

LAW SOCIETY, TRINITY TERM.

Method is essential, and enables a larger amount of work to be got through with satisfaction. "Method," said Cecil (afterwards Lord Burleigh), "is like packing things in a box; a good packer will get in half as much again as a bad one." Cecil's despatch of business was extraordinary, his maxim being, "The shortest way to do many things is to do only one thing at once."

The rights of women is a pet theory in the United States; it will be gratifying, perhaps, to those unhappy bachelors who dread being crowded out by the female sex, to know that there has recently been published in Philadelphia a work called, "Husband's Law of Married Women," unless, indeed, this is henpecked husband.

Henri de Tourville, the Englishman, who was convicted by an Austrian tribunal and sentenced to death for wife murder, and whose sentence was afterwards commuted to one of twenty years' penal servitude, has been disbarred, and his name removed from the list of members of the Honourable Society of the Middle Temple.

The attorney for a cabman who had been knocked off his box and injured, said: "The particulars speak with mute eloquence; and I may say for my client, with Mark Antony, his scars shall plead his cause." Counsel: "After this Roman eloquence, I beg to object that the particulars are insufficient."

DRACONIAN (Scene—Police Court, North Highlands).—Accused—"Put, Pailie, it's na provit!" Bailie—"Hoots toots, Tonal, and hear me speak! Aw'll only fine ye ha'-a-croon the day, because et's no varra well provit. But if ever ye come before me again, ye'll no get aff under five shillin's whether et's provit or no!"—Punch.
