GOOD NEWS FROM ONTARIO

The following quotation from the Toronto Star and the comments thereon are taken from the Halifax Morning Chronicle: The Toronto Star states that one of a multitude of indications that the Ontario Temperance Act and other prohibitory laws are working to the advantage of Canada is shown by the statistics of crime. In 1920 the convictions for drunkenness throughout the Dominion were only 39,769, as against 60,975 in 1913. In other words, notwithstanding an appreciable increase of population during the last eight years, drunkenness has decreased by nearly 35 per cent. This record is the more remarkable because conditions in Quebec and one or two other Provinces foster the consumption of liquor. "Figures obtainable from Toronto and other parts of the Province," says the Star, "discredit the propaganda of the wets about the amount of bootlegging, homebrewing and secret drinking. The O. T. A. is a good law, well worded and in the main well enforced. But it would be idle pretence to say that the evils of alcohol have disappeared, and that the fight for sobriety has been victoriously ended. The liquor traffic in Ontario is like a conflagration that has been subdued but that still smolders. It will burst out anew unless good citizens remain on guard." This statement of the case as regards Ontario might, in the main, be adopted as summarising the situation in his Province. The benefits of the prohibitive law are widely acknowledged and almost universally welcome. Indeed there are few who would deny that there has been a decided improvement in conditions, and given proper respect for law enforcement, which all good citizens should encourage with all their influence, there is every reason to hope that improvement will be more marked in the future. At all events there will be no retrogression from a great economic as well as moral reform.

TEA SHORTAGE MEANS HIGHER PRICES

During the war teas reached a very high level of cost largely owing to shortage of shipping. In 1919 and 1920, greatly increased production and unlimited shipping resulted in enormous quantities of tea reaching every market in the world, and a consequent fall in cost ensued. So serious did the situation become in India, Ceylon and Java that the various growers agreed to decrease their output during 1921 by 20%. This agreement was kept and the world is now faced by a shortage of tea, which has resulted in the market climbing week by week for the last eighteen months until it has now reached a level fully 15 cents a pound over that of October 1920.

COSTUME ACCESSORIES FOR SPRING AND SUMMER SHOW ODD COMBINATIONS.

Spring neck wear shows many collar and cuff sets as well as vests. Real linen of a coarse weave and in natural color is one of the liked materials. Nothing could be smarter than a collar and cuff set of this material edged with a trim border of dotted Swiss in some decided tone. One set has a border of bright blue, with a parallel line just above of orange silk thread over-stitched with green. Another set has a narrow border of orange in a bright rust color, with simple designs in black and rust-color embroidered on the collar. Sleeveless jackets, coats and vests are all fashioned from the natural linen. These have banded trimmings, often of ratine, embroidered in contrasting colored wools. Buttons ornament them too, the bands of trimming terminating under them. Blue ratine used in slanting strips on one linen vest is embroidered in orange, and blue worsted.

Checked gingham is another trimming employed making a vest good for wear with the spring suit. The gingham is applied in double rows connected by a lacing of black floss. A vest of shaped tailored linen is bound in narrow black crepe ribbon. A thin black embroidered line follows the shape of the binding, and bright motifs in colored silk give it a chic air. Smartness is what counts in the spring outfit, and with everybody striving to be "different" it is no wonder that costume accessories run to the unusual in combinations of material and colors.

Disability and job insurance for the wage-earners, crop insurance for the farmers, weather insurance for the sporting fraternity—all that is needed to make life one grand, sweet song is profit-insurance for the business man.

CUT OUT THE GLOOM

The Maritime Merchant, published in Halifax is a great believer in and preacher of optimism in business. In a recent issue the merchant says: "There is too much talk about 'hard times'. Of all subjects in the world that business men should avoid at the present juncture this is the most conspicuous. If a man really believes what he has to say on this subject, he should keep his mouth shut if he be a pessimist. We have heard of travelling men who seem to make a hobby of opening up on this subject immediately on entering a customer's presence, thus spoiling their own chance of getting any business worth while and helping to still more discourage a man who needs hopeful counsel. There is no need for one to be foolishly optimistic, but it is certainly poor policy from all points of view for one to be a prophet of gloom. The same thing applies to the retail merchant. If he cannot be really cheerful he ought to be cheerful as he can. We believe that if he really makes the effort he will find something to be cheerful about and if he only works that little for what it is worth, he will presently find himself acquiring a cheerful habit that will spread around, oh, so much good feeling among discouraged people. 'Cut out the gloom' at least; it is the beginning of bringing in the cheer-up spirit.

If the soles of walking shoes are dipped into melted wax once in three or four weeks they will last twice as long and be waterproof, so it is said. A small sum will provide enough wax for a dozen dippings.

FRIGHTENED!

"Every morning I woke up, I felt that something terrible was going to happen."

Writes Mrs. M. and she goes on to say, "I wonder if any other woman ever had such fits of depression as I had for over a year. I was so utterly despondent that if it had not been for my children, I believe I would have put an end to my life. Every day and every night was a nightmare. I dreaded going to bed because I lay awake most of the night. When I did sleep, I had the most dreadful dreams. I couldn't eat. I was completely run down—nothing interested me, nothing appealed to me. I consulted several doctors. They prescribed different remedies to build me up but these preparations didn't do me any good. Doctors told me I had a nervous breakdown. I was tired all the time. I felt every day that my strength was gradually leaving me. The least little exertion left me thoroughly tired out. I knew I was gradually wasting away. I felt I was going to die and I was so thoroughly miserable that I did not care whether I lived or not. And then I heard about Carnol and what a fine tonic it was. At first I refused to take it. I was sure it wouldn't do me any good. Finally I did try it with the most wonderful results. I am well and happy every minute of the day now. I eat heartily and sleep soundly. My friends won't believe that Carnol alone has done this for me. I am never despondent now and every day is a day of joy. What Carnol has done for me it will do for you."

Carnol is sold by your druggist and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle and he will refund your money. 2-122

THAT INFANT RADIO

People are asking what use is the radio? One might as well ask, what use is a baby!

Here is an infant industry sprung almost full grown from the mind of the scientist. Full grown in the sense of being perfect. Yet far from perfected and completed. When one stops to remember that the automobile went through patient years of development before we have the well-nigh fool proof car of today it is hard to prophesy the advances in the conquest of the ether without appearing to promise the impossible.

Yet just as no one looking at a baby in arms can imagine the Shakespeare that that baby may be, so no one experimenting today with radio can possibly foresee the full scope of this amazing new device. Other striking inventions such as the phonograph and the moving picture had no such comparable development at so early a stage of discovery. If we may expect the same progress in the radio field that we have seen in the talking machine, the newest invention of man will fairly startle the world in the course of a few decades.

One of the most promising things about radio is that it is a hobby of youth. Not to say adults are uninterested. Far from the case. But it is the boy's legitimate hobby and is going to quicken the mind of the coming generation, as well as save it from many an idle hour spent less profitably than in tinkering with the little box that draws down conversation and sweet music from the ether of space. A new development of hydro-electric power is being undertaken at Avon Falls, near Windsor, by The Avon Power Company Ltd. The Company is made up of Messrs. W. H. Chase, C. H. Wright and R. A. Jodrey, of this town, and the work is to proceed at once, the necessary permit having been secured from the government. Contractors and engineers are now figuring on the work which will first be for building a dam and a canal 1750 feet across a point of land to increase the head of water. The ACADIAN wishes the new undertaking abundant success.
