A Wise Prayer

Deliver Us From Debt, Dirt and the Devil.

(William Rader, in San Francisco Bulletin.)

"Debt, dirt and the devil!" are three things from which all sensible people should devoutly pray to be delivered. One is as bad as the other. The habit of running behind in one's accounts, of owing the butcher, the baker, and candistick maker, is a costly habit. It costs money and joy. No man can do his best work who is continually reminded that he owes money to his neighbors. The consciousness of such obligation interferes with one's friendship and social relations and causes untold misery. Debt is the cause of more trouble than any other one cause. It is said more people commit suicide on account of debt than for any other reason.

I advise young married people who are starting out in life not to go in debt at the beginning of their married career; not to buy more furniture than they can pay for. If you haven't the money to buy two chairs buy one and pay for it. Debt is a hard master, a tyrant who is merciless, a Shylock skulking around with balances for the flesh and with the bond for the ducats. There is no getting rid of him, and the longer he is put of the more greedy skulking around with balances for the flesh and with the bond for the ducats. There is no getting rid of him, and the longer he is put off the more greedy and eager he becomes. It is a fact that the majority of people are in debt, and the more prosperous the times the greater these financial obligations. One reason why we are an indebted people is extravagance and the wish to successfully compete with our neighbors. One beautiful hat in the community means other beautiful hats. In the East, I might say, in passing, the woman's hat is gradually passing out of use, especially in small towns, where the women resemble, so far as their headgear goes, the peasants of Italy and France. Some day the church pews will enjoy an open vision and the pulpit will not be obscured by the milliner.

As one travels through the country and watches the display of fine clothes in large cities he is impressed by the extravagance, the elegance and the cost-liness of the fine raiment with which the American people are clothed. The titled men and women of the European courts are distanced in this American passion for dress. And much of it is not paid men and women of the European courts are distanced in this American passion for dress. And much of it is not paid for. The palaces and hotels rising in our great cities are more magnificent than some of the gorgeous palaces of antiquity. There are some hotels which would startle Solomon and cause him to make an invidious comparison with his would startle Solomon and cause him to make an invidious comparison with his famous Jerusalem temple.

What have these things to do with debt? Much, every way. The rich are copied by the poor, and running through al shades of society is the passion for the fine linen. The result is that many spend more than they earn and live beyond their means.

What are we living for?

Let us hope not to be millionaires.

It must be a trying experience—this being a millionaire, but its perils are so far removed from us that most of my readers are in no serious danger of ex-so far removed from us that most of my readers are in no serious danger of experiencing them. The fellows who are compelled to hustle for their ham and eggs are usually more happy and more contented than the fellows who have more than they know what to do with. I am not arguing for a contemptible economy, not for the people, as we call ourselves, to eschew all luxuries. It is a good thing to see a poor man get something out of life besides hard work. He and his family should have enough margin to enjoy amusements and a day off now and again. Money is to spend and not to lay up to be invested in a big tombstone out in the cemetery. It is wicked for one to leave a finer tomb than a home. Economy is not pinching poverty. I am thinking now of people who have something not of the army of the poor who, singing the Marseillaise, marched to Mr. Balfour in London the other day and asked for bread.

Debt is a good thing sometimes, and shealutely necessary.

WONDERFUL SPECTACLE.

Deep Red Cross in Sky Alarmed Many People.

Atlantic City, N.J., Dec. 29.—Superstitious persons are alarmed here to day at a wonderful spectacle seen in the sky, when, just after the sun had set, a perfect cross, deep red in color, was seen in a bank of dull gray clouds. After ten minutes the cross disappeared as suddenly as it came.

People rushed from their homes to the street to watch the inspiring sight, while frightened negroes fell on their knees in terror.

Passengers on trains from Philadelphia witnessed the phenomenon from windows and vestibules.

A Well-Hateu Power,

Nearly everyhere in this world Germany is regarded with unfriendly feligs. We are not loved in France, nor in Russia, nor in England, nor America, nor Japan, not even in Italy. They dislike our military and economic strength. In case of an encounter they fear our military superiority; and fear is the mother of hatred.—"Volkszeitung," Cologne, lives with their families in this hellhole? Well they do, and great is their agony of spirit.

