In the opinion of one witness for the prosecution, the one who was with him the longest ^{1st week} he was not drunk. In the opinion of two others who saw him for a few minutes in an orderly room, where any soldier is likely to be flushed he was drunk. ^{Heard him when two saw him a few minutes before +} In the opinion of 4 other witnesses ^{who saw him at certain times in the day he was not} ^{By 1700 hours that night he} drunk appeared in the 1st mess and was quite normal. Enough alcohol in ^{the} to make a man incapable of duty will not lose all its effect in two hours.

In conclusion I would like to say that ^{he has no} evidence to prove that this man was drunk, that is, incapable of performing any duty he might be called upon to perform. You have heard evidence to the effect that he had the flu, as well as evidence that he was
