Annual Club Dinner at Grand Falls

Lord Northcliffe and Mr. M. J. Beaton, President of the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Co. Ltd., entertained at dinner the members of the Grand Falls Club. Besides the members there was present a party of guests now at the Grand Falls House, composed of the following gentlemen:—A. Caird, Esq., of the London "Daily Mail"; T. Wells, Esq., Harold Child, of the Times; C. F. Hart, Esq., Newton Horn, Esq., H. F. Wakefield, Esq., an from St. John's, Hon. P. T. McGrath and Mr. H. W. LeMessurier.

Quite an elaborate display of decorations made the Hall very attractive. The menu was provided by Mr. and Mrs. George McPherson, and would do credit to a town of very much greater pretensions. The toast list was as follows:

"The King"—Prop. the Chairman, "A. N. D. Co. Ltd."—Prop. Mr. T. F. Judge, Resp. Mr. M. J. Beaton.

"Lord Northcliffe"—Prop. Mr. P. T. McGrath, Resp. Lord Northcliffe.

"Shareholders"—Prop. Mr. V. S. Jones, Resp. Mr. A. Caird.

"Grand Falls Club"—Prop. Mr. H. W. LeMessurier, Resp. Mr. M. J. Beaton.

In proposing the toast of "The King" Mr. Beaton referred to the loyalty of the hardy native population for which they have been famous for generations.

THE NEW ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT.

Mr. Judge recalled the early days of the Company's existence, in which a new industrial era dawned on this country, one that was a change in the life of the inhabitants in as much as it provided a means of livelihood away from the sea. In the beginning two thoughts were expressed, one by the Chief "We Englishmen may not be brilliant and theatrical like our friends across the water, but we are thorough," the other by the Captain of this industry, Mr. Beaton, "We came to Newfoundland with an open eye, an open heart, and with a determined purpose." In spite of many obstacles, hard winters, and hot summers, and a thousand other difficulties they have won out. They have made promises and they have fulfilled them as far as the people of Newfoundland are concerned. In a little example of the Westinghouse Electric Co. who were introduced over a financial crisis by the sale of its own grateful employees, Mr. Beaton gave a strong argument in favour of a loyal spirit, and Mr. Judge, in this spirit of hearty local cooperation he would like to see in Grand Falls, and when it would appear the owners would be happy, the shareholders would be happy and the employees would be happy.

MR. BEATON'S RESPONSE.

In reply to the above Mr. M. J. Beaton thanked Mr. Judge and referred to his long service in the building up of the electrical part of the Mills here, and mentioned what would be the next development that his genius would bring forth. His name will be carved in the annals of the Company. He became one of Mr. Hardy's (whose name should be carved in letters of gold) trusted servants, and made good from the day he started. The magnificent decorations that greeted Lord Northcliffe and his guests on their arrival in Grand Falls were the work of his and his brother's high qualifications. It gave him great pleasure to announce that hereafter Mr. Judge would be second in command in Grand Falls, filling the position of Assistant Superintendent that is now vacant by the resignation of Mr. M. S. Sullivan. (Applause). Mr. Beaton (the Superintendent) pleasure is only equalled by the popularity of Mr. Judge in the mill where he is known.

"As we welcome the coming, so we speed the parting guest," Mr. Sullivan, whose ready wit and kindly demeanour has made him well known and liked by all, is going to leave his bark in other waters, and enters with him the regret of all at his departure and the best wishes for his future prosperity. He is one of the pioneers of Grand Falls, coming in the beginning with the veritable "three sacks of flour and ten tent" and following the fortunes of the Company for eight years; and his experience has gained whether of a surveyor or in the paper mill will stand him in good stead. Mr. Beaton, also referred to his services to the Club of which he was President, in which capacity he proved his efficiency by the continued success and prosperity that has followed through from its inception.

The speaker explained that the function of the Annual Club Dinner was not only a dinner to the men

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mr. B. Parsons, of The Evening Telegram Press-room staff, is in town on a holiday. He is staying at the Cochrane.

Mr. Ernest Sheppard has his motor boat fitted up for a harbor ferry, and expects to get word to take up the service soon. Mr. Sheppard is a native of this town, is trying to build up the place, and his appointment to the position will be hailed with pleasure by our people of all political persuasions.