One way to get out of debt is to stop making new debts, and to stop this minute. It is hard, I know, but the sacrifice must be made. Swallow all pride, so called and begin to climb the ladder of financial freedom, and when you walk down the street you need have no fear of meeting a creditor and be compelled to cross over to the other side. The men who cross the street on account of debt must feel like one who has stolen a sheep. Another thing is worth trying, and that is find out where you are. It requires much pluck for a man to look his financial nemesis squarely in the face, and to know precisely the situation. Take account of stock and watch for leaks.

The third suggestion I would make

The third suggestion I would make its, do a cash business as a buyer. Pay for what you get, and pay for it when you get it. This is an excellent theory, but there are few of us who live up to it. Take your wife into your confidence. Many a man would be better off financially if he handed the purse over to his wife, for whatever we may say about the extravagance of women, I believe they are more economical than men. A woman is always economical when she pays her own bills.

ANDREW'S MORNING.

Carnegie Wakes Every Day to Sound of Sacred Music.

New York, Dec. 29.—How would you like to be awakened from sleep every morning by the strains of some inspiring religious hymn? Nice to contemplate, is it not? Well, that is Andrew Carnegie's lot, for, just as the clock strikes eight each day, the notes of Lead, Kindly Light, or Silent Night, his two favorites, roll out of the pipes of an immense organ in his home in Fifth avenue, rousing the steel laing for the day and starting the machinery of the household to work.

Walter C. Gale, who is the leader of the Broadway Tabernacle choir, is the multi-millionaire's private organist. Sacred music is always used. The organist, who was formerly the leader of All Souls' choir, is known all over the country as a musician and composer of high degree.

When living in his castle, at Skibo, Scotland, Mr. Carnegie is awakened 15 minutes earlier each day by music, but not by the organ, for three musicians, with bagpipes, stand under his window and play the music that he likes to hear. At 8 o'clock they depart with a native air, which the organist takes up and works into the hymns of which Mr. Carnegie is so passionately fond. Sacred Music.

CAME BACK TO LIFE.

Girl Sat Up in Her Coffin at the Funeral.

Talequah, I. T., Dec. 29 .- On Christmas Talequah, I. T., Dec. 29.—On Christman eve Carrie Moss was supposed to have been frightened to death by the explosion of torpedoes in the hands of her brothers, while the family were seafed on the veranda of their residence, enjoying the pyrotechnics.

The girl fell from her chair, and there was every evidence of death. The physicians who were summoned could perceive no pulse or heart beats. Their verdict was that she had been frigtened to death.

It Held Son's Uniform and News of His Death.

hard, Mich., Dec. 29 .- Earl Green Blanchard, Mich., Dec. 29.—Earl Green, aged 16, had been employed as a news agent on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, and when, after he had written to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Green, that he might be at home for Christmas, they received a box by express from Rockhill, Ky., they thought it was a Christmas gift and kept the box until Christmas morning before opening it. Then they found in it their son's uniform and a note briefly informing them that the boy had been killed accidentally at Columbia and the body cremated.

PUZZLES IN COLORS. Interesting Problems to be Solved by the Curious Reader.

In summer ladies, and men, too, when possible, wear white. Why? To keep cool, of course, you will say.

If this be so, why, then, are almost all the creatures that live in Arctic regions clothed in white? The usual reply is that the white color is for protective purposes—in order, in fact, to make them invisible to their enemies in the midst of the wastes of snow.

But, consider again—is this reasonable? From whom does the polar bear need to hide? He has no enemies to fear. And as for the birds which assume a white plumage when they migrate north, surely they also have far fewer foes in the Polar regions than when further south.

Again, if white be a cool color, this is surely another reason against the inhabitants of the coldest regions turning white at the approach of winter. It is easy to strengthen this argument. Visit the tropies and you will find hardly any white animals or birds. In the very hottest regions of the globe not only is man, as a rule, black, but the birds and beasts are either very dark or else extremely brilliant in color. Of tropical birds the commonest colors run as follows: Brown, dark green and dark blue, emeral green, reds and yellows.

