VICTORIA WILL STAY.

Her Majesty Said to Have No Idea of Abdicting.

London, Jan. 8 .- (Julian Ralph's cable to the New York Journal.)-The legend of Queen Victoria's approaching abdication is now quite an old friend. In the Jubilee year many people had quite comfortably fixed this little family arrangement up. It was so natural, so just and so obvious, they said. Now the same people are saying the same thing, with the happy iousness, if they would only admit it, that the Queen is resolved to reign on during the rest of her natural life. Despite her bodily infirmity, which practically reduced her to carpaired her knowledge of affairs, her practical common-sense and her sound judgment, and is probably a better monarch than any possible living successor would be. Sentiment apart, her retirement would not be popular, and it certainly would not be practical nor desirable from a British point of view.

The Causes That Led to the Libel Suit.

Her Ladyship and Colleagues Sent Down for Eight Months Each.

London, Jan. 8 .- The Russell-Scott criminal libel suit was a sequel to the difficulties which have existed between Earl Russeli and his wife for a number of years. In 1891 Countess Russell, formerly Miss Mabel Scott, daughter of Lady Scott, brought suit against her husband for divorce, and Constantinople, Jan. 8 .- Owing to in her complaint made accusations against him of a most shocking character, accusing him not only of cruelty but of crimes of a most revolting nasuit suffering a complete breakdown, and she was condemned to pay the costs of the action, amounting to over $25,000.

Earl Russell then secured a judicial separation from his wife, but about two years ago the countess sued for a restoration of conjugal rights and was again defeated. The suit was followed by an action brought by H. A. Roberts, master of secured a verdict for $15,000. John Cockerton, an engineer, and Frederick Kast, a groom, were arrested in connection with the case. Wm.
