

The Irish in the Army.—There are many other regiments in which the number of Irishmen is very large, but the Sixty-ninth is looked on, and spoken of, as peculiarly the representative of the Irish-born in our army, because it is wholly composed of such. We are glad then to find unbounded praise attributed to this regiment, wherever it goes, for the behavior of its members, both as soldiers and as men. A few days ago the Mayor of Georgetown had occasion to address a note of etiquette to the Colonel of this regiment, in which he makes a point of saying:—"It is but a sheer act of justice to your distinguished regiment to say, as I do now, with a great deal of pleasure, that since its very welcome arrival here its members have conducted themselves with a propriety of conduct that has attracted the admiration and respect of this whole community. Indeed, so quiet and unobtrusive have been your soldiers that, but for their imposing march into our town some weeks since, we should hardly have been aware of their presence. I trust you are aware of our high appreciation of the valor and patriotism which have prompted the Sixty-ninth regiment to repair here for the defence of our homes, our lives, and our capital, and how much we would regret any discourtesy to friends to whom we owe a debt of gratitude that can never be cancelled."

The Soupers and the War.—We notice that the Colporteurs and Bible Societies are particularly active just now in driving a brisk trade of old Bibles, tracts, sermons, et id hoc omnia genus literature among the benighted and heathen soldiery. This war has been a perfect God sent to the soupers, rangers, and Bible Societies, in enabling them to get off their stock on hand, which they feared would prove a dead loss, since the Protestant Church of England has ignored the authority of the Bible; and, consequently, on the next anniversary of the Bible Societies, we shall hear of an incredible number of Bibles, distributed, sinners reclaimed, and marvels wrought. By the bye, a friend of ours, a Catholic, who has volunteered for the war, was presented by one of these sleek and unctuous disciples of Luther with a copy of Spurgeon—doubtless for the sulphur contained in it; it would not be discreet perhaps to mention the ignominious use our young friend put it to. Doubtless, the rest of the godless soldiers will put them to a similar use, or else they will come in extremely handy for making cartridges. But badinage apart, this Bible distributing among the soldiers forcibly reminds us of the days of the Round-heads and Cavaliers, the Praise-God-bare-bones, &c., when the reading of the Scriptures was interlarded with oaths and blasphemy. Are the soupers taking advantage of the times to make converts among the Catholic soldiers who crowd all our regiments? If the soupers be advised, they may as well save themselves the trouble.—Corr. N. Y. Nation.

Southern Sentiment.—Virginia is invaded. That horde of thieves, robbers and assassins in the pay of Abraham Lincoln, commonly known as the army of the United States, have rushed into the peaceful streets of a chief city of the State, and stained the heart of Virginia homes with the blood of her sons. Alexandria has been captured without resistance, for none had been prepared. The city was left [perhaps with strategic reason] without a picket guard, and no attempt has ever been made to blow up or batter down the bridge across the Potomac River, over which the troops of Lincoln marched to it. One trait of true heroism has signalled this unhappy affair. A citizen of Alexandria, named Jackson, lacked the prudence to haul down the flag of his country, which streamed over his dwelling. That band of execrable cut-throats and jail-birds known as the "Zouaves of New York," under the chief of scoundrels, called Col. Ellsworth, surrounded the house of this Virginian, and broke open the door to tear the flag of the South. The courageous owner of that hero neither fled nor submitted. He met the favorite hero of every Yankee there in his hall, he alone against thousands and shot him through the heart? As a matter of course, the magnanimous soldier surrounded him, and hacked him to pieces with sword and bayonets, on the spot, in his own violated home. But he died a death which emperors might envy, and his memory will live in history, and in the hearts of his countrymen, throughout endless generations. Here, indeed, was courage! The true courage, that would not yield or swerve before a million. He stood by his flag; he fell alone in defence of his hearth, and taught the invader what soil he trod on. Apart from the sufferings of our devoted countrymen in Alexandria, the capture of the city in itself is not important.

We care not to trace the causes of the strife, though it were not irrelevant to do so. But we state a truism when we say that private ambitions, a licentious press, and a pulpit deenerated, are the criminals in this case. It is notorious that the abuse of those two engines of popular influence, the Protestant clerical forum, and the newspaper press, have nursed the bitterness that is fermenting now in the American heart, and which is about to find its vent in fraternal carnage. We state another fact which is not so obvious, but which is not less sure. If this full result be reached, and the fruit ripe, both that Press and that Pulpit will meet a fatal retribution. The one will have lost its liberty, the other its influence, and the balance will hang even, in accordance with an inflexible rule of compensation. Impress this nation with a military direction—keep them some time in camps and campaigns, with their license and their despotic needs and see whether present ideas and influences will obtain again among them.—N. Y. Freeman

SLAVE INSURRECTION.—The Des Arc (Ark.) Citizen of May 15th gives the following account of the hanging of a white man and three negroes for their efforts to get up a negro insurrection.—"On neighbors of Hickory Plain and vicinity, 14 miles west of Des Arc, after a patient investigation before a Committee of twenty-five on Friday last, in accordance with the verdict of said Committee, proceeded to a spot designated, and to a tree having a long projecting limb, said limb being stout and well proportioned, whereupon they hung, until they were dead, Tom Williamson, a white man, and three negroes, Big Dave, Lewis, and Jeff. Williamson was convicted as the leader of an insurrection, and the negroes as aiders and abettors. The balance of the negroes implicated have been whipped severely and not less than three of them were banished from the country."

The slaves in Mississippi are said to be growing extremely restive, and several have been shot for attempting to incite negro insurrections. All persons holding converse with slaves are narrowly watched; and the laws, which have heretofore been a dead letter, requiring a certain number of whites to each hundred blacks on every plantation are now rigidly enforced.

