a quotation which is no doubt familiar to you all. It is not in mortals to demand success but we will do more, we will deserve it." (Cheers.)

Hon. Mr. Pugsley. Senator King then took the chair and after a few introductory remarks called on Mr. Pugsley, who was given an enthusiastic reception.

called the circumstances which led to his accepting the portfolio of public works and spoke of his being chosen leader of the Liberal party in the province, a position in which he intended to do his best and with their help lead the party to victory.

He was there, he said, to discuss dominion issues but, as success depended so much on the character of a leader, he regretted he would have first to consider some provincial questions because of the unwarranted attacks of the opposition on himself and the government of which he was a member. Were he guilty of the charges which Mr. Hazen and his friends attributed to him, he would be unworthy to be leader of the grand old party in the province of New Brunswick. The other day, when speaking at Bathurst, Mr. Morrissey had stated that the provincial treasury had been plundered to the extent of $48,000 by the ex-attorney general in the last six years. When last a somewhat similar statement had been made on the floor of the legislature the amount was $41,000, but $7,000 was apparently neither here nor there. Mr. Pugsley then said that the sum mentioned was for service rendered in connection with the proceedings against the dominion government to establish a claim which had brought the province $283,000 and which commenced ten years ago.

It included, he said, all his indemnity, his salary as attorney general, his own expenses on succession duties, his own expenses and the expenses of other counsel. On the floor of the legislature he had asked the leader of the opposition to point out one item that was not properly charged, but he had been dumb.

Neither had Mr. Hazen accepted his challenge to submit the accounts to three lawyers, one to be selected by himself, one by Mr. Hazen and the other by the other two. Yet Mr. Hazen had allowed Mr. Morrissey to make the charge. Were not public men entitled to fair treatment? Was it right to hurt these charges at a man who, whenever he had appealed to the people, had never appealed in vain? He repeated the challenge he had so often made before for the opposition to point out one item on which a charge could be laid.

Mr. Pugsley also referred to the occasion on which certain charges for private telegrams were placed in the public accounts and explained that the mistake was made by a clerk during his absence in England, and that as soon as it was called to his attention he gave his check to the auditor-general for the amount. Mr. Hazen, he continued, was claiming that the next election would not be run on party lines but in most sections the local opposition was the Conservative party in New Brunswick and if they were successful it would be the Conservative party that would be returned to power.

Turning to a recent charge made by Mr. Hazen that the burden of provincial debt had been rolled up to an enormous amount, Mr. Pugsley quoted the following financial statement given by the leader of the opposition:

Table with 2 columns: Item, Amount. Includes Bonded debt shown by auditor-general report, $4,941,710.38; International Railway bonds, $690,000; St. John bonds, $1,560,000; Rail bonds, $884,200; Central Railway, $330,000; etc.

Mr. Pugsley contended that the accusation that the government had brought the province to that condition was a criminal charge against himself as a member of the government.

"When I tell you," he continued, "that Mr. Hazen makes the debt of the province $2,122,945.06 more than it actually is you will see that it is not merely a mistake on his part as the St. John Sun kindly said yesterday. I charge Mr. Hazen with wilfully and deliberately making the statement to deceive the electors of the province."

Taking the item of $358,872.53 for treasury bills Mr. Pugsley had added more than counted it three times in his statement--in the bond issue, in the amount borrowed from the Bank of N. B. A. and in the amount of treasury bills outstanding. The special debenture issue of $280,000 for the New Brunswick Coal & Railway line was included twice in the amount borrowed from the Bank of N. B. A. The item of $88,000 for bonds redeemed since the close of the last fiscal year was included twice in the amount borrowed from the bank.

The statement as to the bonded liability for permanent debentures was the worst of all. It amounted to only $330,000 instead of $884,200 as given by Mr. Hazen. A further item of $350,000 called Central Railway, etc. bonds was made to appear as if the Central principally were responsible for it, whereas $197,000 had been authorized for converting the debentures into public works debentures. This item had also been counted twice.

It required the greatest credulity to imagine that Mr. Hazen had added more than $2,000,000 to the assumed bonded liability of the province through a mistake. Every item was correctly stated in the auditor-general's report, and he had been available for Mr. Hazen's inspection.

"Mr. Hazen talks about appointing an accountant when he comes into power," continued Mr. Pugsley. "I think he ought to hire an accountant now to tell him how the finances stand. A boy in the 6th grade at school could report the matter. Nothing is more sacred than giving correct information to the people. If speakers on the platform give false information, public meetings had better not be held."

