Mr. Doyle—Dear Sir—Take pleasure in informing you that the Liniment you recommended to me for my leg, which was broken and very much swollen some time ago, and which at times has caused me much pain, so much so that I had to quit work, has done for me all you said it would do, and my leg is much stronger and better than it has been for a Farewell Dinners and Presentations Were Much in Vogue Last Evening.

Major Duncan Stuart, whose appointment to the command of the company from the London district is most popular, both in and out of military circles, was given a farewell dinner at Wolsey Barracks last night by the officers of the barracks. A number of prominent citizens were in attendance, including Col. Holmes, Col. Buchanan, Lieut.-Col. Hegler (Ingersoll), Lieut.- Col. McEwen (commanding officer of the Middlesex Battalion, in which Major Stuart holds a commission), Rev. Canon Dann (chaplain of the Twenty-sixth), Mayor Wilson, Thomas Beattie, M.P., Capt. W. J. Reid, Major Cronyn, C. S. Hyman, Capt. Brown, Capt. Smith, Capt. Niven and Lieut.
Ross (second in command of the London company).

Col. Holmes proposed the health of Major Stuart and Lieut. Ross, and eulogistic speeches followed. The gathering dispersed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Earlier in the day Major Stuart was presented with a handsome and valuable binocular glass by his fellow-members of the Snake Island Fishing Club, of this city. The gift was suitably inscribed.

COLOR-SERGE. GEO. SIPPY DINED.

Lieuts. Becher and Harris entertained the officers of B company, together with some of the soldiers of the South Africa contingent, at the Palace Cafe last night. It was in the nature of a farewell to Color-Serge. George Sippy, one of the most popular of the noncoms, in the Seventh. Host Kennedy provided an excellent spread. The occasion was a most picturesque one, while there was natural sorrow on account of losing Sergt. Sippy, this cast no gloom over the evening, and the boys needed no encouragement to vote anyone a "jolly good fellow." Some of those present were:
Capt. Smith, Lieuts. Becher and Harris, Sergt. Major Gregory, Color-Serge.
Sippy, Sergts. Macbeth, Footitt, Flett, Pope and Booth, Corps. E. N. Hannah, Reid, Noble and Stuart Hannah.
Toasts were drunk to the Queen, the contingent, Col. Smith, Capt. Walter Smith, the veterans and the guests, and were warmly responded to. Sergt.
Sippy, replying to the toast to "Our Guest," thanked the men for showing such kindness to him, assuring them of his appreciation of their company and his comrades, and of his delight at being one of the Canadian contingent.
He was presented, on behalf of the company, with a handsome and valuable binocular glass by his fellow-members of the company who will journey to South Africa with the London contingent. After the appetizing meal had been disposed of praises for the volunteers were voiced by the orators of the company.

EVIDENCES OF FRIENDSHIP.

Mr. Fred Evans, who joined the London Company yesterday, has spent five years with a British regiment in South Africa, and has trekked through the country in which the fighting is now taking place. Mr. Evans belonged to the Royal Medical Corps, having taken a course at Aldershot, and was on the expedition to Bechuanaland in 1884 and 1885. He was in charge of hospitals at Rourke's Drift, Zululand, and other places. Since coming to London, two years ago, Mr. Evans has made many friends here, and these, the number of 40 or 50, gathered at the Dominion House last evening to attend a farewell dinner, tendered by Mr.
John J. Cox, the proprietor of the hotel. The dining-room was tastefully decorated with flags and bunting, and the tables invitingly spread. During the evening Mr. Evans was the recipient of several valuable gifts. By Mr. Cox he was presented with a purse well-filled with gold, and from Mrs.
Cox he received a handsome Bible. On behalf of his admirers generally, Mr.
Evans was handed a beautiful gold locket set with a large diamond and suspended from a gold clasp. Inscribed on the locket were the words:
"Fred Evans, from his London friends on his departure for the Transvaal, 1899." A neatly-worded address accompanied the gift. Mr. Fred Dunn made the presentation and Mr. Fred Burton read the address.

Make This Note

In your memorandum book: "Fit-Reform" is not made to order, but is made to fit."

After all it is only a question of fit. "If that suit would only fit me I should be in the biggest kind of luck," says an occasional passer-by, "but it won't," and on he goes. If he would only come in and try on a suit he would find that he was one of five shapes: "Regular," "slim," "short-stout," "tall-stout" or "stout," and that the suit was all of $5 cheaper than the tailor's.

It is costly to pass by some times.

Suits—$10, $12, $15, $18, $20.

Overcoats—$10, $12, $15, $18, $20, $25.

Trousers, $3, $4, $5.

Matrimonial

SHEPHERD-CARSON.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place Oct. 18, at noon, under gas-light, at "Maple Villa," the comfortable residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. E.
Carson, Listowel, when their daughter, Miss Gertrude Carson, and Mr. Morley W. Shepherd, of Toronto, were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Shepherd, father of the bridegroom, and principal of Mount Elgin Institute (who also officiated at the marriage of the bride's parents), Rev. Henry Irvine, pastor of the Methodist Church, assisting. The groom, supported by Mr. Murray Tait, of Knox College, Toronto, had only taken his place, awaiting the coming of the bride, when the bridesmaid, Miss Shepherd, sister of the groom, prettily gowned in organdy over pink, and carrying pink roses entered the drawing room. Then, to the sweet strains of the Wedding March, played by Miss Godfrey, the bright and happy bride, leaning upon the arm of her father, followed, beamingly attired in a robe of cream-colored silk, with chif-fon trimmings, carrying bridal roses, and wearing the tulle veil and organza blossoms worn by the bride's mother at her marriage. After the ceremony and wedding breakfast, at which only a few of the near relatives of the bride and groom were present, reception was held for one hour, the bride and groom receiving in the drawing room, where a large number of invited guests found them quickly, without announcement, and having offered good wishes proceeded to the tastefully decorated dining-room, where light refreshments were served.

The presents, which were valuable and useful were arranged on the table, and while they were viewed by the many guests, suitable selections of music were rendered. As the bride appeared in her going-away gown of blue-gray covert cloth, and accompanied by her father, she handed her bride's roses to a number of young lady friends awaiting her departure. The groom's present to the bride was a pearl and diamond necklace, and to the bride's maid a solitaire diamond ring. The happy couple left by the afternoon train for Toronto, followed by the congratulations and good wishes of their many friends.

HARDING-BRADLEY.

A pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mrs. Francis Harding, 334 Herrick avenue, Tuesday afternoon, at half past five o'clock, when Miss Eliza, youngest daughter of the bride, was married to Mr. Robert W.
Bradley, son of Mr. Ceylon R. Bradley, Rev. Dr. S. W.
Homer, of Lincoln Avenue M. E.
Church, officiating. The bride was attired in a gown of white organdy and white satin, with Valenciennes lace satin ribbons, and carried white roses.
The bridesmaid, Miss Laura Harding, sister of the bride, wore white organdy and carried pink roses. Mr.
Robert W. Bradley acted as best man.
Little Eleanor Jerome was ring bearer, and Miss Florence McDiarmid flower girl. After the wedding supper was served the happy couple repaired to the residence of the groom's father, Mr. A. E. Bradley, 237 Putnam avenue, where a reception was held from 8 to 10 o'clock. Hovey's Mandolin Orchestra discouraged pleasant music while refreshments were being served. Among the invited guests present were Mr. and Mrs. James Harding, of Thorn-dale, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Miss Maude Gerry, of London, Ont.
Mr. and Mrs. Bradley will be at home to friends after Nov. 1, at 509 Brooklyn avenue, Detroit.