SAYING PEACE, PEACE WHEN THERE IS NO PEACE.—The American Peace Society, says a New York contemporary were slightly staggered at their annual meeting the other day. All agreed that peace is an excellent thing—there was not a doubt on that point—but that same submission to the Jeff. Davis conspiracy would be a good exemplification of Peace principles, did not seem by any means so clear. Mr. Lewis Tappan though it would not, and the Society very generally assented. Mr. Elihu Burritt though we might have avoided this war by offering to buy and emancipate the slaves when he started that project some years ago. If Mr. Burritt had traversed the South, explaining and commending his scheme of Compensated Emancipation, and had returned to report that he had been favorably heard and not tarred and cottoned; there would have been some possibility in his guess; now there is none. Finally, the Society concluded that President Lincoln is a first-rate Peace man, which, since he has called for One Hundred Thousand more Volunteers, we heartily agree to. So, having established a unanimity of sentiment and reached a safe conclusion, the society adjourned without day.

The New York Tribune contains the following graphic paragraph:—"The fabric of New-York's mercantile prosperity lies in ruins, beneath which ten thousand fortunes are buried. Many a merchant had toiled early and late, had planned and schemed when he should have slept, had denied himself needful relaxation and enjoyment, in order to 'make his pile,' which he had just about completed, and was preparing to retire and spend the decline of life in ease and comfort, when the crash came and swept everything before it. Last Fall, he was a capitalist; to-day he is bankrupt—bankrupt in energy, in hope, in resolution—and doomed to go down to his grave a dependent and a wreck."

The Southern negro is usually a fat, oily, laughing, thoughtless semi-savage. Give him each week his prescribed three pounds of pork, his peck of meal, quart of molasses (winter), his pound of salt, when he has swamp work, his nightly glass of whiskey, and he is happy. His fun is buffoonery and practical joking; and religion generally a methodism, degraded almost to fetishism. He is naturally a low order of being, and slavery keeps him so. I do not think with all its faults, that slavery lowers the American negro; but it certainly prevents him ever wishing to be a nobler creature. Let the plantation-black set his deer-trap, snare racoons or wild turkeys, keep his fowls and hogs (half fed on stolen goods) to sell to massa at the big house, kill game for the same purpose, work moderately, and in spare time grow enough cotton to make up a bale a year, let him look after his garden, and he will be (if the overseer is kind) one of the most careless and happy creatures in the wide world. Give the blacks in addition, on certain feast-days, "a regular breakdown" ball, and they are happier beings than half England, with all its freedom and religion, could furnish. I am not saying this to defend slavery; for I think no human being is good enough to be able to use justly supreme power over another; and even if such a rare bird could be found, I find no such power ever delegated by God to man. But I say it, because I think much wifely and dangerous nonsense is talked about the slave, whom Mrs Stowe represents as perpetually praying in chains, being whipped. I should rather draw slaves with more truth, as always idling, laughing, or eating; and considering that they are well-fed and clothed, have no taxes or other civic cares, and are seldom, if honest and industrious, ill-treated, I do not see why they should not eat and laugh, especially as their small brains seem almost incapable of higher pleasure.—Temple Bar.

A Good Story.—The Charlestonians tell a good story at their own expense, which well illustrates the want of discipline. A company was keeping guard at the Arsenal. The Colonel of the regiment passing by, saw the sentinel inattentive to his duty. He took away his gun, then entered the arsenal. A subordinate officer was concocting a cocktail. "Where is the Captain?" the Colonel asked. "Up stairs." "Please say to him that I want to see him." "Well, after I take a drink," said the subaltern. After swallowing his toddy, he went up stairs to the Captain. "The Colonel is down stairs, and wants to see you Captain." "Well, if he wants to see me more than I do him just tell him to walk up," said the Captain, who was lying on a bed. The Colonel went up stairs, and found the Captain taking things easy. "Sir, you ought to be drilling your company. Your sentinel don't know how to do his duty, and I took his gun away from him." "Well, I dare say he will be much obliged to you I reckon he was tired of carrying it."

The Syrian difficulty continues to attract a good deal of attention in Paris and in London. It is said in some quarters that the French occupation will terminate in the early part of June; in others, that Louis Napoleon has no intention of withdrawing his troops. If certain bellicose letter writers in Paris are to be believed, Lord John Russell has requested Lord Cowley to inform the French Minister that in the event of the French troops remaining, a British force will, with the consent of the Sultan's government, occupy St. Jean d'Acre, and will remain there as long as the French continue.

DIPHTHERIA.

We are informed that a sure specific for that DREARILY DISEASE, DIPHTHERIA and sore throat, now prevailing to such an alarming extent, is Perry Davis' Pain Killer. It is used as a gargle to the throat, mixed with water—two parts water and one Pain Killer. It will quickly cure the disease, and never fail, if applied in time. As soon as the throat shows any signs of soreness, gargle with Pain Killer as above prescribed, and in bad cases, use it freely to bathe the neck. This should be made known to the world, and we advise every one afflicted to give it a trial. It is sold by medicine dealers generally. Read what Dr. WALKER writes us from Coshocton, Ohio: "I am happy to inform you that the PAIN KILLER cures this new disease, Diphtheria or Sore Throat, that is prevailing to so alarming an extent in this section of the country." On Walnut Creek, Holmes County, they use scarcely any other remedy, and it has never been known to fail in a single instance when used in time. This fact should be made known to the world.

The stain on linen from the use of the Pain Killer is easily removed by washing it in alcohol. Davis' Pain Killer seems particularly efficacious in cholera morbus, bowel complaints, and other diseases to which the natives of Burmah, from their unwholesome style of living, are peculiarly exposed. It is a valuable antidote to the poison of Centipedes, Scorpions, hornets, &c.