Dominion Assistance for Valley Railway. Mr. Pugsley went to speak of Mr. Hazen's reference to the St. John Valley Railway as "nebulous." He contended that the fact that the magnificent valley of St. John had no railway, called for a remedy. Referring to the negotiations with Messrs. McKenzie & Mann he said the engineers had reported favorably from a traffic standpoint, and that a first class line with a grade of 515 of one per cent would cost $400,000, 600 a mile, but as the cost would be so heavy McKenzie & Mann had stated frankly that to build the road they would require a guarantee of $50,000 mile, and asked if some other solution could not be found. It was his opinion the government should stand by the guarantee of $15,000 a mile, and that the company should raise the other $35,000 on the property, secured equally with the guaranteed bonds by a first mortgage on the road.

Halifax and to the reception tendered to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Fielding, Mr. Pugsley went on to speak of purity in elections. Some attacks, perhaps he should say observations, by the press and public had been made on a speech of his at Fairville on electoral purity. All were agreed that elections should be carried on in the purest manner possible and that the independent will of the electors should prevail. He did not deny that money had been expended in the past by both parties, but it was hypocritical of politicians to claim that the virtue was all on one side.

Mr. Borden had been winning that he lacked respect in Halifax through money. He (Mr. Pugsley) had stated in Fairville that if there was anything he hated it was hypocrisy--and lying was as bad, anything sinful if lied or was guilty of hypocrisy it was thrown down-right. He had been doing. It was time some one spoke out and showed that they were not in favor of the purity of one party.

Mr. Borden there was gathered together no less than $500,000 for the purpose of corrupting constituencies, and of that sum $250,000 was employed in one county alone in New Brunswick.

Mr. Kemp, speaking recently in Toronto, had asked why, as he was attorney general, he did not prosecute. Why, if they had prosecuted all those who had been convicted that all the jails in the province could hold. Mr. Foster had followed Mr. Kemp and said that was all the speaker's part. Mr. Foster said it was not b-u-f-f, perhaps for Mr. Kemp's benefit as he was a religious man and was not acquainted with the game of poker. Mr. Foster apparently could claim some familiarity with it. He (Mr. Pugsley) had been told that in the game of poker it was not allowed to put all the cards down on the table.

He could tell them that this $250,000 which was sent to New Brunswick, came through a bank in Montreal, $50,000 on Oct. 24, 1904 and $200,000 on Oct. 27. It was wired to the partner of the candidate in the Conservative interest. The death of Mrs. John McConnell, 107 Somerset street, died Tuesday evening, Oct. 18, at her residence, 107 Somerset street. She was an elderly lady, had been ill for some time. She is survived by her husband.

She was also one son, John, at home and two daughters, Mrs. E. A. Wood and Mrs. E. J. Ross, both of St. John. Two brothers, John and James, both of whom live here. Two sisters reside in Boston.

Capt. Andrew F. Kenney. The death of Capt. Andrew Freeman Kenney took place Tuesday evening at his residence, 34 St. George street. He was 68 years of age and had been in the army for some time. He is survived by a widow, formerly Miss Wheaton of this city, one son, G. Godfrey of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and some. F. L. Kenney, M. D., of the west side, is a brother of the deceased. Several sisters reside in the province. The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock on Wednesday.

Word of the death of Miss Mary Pheasant of Newton Hospital, Newton (Mass.), reached here Wednesday and will be learned with much regret. She was a daughter of the late Captain Pheasant, now in the late Neil McLaughlin, daughter of St. John, who for years was in the Bay of Fundy. The family home is now in Yarmouth. Miss Pheasant was a graduate nurse of Newton Hospital and held a position in the institution, but had been in poor health since January. Her mother was with her at the time she died, and will bring the body here today for interment.

Mrs. Sarah Harris. The death of Mrs. Sarah Harris which occurred at her residence, 698 St. James street, removes from the north end one of its oldest and most respected residents. Mrs. Harris had for more than thirty years been a resident of the north end, and for a long time lived with her sister, Mrs. Bogart, (now deceased). She was the wife of a well-known merchant, and many friends of Mrs. Harris will learn of the death with sincere regret. She was in the eighty-fourth year of her age.

In the last year a Pennsylvania railroad was put down the north end from two to six, to put in each freight house on the various lines to destroy rats and mice. The freight agents are instructed to provide a quart of milk a day for each cat.

ROSY CHECKS THE AMBITION OF EVERY WOMAN. Hollow cheeks with dark lines, sallow complexion--how a woman hates them. But rosy cheeks, clear skin, bright eyes--give them to a woman and she is happy. The blood is found the first sign of trouble.