We received by this morning's mail a communication from an unknown friend (?) giving us credit for the able and thoughtful writings of your correspondent "Mary." But, in justice to him as well as to your fair correspondent we may assure him that his paper, envelope and stamp, and last and not least, his brains are all wasted on the wrong man.

Mrs. Arthur Colbourne, of Twillingate who, spent a few days here with her sister, Mrs. A. Dwyer, left for home by the s.s. Kyle on Tuesday evening.

Painters will soon go to work on the new public building, Water St. It would be nice if the work could be completed in time to have a grand opening before the election. Time is getting short, and our friends of the Government side will have to get a hustle on.

Miss Dorothy Baird and Master Mak. Baird, of St. John's, who were spending some time with friends at the Goulds, took a run down here last week and remained a few days at Woodbine Cottage. They returned by Wednesday evening's train.

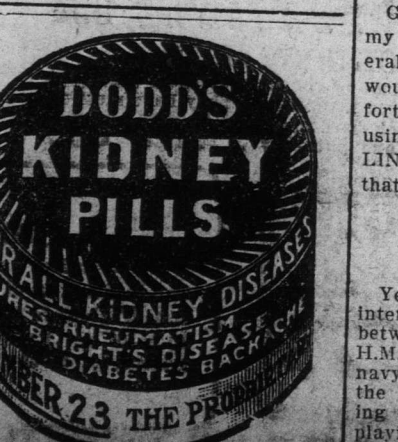

A gentleman in town asked a few days ago of a gentleman in a position to give an answer, why was it that Harbor Grace had only about 20 street lights and Carboneau had over 50, and did Mr. Goodison have more pull with the Government than our man. The answer he was given was that on account of the reduction of lights could be given Harbor Grace at present. We must be a sweeter people than our friends of our sister town of Carboneau.

Stocks Increased.

The accompanying has been received from Oporto:—"Stocks of British fish have increased since the date of last report. The demand however, is fair and prices have been maintained. Owing to the competition of German fish the sales of Norwegian cure are moderate. Rain fell last week but not in sufficient quantity to do much good."

Pointers.

The Grabballs must go because the people say so.

Vote for Bond and clean Government.

The slogan "Bond Can't Lose" is heard throughout the city and in every home where graft does not prevail.

Even the women are on to it and some of the heart-broken Tory hangers-on admit it.

"We wonder who Morris is going to get third man in the West End. He knows that Morris won't be elected. He is afraid of Mayor Ellis. You have good reason to be. Ned. Your defeat is certain. The whole country is against you."

The three M's. Morris-Morison-McGrath. What a cute admixture. If my main object in life was what the man on the street calls political success, I might have taken pattern by Sir E. P. Morris, who is such a warm friend of Temperance Reformers and Rummellers alike at one and the same time.

What peculiar traits of character Morris has to be sure, but not so for Donald. Why butter wouldn't melt in his mouth.

To-Day's Shoot.

NAVY vs CITY.

The city team to contest with eight representatives from H.M.S. Sirius at Rifle Range this afternoon will be:—J. W. Morris, W. H. Rennie, W. J. Higgins, Eric S. Ayre, L. C. News, G. T. Carthy, E. McNab and G. Langmead. In the recent shoot the locals were victorious and to-day's result will be awaited with interest.

The city team defeated the Cornwall and looks forward to retaining their laurels in to-day's shoot.

The Way To Buy Bonds

Says the "Review of Reviews"—"In general, the way to buy bonds is not to bother nearly as much about the bonds as about the banker who sells them. Get a GOOD banker and then put it up to him hard. Ask him if the bonds in his latest circular are the best things he has for you. State your case plainly to him. When a banker knows that an investor is going to keep trading with him as long as he is treated right, and is not merely 'shopping around' the bank naturally gives 100 per cent. better service in the way of getting just the right thing."

Morris knows his defeat is certain in the West End and strange to say he has scheme enough to realize it too. He knows the Tory sentiment has disappeared and the big chief is kept busy these days concocting schemes. It is rumoured around that two Tories from the West End are kept in the West End as "Independents." The Tory leader is working for a split vote. But the sentiment of Liberalism is too strong for Morris's split and Mayor Ellis and his two men will be returned triumphantly in November.
