ANGER COURT IN COURT FINES DEALERS FOR BRANDS CLAIMS

DELORME TRIAL Merchant Admits Son Neglected To

Health board officials are apparently determined to push their campaign for pure foods and drinks to the limit. In police court Friday morning, two milk men were fined $5 and costs each because the percent age of butter fat in their supply was not high enough, and two fruit dealers were charged with offering fruit and vegetables for sale, which were exposed to flies and dirt.

One milkman admitted that when his son took the milk around his route, he neglected to stir it. Therefore, some of the customers got all the cream, while others got which had a very low butter fat percentage.

According to health officials, much of this could be avoided if the milk was delivered in bottles instead of in Omer Noel, assistant medical officer

Read This:

"The man who forms wise investment habits early in life rarely needs to face old age with misgiving. It is the speculator who takes a little flier in this or that offering which holds out the lure of a quick return and large profits, who finds himself in poverty in his declining years, or absolutely dependent upon others for his sustenance.

"The wise investment of savings is the groundwork in the process of building up an independent income. While to the man of small salary this may seem a tedious course to pursue, yet in his case there is the more reason why he should strictly adhere to such a policy, as he cannot afford to gamble with his means in some unknown and untried project