It grows thin and watery, its color fades, and increasing pallor and sallowness give the outward evidence of the change within. Soon the nerves weaken, the heart ceases to pump, and the strength declines. These conditions are easily checked, easily cured at the beginning, but even when long established, Ferrozene will remove the cause, and restore the blood to its normal condition. The action of the blood--digestion, assimilation, elimination. By strengthening digestion it forms an abundance of rich, red blood--this gives good color.

Usually she waits till she is ready to drop--often when it's too late. These conditions are easily checked, easily cured at the beginning, but even when long established, Ferrozene will remove the cause, and restore the blood to its normal condition. The action of the blood--digestion, assimilation, elimination. By strengthening digestion it forms an abundance of rich, red blood--this gives good color.

Not a man, woman or child needing blood, vigor, endurance--not a person who is weak, nervous or sickly, not a person in health who won't receive immediate help from Ferrozene. As a tonic and restorative, as a health-bringer and body-builder, Ferrozene is unrivalled. It cures because it feeds and nourishes, because it contains the elements that build up and strengthen. Try it yourself--sold everywhere in 50c. boxes.

OBITUARY.

James E. Fairweather. Tuesday afternoon there passed to his rest at his home in Lower Norton, James E. Fairweather, a well known and highly respected man in his neighborhood. He had been in ill health for more than a year, but his death, which was due to heart trouble, came most unexpectedly.

Mr. Fairweather was a son of the late Thomas Fairweather, and grandson of Engine Loyalists. Although he possessed the greater part of his life on the farm upon which he was born, he always took a very lively and effective interest in all questions affecting the municipality, and in the early sixties he was one of the original promoters of the movement for better methods in selection of domestic animals, and was for thirty-eight years secretary for the local agricultural society.

At various times the provincial government availed itself of his judgment and stock and in the conduct of exhibitions. Mr. Fairweather was ever a staunch Liberal in politics and in 1878 ran with Mr. McLeod and Dr. Vail in opposition to the then Fraser government. He was the first warder of the county at the time of the purchase of the Dominion stock and in the conduct of exhibitions.

Mr. Fairweather was ever a staunch Liberal in politics and in 1878 ran with Mr. McLeod and Dr. Vail in opposition to the then Fraser government. He was the first warder of the county at the time of the purchase of the Dominion stock and in the conduct of exhibitions.

Mrs. M. A. Stewart. Mrs. M. A. Stewart, widow of Alexander Stewart, died Wednesday at the advanced age of eighty-three years. Her husband at one time carried on a soap manufacturing business across the river, by two sons and two daughters. The sons are Andrew J. and W. A. Stewart and the daughters Mrs. J. B. Bann and Mrs. Stewart was practically a life long resident of St. John.

Mrs. John McConnell. The death of Mrs. John McConnell, 107 Somerset street, died Tuesday evening, Oct. 18, at her residence, 107 Somerset street. She was an elderly lady, had been ill for some time. She is survived by her husband.

Mrs. Mary Pheasant. Word of the death of Miss Mary Pheasant of Newton Hospital, Newton (Mass.), reached here Wednesday and will be learned with much regret. She was a daughter of the late Captain Pheasant, now in the late Neil McLaughlin, daughter of St. John, who for years was in the Bay of Fundy. The family home is now in Yarmouth. Miss Pheasant was a graduate nurse of Newton Hospital and held a position in the institution, but had been in poor health since January. Her mother was with her at the time she died, and will bring the body here today for interment.

Mrs. Sarah Harris. The death of Mrs. Sarah Harris which occurred at her residence, 698 St. James street, removes from the north end one of its oldest and most respected residents. Mrs. Harris had for more than thirty years been a resident of the north end, and for a long time lived with her sister, Mrs. Bogart, (now deceased). She was the wife of a well-known merchant, and many friends of Mrs. Harris will learn of the death with sincere regret. She was in the eighty-fourth year of her age.

Mrs. Sarah Harris. The death of Mrs. Sarah Harris which occurred at her residence, 698 St. James street, removes from the north end one of its oldest and most respected residents. Mrs. Harris had for more than thirty years been a resident of the north end, and for a long time lived with her sister, Mrs. Bogart, (now deceased). She was the wife of a well-known merchant, and many friends of Mrs. Harris will learn of the death with sincere regret. She was in the eighty-fourth year of her age.

Mrs. Sarah Harris. The death of Mrs. Sarah Harris which occurred at her residence, 698 St. James street, removes from the north end one of its oldest and most respected residents. Mrs. Harris had for more than thirty years been a resident of the north end, and for a long time lived with her sister, Mrs. Bogart, (now deceased). She was the wife of a well-known merchant, and many friends of Mrs. Harris will learn of the death with sincere regret. She was in the eighty-fourth year of her age.

