I'd like to have two or three more coming in the house every month, but don't know what to order."

Mrs. Kelly, can know—very easily. So can you, if you wish.

SUGAR BEET PRODUCTION HERE

The development of the sugar beet industry in the counties of Kent, Lambton and Essex stands out as one of the most successful exploitations of natural resources in Ontario.

Prior to 1902 some farmers in that part of the province were engaged in growing sugar beets for refineries operating in Michigan, but upon realizing the possibilities of the soil of this area for the culture of this commodity and the opportunity for increasing the domestic production of sugar, some enterprising Canadians were successful in securing capital in substantial sums for the erection of a beet sugar refinery at Wallaceburg.

This plant, with a capacity of 1250 tons per day, was placed in operation in 1902. The original undertaking has since expanded and the company has been operating another refinery with a capacity of 1500 tons per day in Chatham since 1916. Today this industry forms a very important feature in both the agricultural and industrial life of Western Ontario.

Its importance may be judged from the fact that the area planted to sugar beets has increased from 6927 acres in 1909, to over 31,000 acres in 1924, when a gross revenue was realized of approximately $2,500,000. The production of sugar amounted to about 90,000,000 pounds, at an estimated value of $5,500,000. This is an outstanding illustration of the importance of manufacturing finished products from native resources at home and in that way distributing a fair proportion of the increased value among Canadian citizens, says the natural resources intelligence service of the department of the interior. It furthermore demonstrates the success that has attended the efforts of those who initiated the culture of this product, after a thorough study was made of the suitability of the soil for the production of special products, and the markets of the refined products.

The average tonnage per acre has steadily increased, and reached about 9.5 tons in 1924. The average test of sugar in the beet, during the early days of the industry, ranged from 12 to 15 per cent, but of late years has gradually increased, and an average of 13 to 18 per cent, has been generally obtained, some individual tests showing as high a sugar content as 24.6 per cent.

This gradual improvement is largely attributable to the close co-operation of the company with the beet growers. The agriculturalists of the company visit the beet fields periodically, take beet samples, have sugar tests made, and in addition to arranging the timely distribution of the necessary labor, act in an advisory capacity during the weeding, thinning growing and harvesting seasons.

Blemishes of the Skin

Are Proof the Blood is in a Weak and Watery Condition

One of the surest signs that the blood is out of order are the pimples and unsightly eruptions that break out on the face and body. The same condition is indicated by an attack of eczema or scrofula. You cannot get rid of these troubles by the use of purgative medicines, as so many people try to do. Purgatives merely gallop through the system and leave it still weaker. What is needed when the blood is shown to be out of order is a tonic which will restore its missing elements and leave the blood rich and red. For this purpose there is no other tonic can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, every dose of which helps enrich the blood, drives out impurities, and brings a new feeling of health and energy. Mrs. R.E. Bishop, Hawthorne Ave., Hamilton, Ont., tells for the benefit of others what these pills did for her. She says:—"I was suffering terribly from scrofula. I doctored with several doctors, but without success. My complexion was sallow, I had no strength, feeling very weak and languid. My neck was full of lumps called scrofula, and at times they were very painful. After trying several so-called blood medicines, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended to me and I got half a dozen boxes. After taking them I found a decided improvement in my appearance, and to my joy the lumps were disappearing from my neck. I persevered in the treatment, and finally the only sign left of the trouble was a scar on my neck where one of the swellings broke. Since that time I have been in robust health and heartily recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to any suffering from impure blood."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
