La Traviata Tonight

by Denyelle Theriault

Le Centre Communautaire Sainte-Anne presents "Opéra La Traviata" tonight at 8pm, in cooperation with Youth and Music Canada. This opera will be performed in Italian by L'Atelier Lyrique de L'Opéra de Montréal.

L'Atelier Lyrique is currently touring New Brunswick, Ontario and Québec until March 1995. The L'Atelier Lyrique experience has touched dozens of young Canadians since its beginning in 1984. The program aims at initiating young Canadians to the real world of opera and allows them to benefit from the professional assistance of the many practitioners in the field, as well as the musical, theatrical and linguistic resources available at L'Atelier Lyrique.

"La Traviata" is an opera in three acts by Giuseppe Verdi, along with a libretto by Francesco Maria Piave, based on "La Dame aux Camelias", a play by Alexandre Dumas.

Verdi had been searching for an extremely bold plot when Dumas' play was first performed. The play was the perfect subject and contained all the equalities Verdi was looking for to allow him to expand opera's repertoire. It took Verdi only 46 days to create his most famous masterpiece.

"La Traviata" introduces us to Violetta Valery (Louise Marcotte) and Alfredo Germont (Michel Cormier) at a party given by Violetta. It is t this party that the two lovers first meet and Alfredo confesses his love for Violetta. The opera follows the lives of the two lovers until the death of Violetta at the end opera.

To discover what happens between the two lovers before the death of Violetta, you will have to go to the show and see for yourself.

The Accounts of Luke

by Joel Calabrese

Bruce Kuhn recounted the gospel of Luke in the one-man performance of "The Accounts of Luke." It was incredible, each one of his characters was unique and alive, the actions and reactions quite believable. He began by giving a brief history of the play, and slipped, almost imperceptibly, into character. it took a few seconds to realize the performance had begun. By that time, you were spellbound.

The ability of this former Broadway actor to make the story come alive was phenomenal; he was able to captivate the audience that found its way to Tilley 102. Kuhn's movements were well choreographed; his timing perfect, his interaction with the audience well done. The ease with which he slipped from one character to another and back, completely awed me. Needing only two props, three if you include the glass of water he sipped from occasionally, and a wardrobe consisting of a green shirt, jeans and a pair of shoes, Kuhn was always in character.

I would like to commend the Intervarsity Christian Fellowship for its organization and ability to get a good size crowd to one of the best performances this year. Not only was it well done, but Kuhn made it thoroughly entertaining. I could now argue that the Bible, or at least Luke, is very interesting and enlightening.

Being able to speak with Bruce Kuhn after the performance, I would say that the main reason the performance was so riveting is because he believes it. There is something to be said about playing a part that you believed in. "The Accounts of Luke" was entertaining, gripping and a must see...it's the gospel truth.