Mrs. Sarah Harris. The death of Mrs. Sarah Harris which occurred at her residence, 698 St. James street, removes from the north end one of its oldest and most respected residents. Mrs. Harris had for more than thirty years been a resident of the north end, and for a long time lived with her sister, Mrs. Bogart, (now deceased). She was the wife of a well-known merchant, and many friends of Mrs. Harris will learn of the death with sincere regret. She was in the eighty-fourth year of her age.

Mrs. Sarah Harris. The death of Mrs. Sarah Harris which occurred at her residence, 698 St. James street, removes from the north end one of its oldest and most respected residents. Mrs. Harris had for more than thirty years been a resident of the north end, and for a long time lived with her sister, Mrs. Bogart, (now deceased). She was the wife of a well-known merchant, and many friends of Mrs. Harris will learn of the death with sincere regret. She was in the eighty-fourth year of her age.

Mrs. Sarah Harris. The death of Mrs. Sarah Harris which occurred at her residence, 698 St. James street, removes from the north end one of its oldest and most respected residents. Mrs. Harris had for more than thirty years been a resident of the north end, and for a long time lived with her sister, Mrs. Bogart, (now deceased). She was the wife of a well-known merchant, and many friends of Mrs. Harris will learn of the death with sincere regret. She was in the eighty-fourth year of her age.

Mrs. Sarah Harris. The death of Mrs. Sarah Harris which occurred at her residence, 698 St. James street, removes from the north end one of its oldest and most respected residents. Mrs. Harris had for more than thirty years been a resident of the north end, and for a long time lived with her sister, Mrs. Bogart, (now deceased). She was the wife of a well-known merchant, and many friends of Mrs. Harris will learn of the death with sincere regret. She was in the eighty-fourth year of her age.

Mrs. Sarah Harris. The death of Mrs. Sarah Harris which occurred at her residence, 698 St. James street, removes from the north end one of its oldest and most respected residents. Mrs. Harris had for more than thirty years been a resident of the north end, and for a long time lived with her sister, Mrs. Bogart, (now deceased). She was the wife of a well-known merchant, and many friends of Mrs. Harris will learn of the death with sincere regret. She was in the eighty-fourth year of her age.

WEDDINGS.

Coburn-Golding. At 6:45 Tuesday morning in the Brussels street United Baptist church Miss Olive Blanche Golding, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Golding, was married to George Albert Coburn, of Boston, an official of the New England Telephone Company. Rev. A. B. Colver, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. About the pulpit, platform and choir loft there was a profusion of autumn leaves, cut blossoms and pot-plant, while the gallery front, facing the choir, bore the Canadian ensign and the Stars and Stripes.

The bride was unattended. Her costume was a tailored dress of royal blue cloth, with a wide hat of Copenhagen blue, trimmed with dove grey wings and banded in gilt. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

WEDDINGS.

Coburn-Golding. At 6:45 Tuesday morning in the Brussels street United Baptist church Miss Olive Blanche Golding, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Golding, was married to George Albert Coburn, of Boston, an official of the New England Telephone Company. Rev. A. B. Colver, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. About the pulpit, platform and choir loft there was a profusion of autumn leaves, cut blossoms and pot-plant, while the gallery front, facing the choir, bore the Canadian ensign and the Stars and Stripes.

The bride was unattended. Her costume was a tailored dress of royal blue cloth, with a wide hat of Copenhagen blue, trimmed with dove grey wings and banded in gilt. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

The groom's gift to the bride was a new and handsomely finished home at 64 Percival street, Melrose (Mass.), where the happy couple will make their home. A beautiful array of wedding remembrances was the gift of the bride's friends. The bride's attire was a pale blue and white. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.

WEDDINGS.

Coburn-Golding. At 6:45 Tuesday morning in the Brussels street United Baptist church Miss Olive Blanche Golding, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Golding, was married to George Albert Coburn, of Boston, an official of the New England Telephone Company. Rev. A. B. Colver, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. About the pulpit, platform and choir loft there was a profusion of autumn leaves, cut blossoms and pot-plant, while the gallery front, facing the choir, bore the Canadian ensign and the Stars and Stripes.

The bride was unattended. Her costume was a tailored dress of royal blue cloth, with a wide hat of Copenhagen blue, trimmed with dove grey wings and banded in gilt. She was given away by her father. After the ceremony at the church, which was crowded by friends of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn left by the steamer Prince Rupert for Digby commencing their trip home by way of Yarmouth.