Speaking of birds again, why is it that land birds are most dark hued, while so many sea birds are white?

Here is another color puzzle. Almost all song birds are sombre in hue, while too many sea birds are white?

Here is another color speakes, such as the jays, the parrots and birds of paradise, have naturally harsh voices.

The colors of flowers and leaves offer numbers of interesting problems. No one quite know why the prevailing tint of early flowers is either white or yellow. Yellow, indeed, holds its own to some extent all through the summer, but the typical color of summer blooms is pink, while as the autumn advances richer hues of dahlias and chrysanthemums are seen.

Hortculturalists have produced poppies of pretty nearly every shade under

NEW RAILWAY FOR HAMILTON.

South Ontario Pacific Will Build Line to Niagara.

Application Has Been Made to the Railway Commissioners.

General Manager M'Guigan Heard From re Ferrie St. Bridge.

City Solicitor MacKelcan has received copy from the Secretary of the Board of Railway Commissioners of the ap-Hamilton. This company was incorporated in 1887, by a party of Hamilton, Brantford, and Woodstock gentlemen with the object of constructing a railway from Woodstock to Niagara Falls that would parallel the Grand Trunk system. The charter was acquired by the Canadian Pacific Railway, however, some time ago. A surveying party was engaged last spring in preparing plans for the route through the city and there was much through the city and there was much conjecture at that time as to what was in the wind. The plans sent to Mr. Mac-Keclan show that the new line will leave the T., H. and B., tracks just east of Wentworth street and run easterly to the city limits south of Poplar avenue. It will go through the Rutherford and Barnes properties. The railway will run through the Village of Grimsby. The Hamilton men who were the original incorporators of the company included: T. H. McPherson, W. E. Sanford, A. McKay, W. H. Gillard, W. H. Glassof. Edward Martin. All of these with the exception of Mr. McKay are dead.

This application will be one of the first matters to be dealt with by next year's Council.

It is Mr. R. H. Lewis, of Barton township, not Mr. A. M. Lewis, of this city, who has dropped out of the election race. A. M. Lewis is in the field to stay and the indications are he will be elected alderman for Hamilton, for 1906.

Tired of waiting on the G. T. R. authorities, Ald. Stewart appealed this morning directly to General Manager McGuigan by wire and in reply received a telegram stating that Mr. Brownlee would be here this afternoon or to-morrow morning to settle the matters in dispute between the city and the company.

Aside from his notorious partisanship, does anybody know why George Armstrong should be elected to the School Board? Is he in any degree possessed of the qualifications a trustee ought to have? If so, it has remained undiscovered among those who know best. The Spectator is as funny as a dummy on a hearse. Having made itself ridicul-ous by objecting to Mr. Brennen's run-ning in Ward 6 when he resides in Ward 1 while it is observed.

ning in Ward 6 when he resides in Ward 1, while it is advocating the election in Ward 5, of Mr. Lamoreaux, who resides in Ward 3, it sets about extricating itself from the mess by saying that Brennen could have got the nomination in Ward 1, and Lamoreaux could not get the nomination in the ward in which he lives! Isr't that a dandy one? Why couldn't be get the nomination in Ward 3? And if he couldn't was there any necessity for his running at all? Wus couldn't he get the nomination in Ward 3? And if he couldn't was there any necessity for his running at all? Was it because the "masheen" so fixed it? Brennen's great business interests are in Ward 6; he before represented Ward 6; and if the ratepayers are well advised Ward 6 will soon have him as representative again in place of the nonentity now representing the "ring" from that ward.

The Spec. notifies the Tory party that if it desires to see peace Stewart and Macleod must be kept out of the Council. But the "trouble" it threatens can be avoided by smashing the Tory machine's slate, and that will be in the interest of good government in the city.

When you go to vote take with you the record of candidates who are not on the machine slate, who oppose the introduction of partyism into municipal affairs, and who are free to do public business with an eye only to public good, knowing no man's politics. Here is the list, and good citizens are asked to vote for as many of them as they deem suitable men:
