Charlottetown, Nov. 14, 1883.

Roman Intelligence.

ROME, Dec. 3, 1883.

On Thursday the final meeting of the American Archbishops and Bishops was held in the Propaganda. A series of minor questions have arisen in the course of the conference held, and it is considered president by the Propaganda Committee to ask these prelates to delay their departure until these be settled.

The Propaganda has divided Patagonia into a Prefecture and Vicariate Apostolic. The Prefecture comprises the southern part of Patagonia with the Malouin Islands and the islands of the Magellan Straits. Father Joseph Fagnano, 39 years of age, has been appointed Prefect Apostolic. The Vicariate embraces the northern and central parts of Patagonia, the Atlantic islands it on the east and the Cordilleras on the west; and on the north the Pampas Indians, and the Prefecture Apostolic. Father Giovanni Cagliero, 45 years of age, has been appointed pro-Vicario Apostolic.

The dinner given to the American Bishops last Sunday, took place at 2 p. m. in the apartments of the Cardinal-Secretary of State. The importance of this assembly at the table of the Premier of Leo XIII. was enhanced by the presence of Cardinals Simeoni, (Prefect of Propaganda), Howard, Ledochowski, Franzelin, and Angelo Jacobini. Amongst the higher prelature were the Secretaries of Propaganda and of Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs, the Substitute-Secretary of State, the Private Almoner and Sacristan of his Holiness, the Major-domo and Chamberlain, the Prefect of Pontifical Ceremonies, Mgr. Boscchi, Commissario Segreto, particularly of the Holy Father, the Rector of the American College, Mgr. Hostoli, and several other ecclesiastics. The first toast was proposed by Cardinal Simeoni, who spoke in Latin to the health and prosperity of the Holy Father. The Cardinal-Secretary of State replied in Latin, and expressed the deep satisfaction he experienced at the presence of the American Bishops in Rome, and the spirit of zeal and of concord by which they were animated. At the same time, his Eminence, rejoicing at the admirable

The Coming Plenary Council.

The announcement that the American Catholic Bishops in Rome have decided in favor of holding a national plenary Council in Baltimore in November, 1884, is an absorbing topic in Catholic circles in the United States. The last plenary Council of the Catholic Church for the United States was held in Baltimore in 1866. From a theologian who was a member of that Council the following information was obtained: The Council will be called by orders from the apostolic delegate, appointed by the Pope to represent him in the business. This delegate will most probably be Archbishop Spencer, whose appointment was announced a short time ago to visit this country with powers from Rome. The Council will consist of all the Archbishops, including Cardinal McCloskey, the Bishops, heads of religious houses, abbots, principals of church colleges, and chief men of the religious orders of the Catholic Church.
The invitation, or rather command, to attend the Council is sent to each person who is to be a member by the Pope's representative, and he must obey the command to attend, or send a good and sufficient excuse if he cannot obey it. Each Bishop or other member of the Council also brings with him one or more priests as theologians, who take an active part in the proceedings. The business of the Council is considered and shaped originally by the congregations of theologians, which are simply committees appointed by the apostolic delegate, with duties similar to those of a committee of Congress.
A Bishop or other full member of the Council is chairman of each committee.
The general business of the Council is first determined upon, however, by the authorities at Rome, so far as to suggest the subjects to be considered. The apostolic delegate is selected, not only because of his intellectual fitness, but because, being of another country, he will be impartial, having no interest in the results of the deliberations of the Council. He parcels out the business and assigns the subject to each committee, advising, of course, with others of the high clergy so far as to be aided in putting the different matters in the hands of committees best fitted by their composition to dispose of them with most ability and sound judgment. The committees report to the Council, which considers the reports, and takes action, favorably or otherwise. The Council has its secretaries appointed by the apostolic delegate or presiding officer, and the measures adopted and conclusions reached by the Council are transmitted and sent to Rome, where they must be approved before they are of any binding authority. They are carefully considered at Rome by the Pope and his cabinet of counselors, and if approved, they are sent back and go into effect.
One portion of a subject or a part only of the matters acted upon by the Council may be approved and another part may be stricken out or negative. Great secretary is observed as to the proceedings of the Council until the business is completed. All statements, therefore, as to what will be done by the Council next year are speculation or conjecture, but no doubt they are very near the mark who think that the relations of the clergy and their Bishops, with some restriction on the present power of the Bishops over their clergy, will be one of the matters legislated upon. It is well known that no where in the world is the power of the Bishops more absolute than in this country. Another subject which will come before the Council, and almost certainly receive its attention, will be that of the management of the finances of congregations and that of the clergy taking charge of the deposits of their parishioners.

General News Items

In Boston they will enforce the law providing that no child under fourteen, or a woman, shall be employed in a store over sixty hours per week.

The Khedive has confessed his inability to cope with the Sudan rebellion without assistance, and it is therefore believed that a strong British force will be at once sent to Egypt.

The opinion prevails that Arthur's candidacy for the presidency cannot secure half the delegates, and that if he should be nominated he would certainly be defeated by 100,000 votes.

Many of the Prussian officers have for a long time been learning Russian, and what is called the Russian Regiment is now studying it. Their knowledge of French was found very convenient in 1870-72, and one never knows when a language may come in usefully.

Not less than 15,000 families in New Brunswick depend almost wholly upon the lumber industry for their employment. This is for logging in the woods, driving on the streams, and sawing in the mills, and does not include shipbuilders employed in loading the deals.

Prince Hatfield, although a great dis-tiller, points out that the German revenue might easily be increased by raising the duty on spirits, which is only 0.98, against 9.68 in Holland, 2.10 in England, and 5.12 in Russia. This, however, might not suit distiller Bismarck, who drives "a roaring trade" in ardent spirits.

The British regiments now in Egypt will be filled to their maximum strength, making the total number of British troops in Egypt 10,000 men, and that several regiments are to be ordered to Egypt. The Dublin Fusiliers will start for that country on January 9th, and the Seventh Dragoons Guards, who are now under orders for India, will be sent to Egypt.

The shipments of cattle and sheep from the Dominion this year are far in advance of former years. The numbers exported from Canadian ports to date are, 50,655 cattle and 100,112 sheep.
Adding those for which space has been engaged from Halifax and Portland to the end of the year, these figures will be increased to 55,674 cattle and 113,725 sheep. The total shipments last year were: cattle, 38,738; sheep, 75,906.
