A Song of Rest.

O weary hands I that, all the day, Were set to labor hard and long. Now softly falls the shadows gray, The bells are rung for evensong. An hour ago the golden sun Sank slowly down into the west; Poor, weary hands, your tôll is done; "Tis time for rest! 'tis time for rest

O weary feet! that many a mile
Have trudged along a stony way,
At last ye reached the tryeting stile;
No longer fear to go astray.
The gentle bending, rustling trees

And softly sings the gate breeze;
"Tis time for rest! 'its time for rest!

O weary eyes! from which the tears
fell many a time like thunder rain—
O weary heart! that through the years
Beat with such bitter, restless pais,
To-night forget the stormy strife.
And know what heaven shall send is be
