After installing the . . .

SAFFORD RADIATORS

in your building they need never be replaced—They are indestructible.

The construction of this Radiator is simple beyond comparison: There is no red lead, or any bolts or packing used. The connections are made with Screwed Nipples, especially designed by us for connecting Hot Water and Steam Radiators. In these Screwed Nipple Joints lies the simple secret of the "SAFFORD'S" success, and no other radiator made has this ingenious invention, because every machine and tool used in its construction is fully protected by patents which we hold.

Non-Leakable

This is the great point of the "SAFFORD'S" universal usefulness. No bolts, no packing—nothing but a screwed pipe connection. The possibility of any leakage is out of the question. This also warrants a free and quick circulation of the heat.

The Safford Radiator is made in many designs and heights, and it will always be found graceful and pleasing in its lines and bulk.
